NOW UNDER SIEGE

Pretoria Being Bombarded by French's Cavalry

The Censor Very Busy Suppressing Dispatches—Only Official Messages Get Through—Rundle Lost 182 Men

In the advance of the Grenadiers Col. Lloyd led in the face of a deadly fire. He was hit, but struggled on only to be disabled by another bullet. Lieut. Murray falling, cried: "Forward, Grenadiers." The blinding smoke of the veldt hampered the operations.

Lieut. Lord Seymour on offering to go back to direct the artillery was wounded. The order to retire was given and executed under a screen of smoke. The Boer fire was kept up until dusk.

According to a despatch to the Daily Telegraph from New Castle dated Saturday, the Boers exhibited signs of leaving Laings Nek.

Newspaper commentaries here generally regard the situation in Pretoria as enigmatical. They rather expect news of the British occupation today.

In the Indian mail landed at Dover Saturday was a bag of despatches from Pretoria, including some from the Transvaal government to its agents abroad. The destination of the bag was Naples, but it was landed at Aden by a German steamer through a mistake and was shipped with the Indian mail to Prindisi, where is was taken up by the English authorities.

though fruitless, is a symptom that the Boers are not yet crushed. In General Rundle's attack on the entrenched Boers, seven miles east of Senekal, May 29, the British did not see a Boer all day, so completely were they screened. The British infantry did not get within 1,000 yards of their riflemen. The 182 losses wired by Lord Roberts were suffered by the Grenadiers and Scots Guards while advancing over a level from which the grass had been burned. The Britishers in khaki were a conspicuous target against the black background.

General Rundle withdrew his whole force at sundown to Senekal, having succeeded in drawing the Boers from Lindley allowing the threatened force to get away safely. The Boers sent to the British for medical help, saying that Commandant Devilliers was seriously wounded. General Rundle sent a doctor with a bottle of champagne and his compliments, as well as a message that he would release all the Boer prisoners at Senekal.

The Lourenzo Marques correspondent of the Times telegraphing June 2 says:

"An Austrian who was seven months in active service in the Transvaal declares that a large proportion of the burghers are deserting to their homes. The arrangement whereby the British prisoners at Pretoria have been placed until an armed guard with British officers, pending the formal occupation of the town is ascribed to the good sense and humane disposition of General Louis Botha, and the Transvaal war secretary, both of whom have earned the profound respect of all classes. It is interesting to note that Lord Roberts' soldierly qualities are admired greatly by both Boers and foreigners. It seems that the Boer attack upon Irene was intended to cover the withdrawal from Pretoria of all the supplies procurable. The last consignment was six hundred wagon loads."

KUMASSIE'S FATE

NOT YET KNOWN TO THE BRITISH

By Associated Press to The Sun.

LONDON, June 4.—The Daily Express has the following from Cape Coast Castle dated Saturday:

Fifteen hundred men are here and 590 hundred others are in Nigeria. It is expected that these with eight guns will go to Kumassie. It is reported that Capt. Hall has already retrieved Kumassie but the report is not confirmed.

LORD ROBERTS 25 MILES FROM PRETORIA

By Associated Press to The Sun.

LONDON, June 4.—4 a. m.— There is no direct news from Pretoria of later date than Thursday evening. General French's cavalry was then at Irene, eight miles south of Pretoria, and firing was heard there. Lord Roberts' messages about secondary operations elsewhere and the situation at Johannesburg, dated at Orange Grove, a farm four miles northeast of Johannesburg show that on Saturday at 9.10 p. m. he was 25 miles from Pretoria.

The correspondents with Lord Roberts have not got through a line about the operations after the occupation of Johannesburg. Official messages continue to come through, but press telegrams are held up, probably to avoid their giving even a hint as to what may be the pending operations. From the other side there filters through Lourenzo Marques a mass of statements, some contradictory, others obviously improbable, but the following purporting to be facts:

"Passengers arriving at Lourenzo Marques Saturday direct from Pretoria say that the capital was preparing to surrender when they left Thursday. The forts were dismantled. The Boer guard at Komati Poort searched all trains and turned back most of the fugitives, among them deserting foreigners who were striving to reach neutral soil.

"Immense Boer convoys of provisions are between Pretoria and Middleburg. Fifteen trains are sent daily to Machadsdoran with supplies for Lydenburg. Pretoria is pictured by the refugees as in a state of indescribable confusion and chaos. The populace are dismayed and the British are expected hourly."

Some foreign attaches have arrived at Lourenzo Marques to communicate with their governments for orders to leave, as they consider that organized war on the Transvaal side is at an end. Flying among the Boers are reports that the British have been beaten back at Lindley with heavy loss; that the main attack on Elandsfontein failed and Lord Roberts was forced to retire to Klipsriverberg; that the railway has been cut behind him south of Vereeniging and that a provision train has been captured.

Without crediting any of these Boer bulletins everything from the field of war behind Lord Roberts points to a great effort last week to paralyze his advance by a bold stroke from the eastward at the railway north of Bloemfontein. Unless four Boer columns were in a movement seemingly with this objective, there was a commando in front of General Brabant, near Ficksburg; another faced General Rundle, near Senekal, a third occupied Lindley, and pressed toward the railway, and a fourth seized Heilbron and pushed toward Kroonstad. These operations, assuming them to have been independent, all appear to have failed.

ONE MAN KILLED

Several Seriously Injured in Foxboro Fire

By Associated Press to The Sun.

TAUNTON, Mass., June 4.—A special from Foxboro, says:

This town is today dazed and panicstricken. The town hall was burned probably by an incendiary this morning and though it was early in the morning, yet it has resulted in the death of one citizens, the fatal injury of another and the serious injury of two others. The loss is $40,000 and the scholars in the high, grammar and three intermediate grades are now without a place to attend school.

This disaster coming so suddenly on the heels of the distraction of the big straw shop last week has benumbed and paralyzed the community and the people are standing on the street corners wondering at the outcome with the town's chief industry destroyed and no schools for the children to attend.

At a little before five o'clock this morning fire was discovered in the attic of the town hall, and though the department at once went to work, yet their efforts were in vain. Mansfield again sent her department to the aid of Foxboro and they did noble work, but the fire had gained such headway that nothing could stop it. Citizens by the hundreds crowded to the scene and when the big cupola fell it pinioned two firemen and two citizens to the ground. Eager men jumped to their rescue but it was seen that their efforts were in vain in at least one case as one man died after being taken from the ruins, one was sent to the Massachusetts General hospital and two will be cared for here at their homes.

Dead—George H. Joslin.

Injured—Arthur A. Joslin, leg broken and face smashed in, sent to Massachusetts General hospital; Samuel J. Johnson, shoulder and face hurt, may recover; Joseph Watkins, head and body badly wrenched and bruised.

The town records were saved. In the building was located the high, grammar, and three intermediate classes and everything in connection with the school work was destroyed. The loss is $40,000 and the insurance about $30,000. The fire is said to be of incendiary origin.

PATRICK LYNCH'S WILL.

By the will of the late Patrick Lynch, an old and prominent resident, who died several weeks ago at his home on Cross street, his daughter, Mrs. George Greene, is cut off with a dollar. This was due to her refusal to comply with his wishes in a business transaction after her marriage.

The rest of the estate, which is very valuable, is divided in four parts among his two sons, Andrew and Charles, another daughter, Miss Norah, and the children of the testator's son, the late John Lynch. The executor of the will is James Calnin.

AN UNKNOWN BOY

Found With Fractured Skull on Audubon Road

Only Word He Uttered Was "Mother"—Police Believe Murder Was Attempted

By Associated Press to The Sun.

BOSTON, June 4.—Unconscious and on the brink of death in the accident ward of the city hospital lies the young boy who was found in the bushes off Beacon street, on the Audubon road, late Saturday afternoon, suffering from a fractured skull and other injuries. He will probably die without recovering consciousness.

Mystery surrounds his identity and the identity of his assailants. That an attempt to murder the boy was made the police are certain. They worked unceasingly yesterday, but learned nothing of a definite nature to encourage them. Everything depends on their identifying the boy. If they succeed in this, they are confident they will be successful in naming those in whose company he was when he received his injuries.

The only theory which has come into the police mind is that the boy incurred the enmity of some person or persons on board his vessel and that he was either lured to the spot where he was found or was assaulted on the vessel and taken there to conceal the crime.

It is a sailor boy the hospital physicians have for a patient—a boy who has been away from home and loved ones evidently but a short time, and who may have been making his first trip at sea. Sixteen and not more than 17 years, the physicians guess his age to be.

That his home recently has been on the sea, and that it was a new life to him is evidenced by a diary which physicians found in his clothing yesterday. This diary dates only from May 1 and contains entries which one accustomed to sea voyages would hardly make. It is the only thing the police have to follow in the work of establishing his identity. Publicity given to the simple and boyish entries may lead to the solution of the mystery.

The diary had been kept on a sheet torn from an extra large pocket notebook. With a lead pencil he had numbered the days of May on both sides of the leaf and after about one-half of the numbers had written brief sentences in a schoolboy's hand.

From the heading of the diary, it be inferred that he was to get $15 monthly for his services. Under the date of May 7 he wrote, "I scraped the foremast;" under the date of May 5, "Left Sa-en 3 p. m." The third letter in the second word had been obliterated by a fold in the paper. The supposition is that he had written Salem. There is no evidence, however, that he did. Opposite May 18, he wrote "Drew 2 cents;" May 21, "20 cents;" May 12, "25 cents," and May 17, "Rain." On May 8 he wrote "Laid off until we start loading." On the folowing day he wrote "We start loading." The last entry in the diary was on May 28. On that day he wrote, "Drew 25 cents off pay."

There was nothing on the paper to indicate where his home was, where his vessel sailed from or its name. With the exception of the scrap of paper, there was but one other thing found in his pockets. That was a small piece of carbon paper, such as is commonly used in a pocket notebook. On the back of this piece of paper, which was inked only on one side, was written the name "Harold." It was evidently written by the person who had kept the diary. Whether it was the boy's name, one can only conjecture.

LEARY'S SALOON

Shut Because He Forgot to Settle

TOWN EMPLOYEES PAID OFF

New Town Meeting Will be Called

With two licenses within a stone's throw of each other at the Navy Yard, there promises to be some exciting competition between the dealers, Geo. Ducey and John T. Leary. Both places opened on Friday with business rushing. On Saturday the townspeople were surprised to find Leary's place closed and Ducey doing business alone. It seems that Leary opened up without having paid for his license and as the result of a complaint to the selectmen, he was ordered to close until he had settled.

Saturday was pay day at the town office and all employed by the town who were unable to get their money on account of the town meeting muddle were paid off.

A town meeting will probably be called in about two weeks to give the citizens an opportunity to vote on the proposed additions to the Collinsville and Parker Avenue schools.

SMALLPOX RUMOR

Caused Considerable Anxiety in Belvidere Today

AN ASH ST. RESIDENT REPORTED INFECTED

Health Authorities Found no Smallpox

THE ROBILLARD FAMILY LEAVES HOSPITAL

The Child Having Completely Recovered

The residents of Ash street and vicinity were much disturbed this morning over the report that a child named Ward living in A. G. Thompson's tenement block at 31 Ash street, was affected with small-pox.

As a result of the report which started early in the day a few children attending the High street primary school were kept at home by their parents and the health authorities were notified.

The mother of the child states that the little one is suffering from the results of vaccination and has no serious or contagious ailment.

Agent Knapp sent his men to investigate a similar report from Belvidere yesterday and found it without foundation. This forenoon he had the Ward case investigated and found no cause for alarm.

The small-pox patients and others detained at the contagious hospital are doing nicely and the entire Robillard family of five persons will be discharged today, the Robillard child having completely recovered from her illness. The Brady children are progressing finely.

LAST NIGHT'S FIRE.

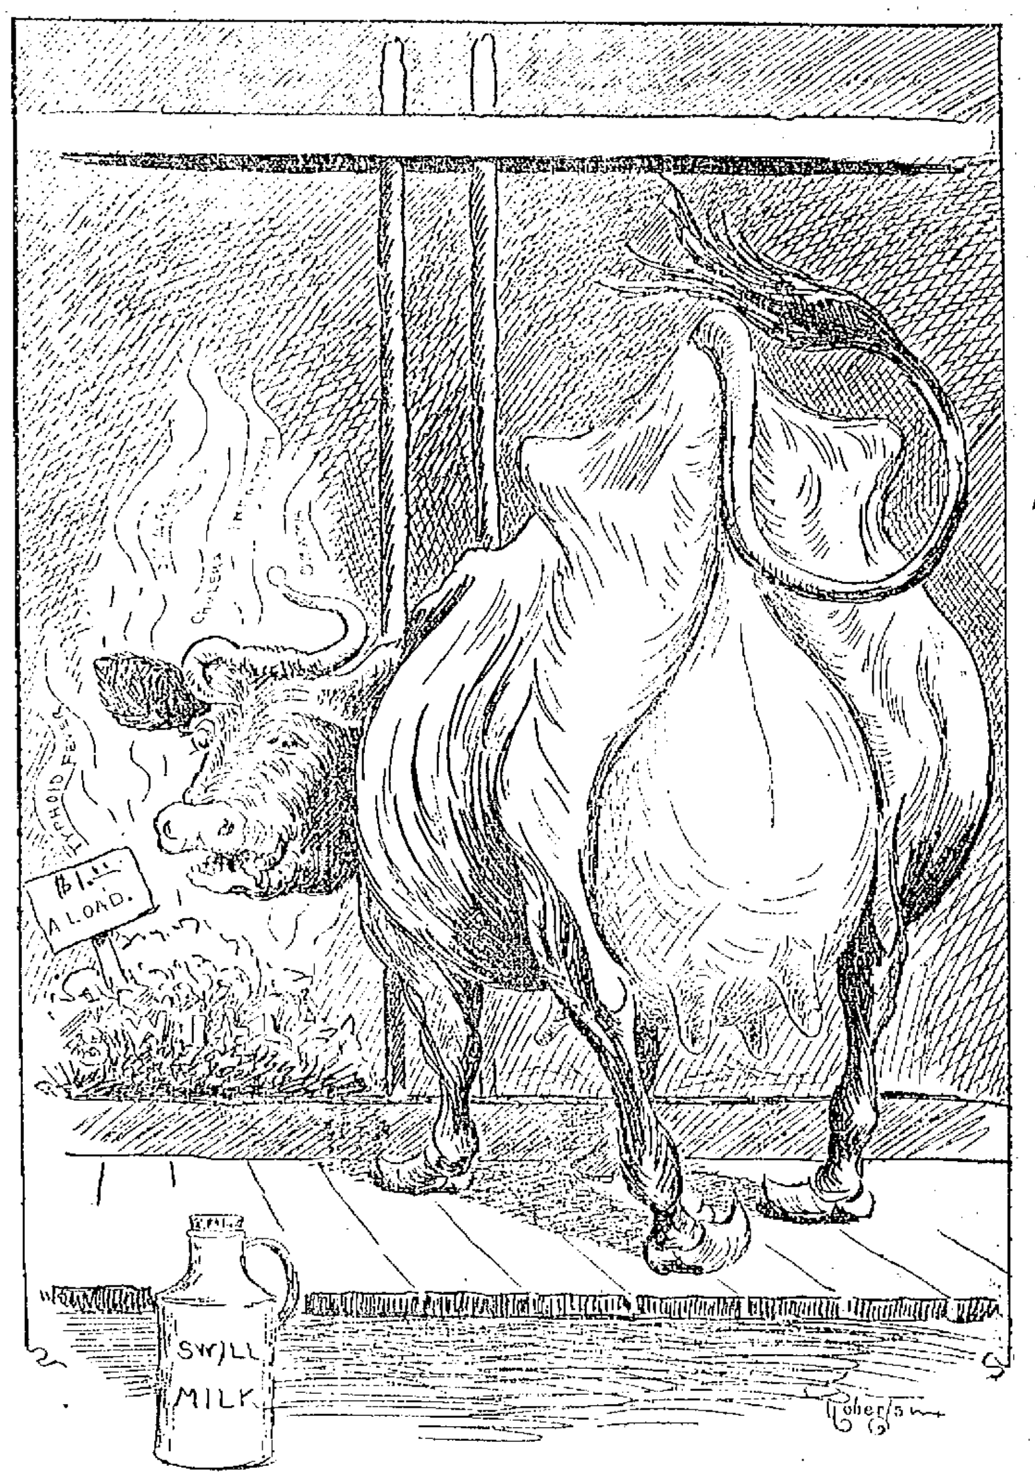

The alarm from box 35 at about 5 o'clock last night was for a fire in a woodbox in a house in Church street, near Lawrence. Little damage was done. The house was occupied by John Brady and owned by Robert Bartlett. Fred Church had the insurance.

The Liver's Duty

The liver has two duties to perform—cleanse the blood and produce bile. You may know it is working lazily if you are troubled with constipation, dyspepsia, biliousness and dizziness. It is trying to throw its work upon other organs. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters will stop this. It makes the liver do its duty and thus, the stomach, bowels and nerves cease to annoy. "I'LL KILL MYSELF"

Kate Itien's Threat in Police Court Today

Forty Drunks Before Judge Hadley—Catherine Durfee Asked Officers to Throw Her Into the Canal

"You'll find that the way of the transgressor is hard," said Judge Hadley to Kate Itien in police court this morning. Then he sent her to Sherburne for two years. When sentence was pronounced she became enraged. "Two years in Sherburne," he shouted. "I appeal. I'll never serve a sentence in Sherburne. I have been there twice and I never yet served a full sentence. They had to transfer me both time. Sherburne left me as I am today and I will not go back. I would rather go to Worcester insane asylum than to Sherburne. You send me there and I tell you now that I will commit suicide before I will start for Sherburne," shouted the girl, now blue with rage. As she spoke she shook all over and when the judge said the officers testified that she was always on the street she replied in a strong voice, "I have been working in the Boott mills the past six weeks."

"I am sending you to Sherburne as a protection. I want to try and save you," said the court.

"I will appeal," cried the prisoner, and she was led down stairs, while her husband, who is an Armenian, went off to get bail for her.

Before marriage her name was Kate Mayo, and she was charged with drunkenness. She has a previous record in court and when Officer Holland attempted to arrest her Saturday afternoon in Church street she created quite a scene, and several hundred persons gathered. She resisted arrest and used profane language. She is a very pretty girl.

There were forty drunks in court. Four drunks were allowed to go by Judge Hadley as it was their first offence.

The following Saturday drunks were fined $5 each: Emery Charette, Frank W. O'Brien, James A. Cunningham, Harry Hall, Patrick H. McLaughlin, Jeremiah Lynch, William F. M[illegible], Asa Walker, John McCarthy.

Edward J. Little was placed on probation.

Michael Hennessey was continued in one cent for six months and Julia Spitkane was sent to the workhouse for six months.

John W. Jameson pleaded guilty to drunkenness. Officer Holland was asked to tell what he knew of Jameson and he said that the latter had worked very little for a year or so, and had been drunk a number of times. Jameson was sent to the Massachusetts Reformatory but he appealed and was held in $200 for the superior court.

Henry Holt pleaded not guilty of being drunk. Officer Hurley said that late Saturday night he heard a woman calling for the police and he ran up Adams street and arrested Holt. The officer said that Holt told him he had only picked up his wife and threw her down again. Holt claimed that people would come to his house and bring beer. He wanted that stopped and that is what caused the trouble. He admitted having taken a few glasses of beer Saturday night. He was fined $2.

Patrick McNally was fined $2 for drunkenness, and ordered in $50 to keep the peace for six months.

George Moore pleaded guilty of drunkenness. Officer McIlroy said he met Moore's wife and daughters on the street and they said he had driven them from the house. The judge gave Moore some good advice and then placed him on probation.

Homer Brunelle was found guilty of drunkenness and was held in $100 till tomorrow for sentence.

Judge Hadley said he had tried every way to have her reform, but it seemed to have no effect on her as she would get drunk just the same.

John F. Devine pleaded guilty to drunkenness but asked to be given another chance. He made quite an appeal to the court which caused Judge Hadley to remark, "If your sobriety equalled your ability, you would be all right. One page of this book is devoted to your record here."

He then imposed a fine of $2 on Devine.

Bernard M. Laughlin, the old time ball player was in for drunkenness. He was held in $200 bail till tomorrow for sentence.

Alfred Germain pleaded guilty of illegally keeping liquor and was sent to jail for three months.

Ellen Kennedy, another drunk, was continued till tomorrow.

Catherine Durfee was charged with drunkenness. The officer said he found her in a real estate office on Middlesex street and she was disturbing.

When placed under arrest she said she wanted to die and asked the officer to throw her into the canal.

ENGLAND SATISFIED

That the Struggle With the Boers is Over

Pres. Kruger's Status is Creating Some Discussion—England Determined That He Cannot Remain in the Transvaal

By Associated Press to The Sun.

LONDON, June 2.—Popular opinion has proclaimed the advent of victory and whatever happens henceforth in South Africa, the interest of the British public will be but little unless the event is endorsed by a peculiarly personal element. The nation has made up its mind that the war is over, that the prestige of British arms is restored, that President Kruger is vanquished, that priceless territory has been annexed, that humanity has not been staggered and that, led by that little Sir Galahad, "Bobs" Great Britain's army has fulfilled the most optimistic expectations.

It is scarcely surprising in view of the bewildering rapidity of Lord Roberts' progress during the past week that anxiety attendant on the initial reverse of the war is completely forgotten in the jubilation of today or that the troubles still ahead of the army in South Africa scarcely receive a passing thought. Nevertheless, among the few more serious-minded who have intimate knowledge of the Boers and the plans of the war office there exist grave apprehensions of developments in the near future. In the systematic retreat of the Boers they see the possibility of long-drawn-out guerilla fighting, treks into Rhodesia, internal disorganization in the Transvaal due to bandits, and a thousand and one lawless elements that evolve themselves from a heterogeneous army after it ceases to become an organized body. Some of the most acute authorities on South African matters say Maj. General Frederick Carrington's work in Rhodesia may only begin when Lord Roberts finishes. Such speculation, however, can only be left for time to prove and this war, so far, has abounded in surprises which have completely upset the surmises of those best fitted to express opinions. Probably the most reasonable forecast of immediate developments in the Transvaal can be gained by reviewing the events in the Free State, or Orange River Colony. There, though the country is formally annexed and is subjected to a winnowing process, by a long line of British troops virile opposition still exists. The preponderance of numbers is bound to eventually reduce the inhabitants to subjection and so it will be, probably with the Transvaal, the occupation of Pretoria and Johannesburg being followed by operations similar to those uninteresting movements now undertaken by Generals Rundle and Brabant in the Orange River Colony.

PRES. KRUGER'S STATUS.

The personal status of President Kruger since he left the capital is creating some discussion. A representative of the Associated Press learns that Lord Salisbury will consider him to be president of the South African republic until Lord Roberts is ready to annex that territory. Hence, wherever President Kruger may be, even if he goes into Portuguese territory and any communications which he might make to the British or other governments looking to a cessation of hostilities would receive official recognition and be answered, though it is safe to say that Lord Salisbury would merely refer President Kruger to Lord Roberts. Some such message from "Oom Paul" is now expected at the foreign office. If the expected line of procedure in answering it is carried out it can result in nothing unless President Kruger is willing to assist Lord Roberts in persuading the people to lay down their arms. On one thing the British government is determined—i. e.,—President Kruger cannot stay in the Transvaal. In the event of his capture he must be transported, not necessarily in durance, but he must be got out of the territory which Lord Salisbury expects will shortly be part of the British empire. Every effort will be made to capture President Kruger, but the government officials are inclined to believe he will manage to get into Portuguese territory, where the British will be unable to touch him.

BULLER FORGOTTEN.

One of the most curious features of the closing chapters of the great war is the oblivion into which General Buller has fallen. A few months ago it was Buller who would stem the tide of Boer invasion; it was Buller who would enter Pretoria on Christmas day. Yet now General Buller is scarcely mentioned.

ROBERTS THE HERO.

Words fail to describe the national gratefulness to Lord Roberts. Wellington never was to England what Roberts is today in the eyes of the general public. A dukedom and the Order of the Garter at the Queen's disposal through the death of the Duke of Argyll are the least rewards that could be bestowed on him. Already people are talking of the scenes which will his home coming. Conscientious military critics occasionally try to bring in Lord Kitchener's name, but their efforts have small effect on the popular sentiments. One evidence of Lord Roberts' capability is the uses to which he put wireless telegraphy. While Buller, White and other generals failed to develop the plant sent out to them and looked askance at the innovation, relying solely on the old-time heliograph, Lord Roberts always had with him a body of wireless telegraphists, by which he keeps in constant communication with the various units of his enormous army. Several messages have been sent over 60 miles. The reports of naval experiments with this device are also satisfactory. The British battleship Hannibal, while under way, clearly read the battleship Jupiter's messages at 32 miles distance. Severer tests have resulted satisfactorily to Marconi.

An extraordinary incident in connection with the battering of the coast defence ironclad Belle Isle by the battleship Majestic has just leaked out. It appears that the loaded bow torpedo of the Belle Isle was discharged by the effect of the shells of the Majestic, and only smart maneuvring on the part of the modern warship saved her from being blown up by the self-released projectile of the old hulk.

A ROYAL RESIDENCE.

The fact of the duke of Connaught taking Lord Francis Clinton Hope's Castle Blayney, County Monaghan, for the season, with the option for five years, seems to indicate the establishment of a royal residence in Ireland. But, whether the queen will occupy the residence which May Yohe (the American actress) otherwise Lady Hope has just vacated in order to fulfill theatrical engagements in Australia, it is impossible to say. But Castle Blayney is one of the finest properties in Ireland and it is understood that if the duke and duchess of Connaught are satisfied with it, they will take it for a long term.

The duke of Argyll announces that Inveraray castle, with its immense domain is for rent and England is wondering what American millionaire is like to occupy this historic mansion.

One of the most remarkable though posthumous exposures of the looseness of English life in high places came up this week when Mrs. Brinkworth sued the estate of the late William Beckett, a former member of parliament, for continued support of herself and her alleged children. Mr. Beckett who head of one of the wealthiest private banking firms in England and eminently respected in parliament and in society. It now transpires that Mrs. Brinkworth lived as his mistress for many years and that the couple amused themselves by buying children, which they passed off as their own. Mrs. Brinkworth was non-suited and criminal proceedings may be commenced against her for trying to pass off the children as Beckett's.

SMITH ALFORD

DENIES THAT HE WAS TARRED AND FEATHERED.

By Associated Press to The Sun.

NEW YORK, June 2.—Smith Alford, of Bridgeton, N. J., who was taken from his home there last night and beaten by a crowd of prominent citizens because they believed he had ill-treated his wife on her death bed, returned to his home early this morning. He denies the report that his assailants had put tar on his body, but said they smeared him over with a coat of brick clay. This he easily washed off.

Alford says he knows the ringleaders in the assault made upon him, and that he will have them arrested and prosecuted to the full extent of the law.

There is, however, little sympathy expressed for Alford outside of his circle of intimate friends. Alford's wife will be buried this afternoon and he will attend the funeral. He denies that he was in any way responsible for her death and also says that it was untrue that he beat her and otherwise ill-treated here.

INTERNATIONAL EPISODE

LETTERS TO U. S. MINISTER WERE STOLEN.

By Associated Press to The Sun.

CHICAGO, June 2.—A special from New Orleans says

Startling news comes from Costa Rica. The correspondent of a New Orleans paper writing from Port Limon under date of May 22, sends news which may result in an international episode. The post office box of United States Minister Merry in the post office at San Jose was broken open and the letters therein stolen. Minister Merry discovered that there were several important letters in the box, one in particular being from Consul Davidson at Managua, Nicaragua. Ever since the settlement of the trouble between Nicaragua and Costa Rica, in which the United States officiated as mediator, there has, it is said, been considerable feeling against this country because of alleged favoritism shown to Nicaragua. It is thought that the rifling of the post office box was done by the agents of the party who disbelieved in the sincerity of this country and who stole the letter from Managua to get proof of their suspicions.

Minister Merry has complained to the Costa Rican government. The authorities of that country disavow all responsibility for the crime and have started an investigation.

THE BROWN CASE.

By Associated Press to The Sun.

TAUNTON, Mass., June 2.—The continued case against Charles H. Brown of Providence for non-support was settled in the district court today by Mrs. Margaret Brown, who claims to be the defendant's legal wife, acknowledging satisfaction. Brown paid costs amounting to $5. Brown's counsel contends that the case is not finally settled and that his client will claim the control of his two children now in this city. Neither Mrs. Margaret Brown nor Mrs. Hortense Brown, the Providence wife, appeared in court today.

WORKING TIME REDUCED.

By Associated Press to The Sun.

PAWTUCKET, R. I., June 2.—The Pawtucket street railway company, a part of the Rhode Island Suburban system, which system includes all electric roads in northern Rhode Island, as well as the interstate system, posted notices today notifying its motormen and conductors that as soon as the new schedule could be prepared the hours of labor to constitute a day's work would be reduced from twelve hours a day to between ten and eleven hours. The change will affect something like fifty men. There will be no reduction of pay, which is now $2 a day.

LORD ROBERTS IN SERIOUS DIFFICULTY

By Associated Press to The Sun.

LONDON, June 2.—Lord Roberts' last report of the movements of the British troops in the Transvaal is somewhat mysterious. From the fact that General French's report took two days to reach the commander-in-chief at Johannesburg, it is believed that either French must be many miles north of that city or that he is having trouble with his communications. The former is generally accepted as the most probable and it is surmised that Lord Roberts' vague phrase setting forth that "French is now holding the place which I directed him to do, north of Johannesburg" means that his position is quite close to Pretoria. The additional fact that Lord Roberts' despatch published today is dated four hours earlier than the one given out yesterday and that it takes the proceedings no further than May 31 leads to the inevitable conclusion that some important movement is on foot, or that Lord Roberts himself has not been able to keep his lines clear behind him. Possibly the next place Lord Roberts will be heard from will be Pretoria, while it seems that French should certainly be within striking distance of the capital by today.

General Rundle appears to have returned to Senekal after fighting eastward and contemplates an early onward movement. Boer prisoners say fifty men were killed and many wounded in the recent fight.

The Cologne Gazette publishes a letter from State Secretary Reitz, dated April 26, saying:

"The British government promised the British nation that the cost of war shall be defrayed by the Boers. But as the latter will not be in a position to pay, Great Britain must obtain the money from the gold mines which will thereby be mulcted of half the net profits, whereas the Transvaal never levied a special tax on gold. The instigators of the war, Rhodes, Wernher, Beit, and others will suffer most. As soon as the British troops are withdrawn, wars and rebellions will break out, not for years but for centuries. For England, this means a constant source of trouble, annoyance and bloodshed."

LEGISLATIVE FUND

PROPOSED TO BE RAISED BY POSTAL EMPLOYES.

By Associated Press to The Sun.

NEW YORK, June 2.—The Times says:

In order to secure the passage of a bill in congress known as the classification bill, every postal clerk in New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, San Francisco, Pittsburg and Baltimore, was asked yesterday (Friday) to give $10 out of the salary he received for the month of May to be used in pushing the bill. The clerks were assured that the bill will become a law by June 10 if the fund was promptly raised.

It was the opposition of some of the clerks to the payment of the sum demanded which caused the disclosure of the fact that such a fund was being raised. According to Postmaster Van Cott, this disclosure may cause the removal of a number of men who have been actively engaged in raising the legislative fund.

REPUBLICANS AFRAID

THAT NEW YORK WILL GO DEMOCRATIC.

By Associated Press to The Sun.

CHICAGO, June 2.—Dr. T. N. Jamieson, republican national committeeman from Illinois, who has just returned to Chicago from a visit to New York, Washington and Philadelphia, says in an interview:

"The most interesting thing politically that I found on my trip was the feeling eastern republicans have that there is a great fight ahead of the party in the east, and particularly in New York. There is little else under consideration there just now. The reasons for it I do not know, but the feeling is so strong that New York is in danger of going democratic, that the big leaders seem to have decided to give New York the vice presidential nomination, whether the New York leaders want it or not.

"I have no official information, but from what I hear while in Washington and New York, I am of the opinion that the man now agreed upon is Cornelius N. Bliss."

IN TEN INNINGS

Boston Took a Game From St. Louis

BOSTON PLAYED UPHILL GAME

They Gave Pitcher Powell a Surprise

By Associated Press to The Sun.

BOSTON, June 1.—Boston won a game from St. Louis Saturday that was not worth five cents on the dollar at several stages of the play.

The visitors made their runs easily, as the Boston pitchers, Dineen and Lewis, were strawberries and cream for the visitors, while the home team fought one of the gamest kind of uphill battles.

The contest lasted more than three hours and a half, but not a moment of it was dull.

While things were breaking nicely for the western men, they were a noisy lot, good natured and amusing, with perhaps the exception of Capt. Mertens, who was put out of the game by umpire Emslie.

Both teams worked about as hard on the bench as on the field, and the number of pitchers, four for Boston and three for St. Louis, will show how the boys faced the ball.

The home players did the better hitting, and gave Powell a surprise, for he has usually been effective against the home team.

With the score 9 to 2 it looked blue for Boston, and a few people left the grounds. As the Boston men commenced to crowd up the crowd grew interested, and the fine hitting was cheered in good style.

When the ninth inning came it was a case of hurry up to catch the train but the locals tied the score with the help of the regular team and Captain Duffy as a side dish.

The visitors looked like sure winners again in the 10th, but were doomed to bitter disappointment, thanks to fine pitching by Willis and a phenomenal play by Tenney.

The winning run was made in a businesslike way. The third pitcher came in after Jones burned Tenney; a sacrifice and a single by Freeman did the rest, and a happier crowd than the Boston men would be hard to find. At the same time a more disgusted crowd than the St. Louis boys could not be imagined, as they had counted the game as won early in the day.

The fielding features were few considering the great hitting. Hamilton, Long, Tenney and Criger did about all the good work in that line.

At the bat Donlin carried off the honors with five safe ones, including a triple and a home run.

Herman Long got in four, with a total of eight; Stahl four, with a total of six; besides two sacrifice hits. Freeman, Clarke, and Tenney hit strong, while Kelster and Criger went against the ball in great shape.

The Boston outfield lost their places constantly, with the exception of Hamilton, and some one suggested that Selee work his signals from the bench, as it seems utterly impossible for some young men to remember how to play for certain men under certain circumstances.

Pittinger did the best work of the Boston pitchers, Lewis having little or no speed after two innings. Jones was a puzzle for the home team but was wild, when the cheering commenced.

Manager Selee said after the game that his men deserved special credit for winning with such weak pitching. He acknowledged that the Boston club had unauthorized Bill Clarke to secure Hilebrand of the Princeton college team at the close of this season, and he thought there was a very good show of getting the man.

When a team can make 23 with a total of 33 off three pitchers, they should not be forced to play in extra luck to win the games, is Selee's reasoning.

The score by innings:

Innings	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10
St. Louis	1	2	0	4	2	1	1	5	0	0—16

Three base hits, Donlin, Kelster, Long, Tenney, Stahl 2, Freeman 2, Criger, Kelster. Home runs, Long, Donlin. Stolen bases, Hamilton, Collins, Donovan, McGann, Duffy. Sacrifice hits, Stahl 2. First base on balls, by Dineen, McGraw, Donovan, Burkett, Dillard 2, Robinson by Lewis, Donovan, Donlin, Jones, by Powell, Lewis, Dineen. Hamilton, by Jones, Hamilton, Long. Struck out, Lewis, Clarke, Powell. Double play, Tenney, Lowe. Passed ball, Robinson. Wild pitch, Jones. Hit by pitched ball, Tenney, McGann, Kelster. Umpire, Emslie. Time 3h., 30m. Attendance 500.

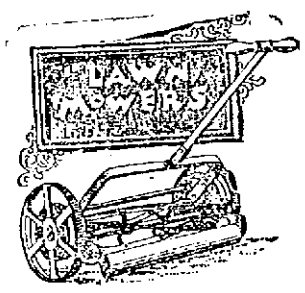

The other games resulted as follows:
Philadelphia 8, Pittsburg 2 (5 innings.)
Brooklyn-Chicago, called in fifth, rain.
New York-Cincinnati, rain.

WHOLESOME ADVICE

For People Whose Stomachs are Weak and Digestion Poor

Dr. Harlandson, whose opinion in diseases is worthy of attention, says "When a man or woman comes to me complaining of indigestion, loss of appetite, sour stomach, belching, sour watery rising, headaches, sleeplessness, lack of ambition, and a general run-down nervous condition, I advise them to take after each meal one or two of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, allowing the tablet to dissolve in the mouth and thus mingle with the food eaten. The result is that the food is speedily digested before it has time to sour and ferment. These tablets will digest the food anyway, whether the stomach wants to or not, because they contain harmless digestive principles, vegetable essences, pepsin and Golden Seal, which supply just what the weak stomach lacks.

"I have advised the tablets with great success, both in curing indigestion and to build up the tissues, increasing flesh in thin nervous patients whose real trouble was dyspepsia and as soon as the stomach was put to rights, they did not know what sickness was."

A fifty-cent package of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets can be bought at any drug store, and as they are not a secret patent medicine, they can be used as often as desired with full assurance that they contain nothing harmful in the slightest degree. On the contrary, anyone whose stomach is at all deranged will find great benefit from the use of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. They will cure any form of stomach weakness or diseases except cancer of the stomach.

ANTI-TRUST

The Littlefield Anti-Trust Bill Passed

By Associated Press to The Sun.

WASHINGTON, June 4.—Only one vote was cast in the house Saturday against the Littlefield anti-trust bill to amend the Sherman act of 1890 to make it more effective in the prosecution of trusts and combinations, their agents, officers or attorneys.

Mr. Mann (Ill.) rep. cast the negative vote.

The bill, according to the statements of the republican leaders, goes to the limit of the authority of congress under the constitution.

All the democratic minority amendments except one were defeated.

The bill amends the Sherman anti-trust law so as to declare either contract or combination in the form of trust or conspiracy in restraint of commerce among the states or with foreign nations, illegal, and every party to such contract or combination guilty of a crime, punishable by a fine of not less than $500, nor more than $5000 and by imprisonment not less than six months nor more than two years.

It provides that any person injured by a violation of the provisions of the law may recover three-fold damages.

The definition of "person" and "persons" in the present law is enlarged so as to include the agents, officers or attorneys of corporations.

For purposes of commerce it declares illegal all corporations or associations formed for carrying on business for purposes declared illegal by the common law; provides that they may be perpetually enjoined from carrying on interstate commerce and forbids them the use of the United States mails.

It provides for the production of persons and papers, confers jurisdiction upon United States circuit and district courts for the trial of cases under it, and authorizes any person, firm, corporation or association to begin and prosecute proceedings under it.

ABD-EL-GOLEN, THE MOORISH CHIEF, AND MLLE. VERMAILLE, THE PARISIAN BEAUTY AND HEROINE WHO WILL WED.

By Associated Press to The Sun.

PARIS, June 4.—The sensation of the hour is the announced marriage of the beautiful aristocrat, Miss Julia de Vermaille, to Abd-el-Golea, the young Arabian chief, who recently came to Paris as the apostle of Mahometanism. It is a study in black and white.

Julia de Vermaille is an heiress who has amazed this capital before. She and her brother Robert, now French governor of the High Laos in Indo China, were the only children of General De Vermaille, whose brilliant conduct in the Algerian campaign added fresh glory to a name glorious through many generations. When he died his immense fortune was divided between Robert and Julia.

Julia de Vermaille, to whom the courts awarded the ownership and management of over 7,000,000 francs, then arranged a life after her own ideas. Her mansion is well appointed and well kept; her horses, which she selected personally, were of the best. Some of her deals on the Stock Exchange created quite a stir. In the big house surrounded by a park which she inhabits at Neuilly, when in Paris, out of the fourteen servants only one, her personal maid, is a woman.

Her beauty and grace were such that famous artists begged as a privilege the right to paint her portrait, the best known of the masterpieces she inspired being, no doubt, the large canvas by Clairin. Her photographs were sold by the thousand.

Two years ago she published, with her full name bravely set on the title page, a pamphlet against the subjection of women in marriage. The book set the press and the public wild. The discussion, especially in the smart set, promised to be everlasting.

One of the curious statements in the pamphlet was that the author had refused marriage offers from sixty men. Considering the fortune and beauty of the girl, the number is not extraordinary.

Perhaps to escape from the noise made by her publication, perhaps because she was weary of Paris, Mlle. De Vermaille suddenly without closing her house, without saying when she would return, went travelling.

Hers was a curious experience. She started for Switzerland, probably intending to come back to Paris after a short stay there. That was two years ago. She returned last month, having in the meantime been around the globe twice.

This is the girl.

Abd-el-Golea, who is to be her husband, is a scarcely less unique creature. Impelled by a cold, intelligent fanaticism, this young chief came from Timbuctoo with the purpose of promulgating the Koran among the "glaours" of the modern Babylon.

Abd-el-Golea come from royal Moorish blood. His father was Abd-el-Mah, half-brother and main lieutenant of the celebrated Albel Kader, the emir of Mascara, who, until he was made prisoner by General Bugeaud, was the most powerful foe of the French and for 15 quest of Algeria.

TOMORROW AFTERNOON.

Mortgagee's sale of the residence realty known as the Atis Osgood estate, and numbered 21 Chester street between Westford and Princeton streets or adjoining the residences of Messrs. S. H. Jones and Charles E. Carter.

It is my purpose as executor of the state of Elizabeth Rogers, to sell at absolute auction under the power of sale contained in a certain mortgage deed given by Atis Osgood to Ethan A. Smith, the herewith described real estate to the highest bidder on Tuesday, the 5th day of June, 1900, at four o'clock in the afternoon, regardless of weather or attendance.

The premises consist of a modern house of nine rooms, also large hall, bath room, pantry, laundry, storage and cellar, all heated by steam. The lot has 9542 square feet of land, possessing a frontage of 94 feet; it is nicely graded and down to a fine lawn; has several splendid fruit trees and is a very shapely and handsome lot.

In the original survey and laying out of Chester street and the abutting land, the parcel with this residence comprised two lots; the house now occupies one of them; the other is a sort of an orchard lot and lawn and can be easily sold for a building lot; in fact, we believe there is a customer all ready to take it at a fair price. The estate as a whole is a very desirable one, extremely well situated in one of the choicest portions of the Highlands. The purchaser must deposit with or secure to the auctioneers $650 as soon as the property is struck off. Other terms liberal. Make all inquiries at the office of the auctioneers.

CALL PASTOR

Rev. Chas. McNally Invited to This City

BY THE WORTHEN ST. BAPTIST CHURCH

Many Interesting Sermons Given Yesterday

The Worthen street Baptist church held a meeting after morning service yesterday and voted unanimously to extend a call to Rev. Charles R. McNally of the senior class at Newton Theological seminary to become its pastor. The vote was taken in concurrence with the recommendation of the committee on pulpit supply. The society will meet tonight to consider the question.

Mr. McNally is a young married man, about 25 or 26 years old. He is at the head of his class at the theological seminary, and has been for some time assistant pastor of the church in Brookline. It is understood that he will accept the call if the society concurs.

FIRST TRINITARIAN.

At the First Trinitarian church last night Rev. George F. Kennedy gave the last of his series of illustrated talks on "Lowell's Educational and Charitable Institutions." He spoke of the city library, the county truant school, the jail and other institutions showing views taken for his use.

FIRST BAPTIST.

"Hornets and Angels," was the subject of an interesting sermon by Rev. S. T. Ford yesterday, showing the various agencies used by the Almighty to further His work. His text was: "Behold, I send an angel before thee," and "I will send hornets before thee."

KIRK STREET CHURCH.

A special musical program was one of the features at the Kirk St. church yesterday evening. Gounod's "Forever with the Lord," was effectively rendered by the double quartet. Rev. Dr. Bartlett spoke on "The Victory of Elijah," and at the request of a member of the congregation he spoke on "Is Smoking a Sin?" in his prelude. Dr. Bartlett's remarks on smoking were as follows

"To sin, is to break a command of God contained in the Bible, or to act contrary to the teachings of the conscience. The law of the Bible changes not, but the law of the conscience changes as we receive more light. The Bible says nothing about the use of tobacco, but says much about keeping clean, reminding us that we are temples of the Holy Ghost. In matters not treated by the Bible the conscience is tribunal. What may be a sin for one may not be to another. But with the progressing Christian some things appear innocent today, but sinful tomorrow, according as we receive more light. If conscience begins to trouble the smoker, then to him it is a sin to smoke.

"I will give, without comment, the substance of a number of letters and opinions which have come to me unsolicited. The man who asks my opinion is fond of his cigar, but says he shall discourage his son from it because it is 'expensive, useless and hard to break.' Another man writes 'I think it is a sin and an awful curse. I have been battling with tobacco for about 15 years. I say battling, for in all those years I was trying to give up its use. But I thank the Lord that since I gave myself to Christ I have had no desire to smoke.' A letter comes from a lady who says among other things: "I believe there are hosts of good Christians who use tobacco, but it is an expensive, useless and filthy habit, and there can be no doubt of the evil effects of tobacco upon the different organs of the system, for instance the heart. It is only a question of time when the habit will be stronger than the will.' She quotes Mr. Moody as answering the question, 'Can a man be a Christian and use tobacco?' by his saying, 'Yes, but a dirty one.'

"A letter has just reached me from a teacher in an institute for the blind stating that while intemperance is regarded the chief cause of blindness, tobacco comes next, and that some of the pupils in that school are in a frightful condition because the parents used tobacco to excess.' The manager of the New York Christian home for intemperate men states 'we teach that tobacco comes next in point of harm.' One man has called on me to say that while he does not regard the use of tobacco as a sin, he found no language strong enough as to its harmfulness, etc.

"I have been a little surprised at receiving nothing on the other side. It is interesting to have both sides represented. I might add to what has been said that an increasing number of the best firms as well as the government and railroads are beginning to discriminate against the smoker.

"My own opinion is that smoking is not a sin unless a man's conscience condemns him. But with the light we have, I should say it was pretty near a sin for a young man just starting in life to cultivate the habit.

IMMANUEL BAPTIST.

Rev. Brown E. Smith at the Immanuel Baptist church, last evening, gave the fourth in a series of evening sermons before a large congregation. "The Shout of Alarm," was his subject of last night's discourse, the others being, "The Shout for Volunteers," "The Shout for Actual Service," and "The Shout of the Campfire." These sermons are based upon the Transfiguration scene depicted in the 17th chapter of Matthew and the first eight verses. Next Sunday's sermon will be upon "The Shout of Victory."

AT THE Y. M. C. A.

Rev. F. I. Kelly of the Drapel Centre church addressed a meeting for men at the Y. M. C. A. yesterday afternoon, his subject being "The One Thing Needful."

POSITIVE PROOF

Should Convince the Greatest Skeptic in Lowell

Because it's evidence in Lowell—It's from a citizen, perhaps a neighbor—Investigation will confirm it.

Mr. Terrence Flood of 30 Davidson St., says: "A severe attack of pneumonia left me suffering from kidney ailment, which was manifested by pains in my back. I heard about the merits of Doan's Kidney Pills and went to Ellingwood & Co.'s drug store, corner of Merrimack and Central streets and got a box. Its use proved so beneficial I continued the treatment until I had taken four boxes, when I felt so well I did not consider further use of Doan's Kidney Pills or any other remedy necessary. I value this remedy so highly that I am pleased to recommend it to others."

COURT DECISIONS

Of General Interest Recently Rendered

Following are some recent court decisions of general interest:

The selection of a suitable intermediate bank for the purpose of sending a check for collection is held, in Givan vs. Bank of Alexandria (Tenn.) 47 L. R. A. 270, to constitute a sufficient discharge of the duty of the initial bank in which the check was deposited, but it is held to be negligence to send the check directly to the drawee bank for collection.

The rule that a carrier is charged with the highest degree of care consistent with the nature of his undertaking, as between him and his passenger, is held, in Tall vs. Baltimore Steam Packet Co. (Md.) 47 L. R. A. 129, not to be applicable to the matter of injuries to passengers by acts of fellow passengers or strangers, but in such cases the carrier's liability is held to arise only when it could have prevented the injury after knowledge or when it ought to have had knowledge of the treatened injury. On these principles a recovery was denied for injury to a passenger during a quarrel between other passengers who were playing cards in the smoking room of a steamboat.

The rule of a carrier that baggage will not be checked more than 30 minutes before train time is held, in Goldberg vs. Almanee & W. R. Co. (Wis.) 47 L. R. A. 221, not to be unreasonable as matter of law, and it was held not to be reasonable as matter of law to leave baggage in the evening for a train at 6 o'clock in the morning.

The theft of diamond rings from the finger of a woman asleep in a sleeping car is held, in Pullman's Palace Car Co. vs. Hunter (Ky.) 47 L. R. A. 246, to give her a right of action if the theft was due to the failure of the employes in the car to use ordinary care and watchfulness, and their negligence was held to be a question for the jury.

A statute making it unlawful to work more than eight hours per day in mines or smelters is held, in Re, Morgan (Colo.) 47 L. R. A. 52, to be in violation of constitutional guaranties of liberty and the right to acquire, possess, and protect property, notwithstanding a decision of the supreme court of the United States holding that the federal constitution was not violated by such a statute.

An act to regulate the weighing of coal at the mine which prohibits the screening of coal until after it is weighed and duly credited, if miners are employed at quantity rates, is held in State vs. Wilson (Kan.) 47 L. R. A. 71, to be a valid exercise of the police power, where it does not purport to prevent contracts as to the amount of wages or in any wise infringe upon the freedom of contract.

The rendition of a judgment against one who was not served with process in the action or named as a party until after the original judgment was rendered, but who was brought in subsequent thereto by an order to show cause and condemned to pay the judgment, is held, in Louisville & N. R. Co. vs. Schmidt, Advance Sheets U. S. p. 620, to be in conformity with the constitutional provision as to due process of law, where such party had voluntarily appeared in the case and actively conducted the defense.

Mutual promises of merchants to refrain from engaging in business after 6.30 p. m. of each day, are held, in Stovall vs. McCutchen & Co., (Ky.) 47 L. R. A. 257, to be a sufficient consideration to support the contract, and an injunction to enforce it was held proper in order to prevent a repeated and recurring cause of action.

The right of a stockholder to inspect and examine the books and records of the corporation is declared, in State ex rel., Weinberg vs. Pacific B. & M. Co. (Wash.) 47 L. R. A. 208, to extend to such inspection at all reasonable times, so long as his purpose is to inform himself as to the manner and fidelity with which the corporate affairs are being conducted and his examination is made in the interests of the corporation.

The effect of transferring stock in a corporation to relieve the former stockholder from liability as such is considered in Rochester & K. F. L. Co. vs. Raymond (N. Y.) 47 L. R. A. 240, which holds that a subscription to stock does not imply an agreement to pay for it in full, but is only a contract to enter into the relation of stockholder, and that, if a corporation permits a transfer of stock by cancelling the certificate and issuing a new one to the purchaser, whom it attempts to hold as stockholder, it ratifies the transaction and cannot subsequently deny that the transfer is valid. With this case is a note reviewing the decisions on the effect of such a transfer upon liability for unpaid subscriptions.

A statute arbitrarily establishing a high school and requiring its maintenance by the people of a county is upheld in State, ex rel., McCausland vs. Freeman (Kan.) 47 L. R. A. 67, against the contention that it interferes with local self government.

A covenant in a lease of a portion of a railroad right of way for warehouse purposes, that the lessee will hold the lessor harmless for losses by fires set by engines, is held, in Northern Pacific R. Co. vs. McClure (N. D.) 47 L. R. A. 149, to be binding on the lessees after the lessor has transferred its rights, including the lease, to another company, where the lease provides that the covenant shall bind the assigns of both parties.

TWO MEN KILLED

They Took Hold of a Live Wire

FATALITY OCCURRED IN PULP MILL

Another Man Was Seriously Injured

By Associated Press to The Sun.

FAIRFIELD, Me., June 4.—A sad accident occurred here Saturday evening, in which two men lost their lives and another lies at the point of death. It is not known just how the accident occurred, as all connected with the plant in which it happened are reticent regarding the details.

As near as can be learned, it was a few minutes before 6 o'clock that tower Boss Elden Foss of the Somerset & Kennebec Pulp company discovered a wire connected with the lighting department lying on the ground.

It was not time for the current to be turned on from the power station of the Waterville & Fairfield railway and Light company so Foss called Bachman Hosman to his assistance for the supposed purpose of hanging the wire in a position where it would not cause trouble. The wire was a live one and as soon as the men took hold of it they were seen to fall to the ground.

William O'Brien, another employe of the mill, went to the assistance of Foss and Hosman, and he received a shock that rendered him unconscious and may result fatally. A message was sent to the power station and the current was shut off before anything could be done to relieve the men.

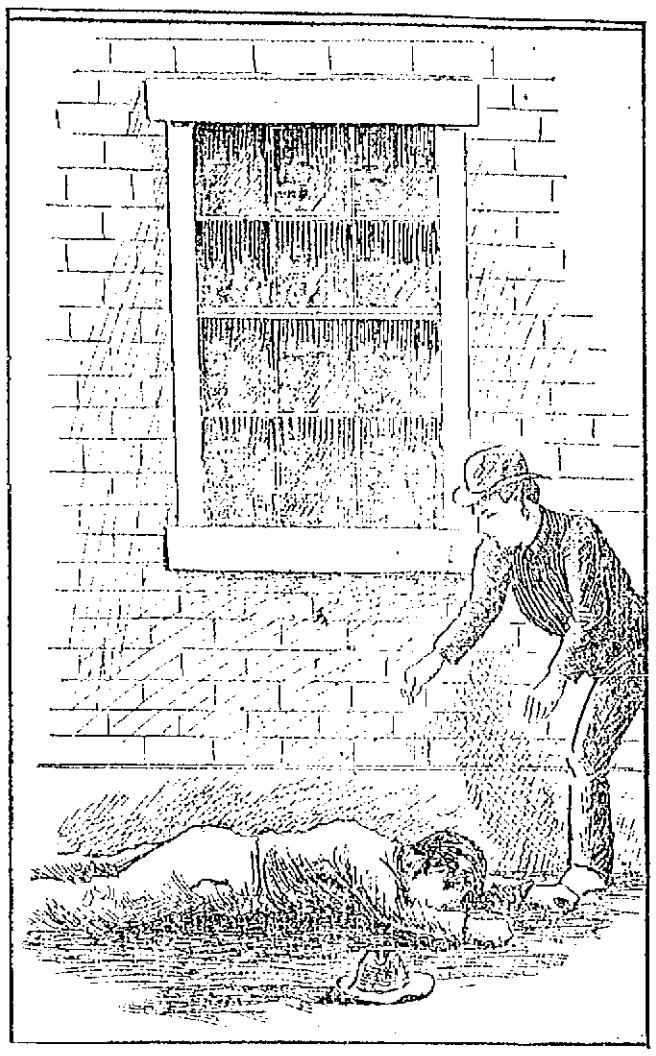

Dr. Hand was called but he found that Foss and Hosman had both been instantly killed by the high voltage of the current.

O'Brien suffered from bad burns and at midnight had not gained consciousness although the surgeons believe that he will recover.

There are several stories connected with the accident.

The case has been reported to Coroner Addison of Skowhegan.

CHEATED

The merchant who pays for advertising and doesn't get it cries out that advertising doesn't pay. He is wrong. Advertising pays if you get it. If you pay for any commodity that is never delivered, you lose money on it, just the same as you lose on advertising that you pay for but never get.

When merchants learn to buy their advertising space in the newspapers as they buy their merchandise—by measure and weight, it will pay them. Buy space by the inch per thousand of circulation and see that you get what you pay for. Then you will never be cheated in advertising and it will pay you. The Sun will give you more advertising for your money than any other paper in Lowell. It is

LOWELL'S GREATEST NEWSPAPER

WORK OF CONGRESS.

Congress is to adjourn next Wednesday with a large portion of the important legislation still pending. First of all the Hay-Pauncefote treaty goes over to the short session without the slightest hope of ever becoming law and with it go the other treaty providing for reciprocity with France, the Nicaragua canal bill, the Philippine government bill and the bill for the reorganization of the army. The chief legislation of the session was the passage of the gold standard bill and the bills for the government of Hawaii and Porto Rico. The passage of the Littlefield anti-trust law by the house on Saturday was significant as expressing popular sentiment on that issue. The measure will probably be passed by the senate and may receive the president's signature but even if it should become law it will not injure the trusts while a republican administration holds sway. The republicans will not enforce it. There are anti-trust laws already in force but no republican official with the exception of one, attorney general for the state of Ohio, makes any attempt to enforce them.

On the other hand the gold standard and refunding bill that practically gives over the regulation of the currency to the banks will be enforced to the injury of the people. The republicans will claim that they have fulfilled every pledge to the people and on that ground will seek a return to power. They will have some lengthy explanations to make, however, in defence of the war taxes still levied on the people, of the postal frauds in Cuba, the patronage of the trusts and the imperial policy by which this nation must become a military power to be always ready for a conflict with the powers of Europe, Asia or Africa.

THE WAR IS NOT OVER.

The war is over, say the British despatches; the war is over, assert the British enthusiasts; the war is over, echoes the United States press; but there is one man in England wiser than all the rest who says "The war is not over." Editor Stead is the man and he is not afraid to assert that the war is not over and that it will not be over for years.

The Boers will not yield, even to a force of ten or even twenty to one; they will keep up a guerilla warfare if nothing else will do; they will bide their time to strike for their rights and their liberties and strike they will, harder than ever before. The South African republics may be annexed; they may be wiped off the map as Salisbury has asserted; but England will thereby set up a new enemy that will wait the opportunity to avenge the wrongs of the past and to regain that liberty that had been stolen.

The Transvaal and the Orange Free State today are the scene of slaughter and carnage, the happy homes of the people are deserted or held only by women and children, while the men have gone to the front to fight for the right to enjoy the homes which they established in a primeval forest. They have gone with high hopes and dauntless courage to fight an overwhelming force, but alas, they have been so vastly outnumbered that many of them will never return. But the Boers have sworn to fight the aggression of England to the bitter end and this they will do and if unable to win a victory in the present generation they will commit the cause to posterity that the fight may be continued until victory is eventually won.

No, the war is not over and will not be over for ten years to come if England persists in throttling the two republics.

Another menace to the peace of England's South African possessions comes with the threat to annex the two republics to Cape Colony and rule all as one united colony. The colonists have assembled in a general congress to protest against the proposition and they have adopted resolutions to that effect protesting against this course as calculated to destroy the peace and prosperity of the South African colonies and to make necessary the maintenance of a large standing army. The men who instigated the war, who fomented the discord that led to the war, will lose as heavily as anybody when England gets hold of the gold mines. Rhodes, Werner and Bell will suffer as they should, for they have been largely responsible for this terrible struggle. They instigated what the colonists term the intolerable interference of the British ministry in the internal affairs of the Transvaal, which directly led to the war and sooner or later both they and England will be punished.

The war is not over then, for although England may suppress the South African republics, she cannot extinguish the love of liberty in the breasts of the Boers; she cannot stamp out the aspiration of these people to be free and independent, and this alone will keep up continuous turmoil until England's sway in South Africa is overthrown and until a union of free and independent states is formed similar to that on our own continent. The next trouble England will have to meet will be a rebellion in which all the citizens of the colonies will unite to cast off the yoke of oppression, perhaps at a time when England will be unable to stay their onward march to freedom.

THE STREET RAILWAY DEAL.

Notice by what a quiet, skilful and effective transaction the Lowell & Suburban street railway is to be absorbed by the Massachusetts Electric company. Local parties secured the franchise on the most favorable terms because they were all men of good standing in the community, some of them men of great influence locally. Now the franchise, road and all appurtenances go over to a syndicate that has no special interest in the city of Lowell.

Is not this another example of the absurdity of dealing out public franchises worth millions of dollars to shrewd speculators free of charge?

Now is the season in which public baths would benefit the thousands who do not possess the luxury of a bath tub in their homes. But it is hard to move the city authorities to do anything except what comes as a result of a political pull.

Lowell is not to be honored by a visit from the Boer envoys. They had not the time to come this way, but had they come they would have gotten a rousing reception.

BOXING GOSSIP

In the future the Colorado Athletic club is to make a bid for big istic events. Max Fields, brother of Lew Fields of the popular theatrical firm of Weber and Fields, has identified himself with the Colorado club, and all his well known energy and enterprise will be thrown into the istic institution. Big matches will be catered for, and Jim Hoosman of Chicago will be depended upon to send out the very best talent to Denver that can be secured in the east. The advent of Max Fields in Denver boxing affairs foretells much mental worry for poor old Pat Masterson's mental future. Eastern enterprise and vigor have more than once been too many for Pat.

Rob Roy gives the following in commenting on the recent McCoy-Ryan tight: Without discussing the "why" and "wherefore," I want to speak my little piece about the action of the club officials in Chicago in over-riding Referee Hogan's decision in the McCoy-Ryan contest. I will admit that as a matter of mutual business agreement the referee should have ordered a draw at the end of the sixth round when both men were on their feet. However, it was a duty owed the public that they should have been told in advance what that agreement was, and it is clear that the desire was to hide the fact from the spectators. As the referee declared McCoy the winner, that decision must stand, and all bets, if there were any, should be governed by that decision. There is nothing whatever in the precedents of the rules of the boxing business which empowers Tom Hawlon, Jim Hoosman and J. W. Smith, as so-called committee of the club, to wipe out Referee Hogan's decision and call the bout a draw. It is simply one of those strong-arm Chicago breaks. The club in the first place is simply a proprietary affair and the owners have no more right or authority to make a second decision contrary to that by the referee than I have. If they can, then any other individual can. I am merely speaking of the right of the matter, but will add that, in the face of the mutual agreement between the principals, a lot of dissatisfaction would have been avoided if Referee Hogan had declared the contest a draw. The facts that we now have at hand show that Ryan was to have received 35% of the gate, no matter what the outcome, and his one purpose was to stay the six rounds and get a draw to save his record. If Ryan was to get 35% of the last bit of stuff that emanates from George Siler. He has now reached the stage where he criticises other referees and predicts the winners of contests which he is scheduled to referee. Siler has been selected to referee the Fitzsimmons-Ruhlin battle, and has been writing lengthy articles giving his opinion that Fitz should win. Billy Madden, as manager for Gus Ruhlin, very properly objects to Siler refereeing now, and there is talk of putting Charlie White or some other man in as referee.

George Gardner, New England's champion middleweight, contemplates a trip to the Pacific coast in the near future where he will meet some of the best men of the west. Before leaving however, he will probably be matched with Dick O'Brien, who recently put away Gardner's old rival, George Byers. O'Brien is a stumbling block for them all and is in especially fine condition these days. Gardner and O'Brien would make a hout.

Billy Gardner is going under the management of Al. McMurray. Who brought Tim Kearns to the front. McMurray will get all the good points out of Billy and place him in the front rank. Billy at present is a good boxer but not aggressive enough and inclined to be slow at infighting.

Young Jack Brady of this city has abandoned the idea of being a Ted Sloan and is now following in the footsteps of Terry McGovern and is surprising all his friends by his clever work with the gloves. He made an excellent showing in Lawrence a few nights ago and is now matched with Young Maguire of this city. If he succeeds in stopping Maguire, it is probable that he will be matched with "Smoke" Connors, the 105-pound champion of the Hub. "Smoke" will certainly make Brady earn his money.

GENERAL GOMEZ

The Cuban Leader Expected in Havana

THE INDEPENDENCE OF CUBA

Is What He is Working for

By Associated Press to The Sun.

HAVANA, June 4. General Gomez is expected to arrive today and preparations have been made to receive him with all honors. Representatives of the nationalist and republican parties will go in different tugs, each having a band and various societies will also send delegations to join in the welcome. The motives that have induced him to return are the subject of much speculation. Many believe that General Gomez disappointed at the attitude taken toward him by the people of Santiago Domingo, has come back to Cuba to engage in an active campaign for the future presidency of the Cuban republic.

It is asserted that his first step will be to bring all his influence to bear in favor of the election to the mayoralty of Havana of General Alejandro Rodriguez, partly for personal and partly for political considerations. If he can make the necessary impression upon the members of the national party, and if the result of his intervention is the defeat of Senor Estrada Morin, then the power of General Gomez will be much more generally recognized than it is now. Already his friends have issued a statement stating that early in the week he will attempt to consolidate the democratic, republican and national political parties with a view of bringing about a harmonious constitutional convention in this city in August. The authors of this statement contend that such a convention is the only path to independence.

It is reported that Gomez while at San Domingo said that while he was returning to Havana to bring about the complete and absolute independence of Cuba and that he had such a convention in view, it is also asserted that he desires if possible, to be the first president of free Cuba, but that he feels that there may be strong opposition to him because of his birth, in which event his choice for the presidency would be Carlos Cespedes or Alejandro Rodriguez. Either would receive his native support, but he would prefer Cespedes.

The leaders of the various parties reply that the principles of the organizations differ too radically to make anything like Gomez proposes.

ELMS WON AGAIN

Defeated T. R. and T's In Fine Game

The Elms are still at it without any let up for Saturday they went out to North Billerica and "trimmed" the T. R. and T's by a substantial majority. The feature of the game was the magnificent twirling of "Punk" Ryan, who struck out 18 men. He received excellent support. "Joe" Tyrrell added to the features by a circus catch in the last inning.

The score by innings:

Innings	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
T. R. & T's ..	0	1	2	0	0	0	0	0	0	—3

OTHER SATURDAY GAMES.

The Riversides were defeated by the Wamesits Saturday afternoon. The score was 12 to 7.

Moran started to pitch for the Riversides, but he retired at the close of the second inning after five runs had been scored. Teddy Flynn succeeded him but was no improvement, and he, too, had to be taken out. Scully was then put in and finished the game. Flemings, a new comer into the local base ball field, twirled for the Wamesits, and had the Riversides at his mercy.

The game at Atherton between the Emmetts and the Y. M. C. I. resulted in a regular cricket score, the Emmetts winning, 23 to 10.

The Emmetts had no difficulty finding Leslie, who pitched for the Belvidere nine, while Kearns, the Emmetts' twirler, was a mystery to the vanquished players.

The Beavers defeated the Beachmonts on the old cricket grounds by a score of 11 to 8. The feature of the game was the batting of the Beavers in the third inning when they scored five runs.

GRAND STEEPLE CHASE

PASSED OFF WITHOUT ANY DISTURBANCE.

By Associated Press to The Sun.

PARIS, June 4.—The grand steeplechase at Auteuil last year the scene of a turbulent outburst against President Loubet, passed off yesterday without a sign of political disturbance. M. Loubet left the palace of the Elysee in a landau, accompanied by Marc Loubet, M. Combarieu, director of the civil cabinet of the president and General M. C. Ballourd, chief of the military households. Although unaccompanied by a military escort, he drove to the race course without incident, except occasional cries raised by passers-by for the army.

On descending from the carriage at the race course, he was met by M. Waldeck-Rousseau, premier; M. Delcasse, minister of foreign affairs; M. Millerand, minister of commerce; M. Leygues, minister of public instruction; M. Jean Dupuy, and many other high officials. The diplomatic corps was in full attendance, including United States Ambassador Porter, with the members of his family. No political color was given to the presence of M. Loubet during the races.

After the steeplechase, the presidential party left the tribune and returned to the palace by the same route as was taken before, arriving at 5 o'clock.

The day was very beautiful and the concourse was crowded. Among the multitude were many prominent Americans, a number of whom arrived Saturday or yesterday from London and other points with a special view of attending the event.

PIPPIN CLUB MEETING.

The Pippin club met Saturday evening but transacted no routine business other than the election of a secretary to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of J. Joseph Kelley, who starts this week on at rip to Chicago. James A. Bagley was elected, receiving 79 votes to 63 for Charles D. Monahan, Jr., and 42 for Timothy J. Feeley.

FREE TREATMENT FOR CATARRH

If Doctor Plunkett were asked what medical teaching would accomplish the greatest good he would unhesitatingly say:

"The lesson to those with enfeebled constitutions, weak lungs, or a tendency to Bronchial Trouble or Consumption, of the vital opportunities that summer offers them."

The best teaching is the teaching that will save the most lives.

And this lesson to those with the slightest predisposition to consumption will save more lives than any that could be taught.

Indeed, with many of the more serious cases—where long neglected Catarrhal disease invading the bronchial tubes which convey the air to the lungs, has taken its advance into the tissues of the lungs themselves, has reached the end of the road lined with the mucous membrane upon which it lives and feeds, and finding no new tissue, settles down to feed upon the lung cells—with many of these serious cases, treatment during the spring and summer months is the only hope. Little, if any, help can be promised them during the winter.

It is then during the summer that Catarrh in its early stages, involving, maybe, the nasal passages and throat and vocal cords and windpipe, may be most speedily cured, and the danger of its extension into the deeper part of the Bronchial Tubes or Lungs averted.

Free Treatment.

Doctor Plunkett's treatment positively cures catarrh. He guarantees that; and in order to demonstrate that his treatment will do what he claims, he will give until June 15th, a free trial treatment to any one suffering from catarrhal disease of any character.

THIS OFFER APPLIES TO ALL CATARRHAL DISEASES—TO DEAFNESS, TO BRONCHIAL TROUBLE, TO ASTHMA, TO STOMACH TROUBLES, TO BLADDER, LIVER AND KIDNEY DISEASE.

Nelson Hubbard, 9 Hancock street. "I was hard of hearing in both ears. My left ear grew deaf first and had been very deaf for 10 years. About a year ago the trouble extended to my right ear and the hearing began to fail in that ear too. It was difficult to hear what anyone was saying unless they spoke very loud to me. Today I can hear ordinary conversation plainly. I can hear with the right ear as well as I ever could in my life and with the left ear that was almost totally deaf I can hear a watch ticking 8 inches away."

RIOTS AT ST. LOUIS

Boy Killed by Stray Bullet From a Car

As He Sat in His Own Door—Dynamite Explosion Wrecked a Cable Conduit—900 Men Now Ready to Aid Sheriff in Keeping Peace

By Associated Press to The Sun.

ST. LOUIS, June 4.—A riot of small proportions during the progress of which a boy was fatally shot and a dynamite explosion marred what would have otherwise been an uneventful Sabbath.

As a car on the Tower Grove line of the Transit company was passing the corner of 12th and Calhoun streets, a crowd of strike sympathizers began throwing stones at it. An unknown man leaned from a window of the car and fired a revolver shot toward the crowd. The bullet sped over the heads of the mob and lodged in the breast of Peter Frank, aged 16, who was sitting in the doorway of his father's house. A detachment of police dispersed the rioters. Frank's wound, it is said, will prove fatal.

Late yesterday afternoon an explosion of dynamite shattered the cable conduit and switches in the Olive street line at the intersection of Maryland and Boyle avenues. No one was injured but traffic on that end of the line had been suspended. There is no clue to the perpetrators.

More than the usual quota of police was furnished yesterday for the protection of passengers and crews as a result of the number of cars on the various lines of the Transit company was materially increased.

The work of subpoenaing citizens continued uninterruptedly today. There were 228 additional deputies sworn in Saturday and about 200 yesterday with the 400 already sworn in, gives the sheriff a total force of 900 men to assign to active duty, in response to the call issued Saturday by President Hawes of the police board.

NICARAGUA CANAL BILL POSTPONED

Until the Next Session of Congress

By Associated Press to The Sun.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—Soon after the senate convened today a concurrent resolution was adopted providing for the printing of 16,000 sets of messages and papers of the presidents, 10,000 sets to be sold at the actual cost of publication and 6000 sets to be placed at the disposal of the senate and house.

Mr. Morgan chairman of the committee on inter-oceanic canals, made a request that the so-called Hepburn Nicaragua canal bill be made the special order for consideration, December 10, the second Monday of the next session.

Mr. Morgan said he realized the impossibility of obtaining consideration of the bill at this session. His request was agreed to.

When the morning business was concluded, the senate resumed consideration of the general deficiency bill.

An amendment was offered by Mr. Morgan and agreed to, appropriating $13,508 to re-imburse the Maritime Canal company of Nicaragua for expenditures in aid of the commissions authorized by act of congress known as Ludlow commission for inspection and survey for the Nicaragua canal.

An amendment was offered and agreed to to pay an extra month's salary to the employes of the senate and house of representatives.

IN THE HOUSE.

By Associated Press to The Sun.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—Before proceeding to the consideration of the anti-trust bill under the special order, the house today disposed of some routine business. Mr. Watson, (Ind.) was appointed one of the board of visitors to the naval academy in place of Mr. Grout, resigned. The senate amendments to the sundry civil bill were agreed to and the bill was sent to conference.

tunity would be afforded to test the

Mr. Barthold (Mo.) asked if opportunity of the house on a motion to concur in the St. Louis exposition appropriation. Mr. Cannon replied in the affirmative.

Mr. Ray, chairman of the judiciary committee, demanded the regular order, the anti-trust bill. Under the order, 30 minutes on a side will be allowed for general debate.

Mr. Overstreet (Ind.) who drew the report on the bill occupied the time for general debate on his side with an explanation of the proposed amendments to the Sherman anti-trust law which it contained.

Mr. Fitzgerald (Dem. Mass.) ridiculed the idea that the republican party had done anything to curb the trusts. Only yesterday, he said, the leader of the republican party, the chairman of its national committee, defended in the senate one of the greatest of the trusts, the armor plate trust.

After further remarks by Messrs. Terry (Ark.), Swanson (Va.), Driggs (N. Y.) and Bellamy (N. C.), general debate was closed.

The bill was then read under the five minute rule.

After several minor amendments had been made to the bill, it was reported to the senate, the amendments agreed to and the bill passed. This is the last of the general appropriation bills.

Mr. Allison called up a bill authorizing the secretary of the treasury, the secretary of the interior and the attorney general of the United States to make settlement and adjustment with the Sioux City and Pacific railway of its indebtedness to the United States.

A conference was ordered on the sundry civil appropriation bill and Messrs. Allison, Hale and Cockrell were named as conferees.

The emergency river and harbor bill providing for numerous surveys and for other purposes was taken up and read, the committee amendments being agreed to.

After being amended slightly by individual senators, it was reported to the senate and passed.

The substitute proposed by the senate judiciary committee for the house bill providing for the extradition of alleged criminals from the United States to Cuba was called up by Mr. Fairbanks (Ind).

By Associated Press to The Sun.

PHILADELPHIA, June 2.—The Russian cruiser Variag which left Cramps' ship yard last Tuesday for her builder's trial trip, returned to this city today after having been given a satisfactory test. The big warship was tried out in ever conceivable way and not one weak spot was found in the construction of the vessel. On her speed trial, which took place between the southwest and northeast Five Fathoms Bank lightships, about 20 miles off the Delaware capes last night, the cruiser developed a speed of 22 knots an hour, under natural draft and with one of her boilers out of use. The contract calls for 23 knots an hour. The Russian officers and the builders of the ship are confident that she can cover fully 24 knots when put under forced draught.

SUSPECTS HELD

Six Men are Now Under Arrest

CHARGED WITH CRACKING A SAFE

Not Believed to be the Guilty Ones

By Associated Press to The Sun.

LEWISTON, Me., June 2.—The Buckfield special says:

Six men are now held on suspicion of being concerned in the past office robbery in this village yesterday morning. There is some doubt, however, as to whether any of them can be found guilty. In fact the prevailing impression in this town is that the true robbers have escaped and that the men who have been captured are tramps.

Word came from South Paris last night that two men supposed to be robbers were locked up in a box car at Mechanics Falls. Train hands had discovered the men and promptly confined them. The men submitted to arrest quietly and were taken away without trouble. They gave their names as Edwin Cavanaugh and James Davis. Cavanaugh claims he came from Haverhill, Mass. Davis would not tell where he came from. Cavanaugh is six feet high, weighs some 180 pounds, dark complexion with a very heavy moustache and fairly well dressed in dark clothes. Davis is a short, thick-set man, weighing about 150 pounds with hair inclined to be gray.

This morning, two men were arrested at Buckfield Village and are held for identification. They claim they have just come into the section and assert that they had nothing to do with the robbery.

DEAD BODY FOUND

Mary Sullivan Died Five Months Ago

WHILE SITTING IN A CHAIR

Gruesome Discovery Was Made Today

By Associated Press to The Sun.

BOSTON, June 2.—Sitting bolt upright in the chair where she died five months ago, the body of Mary Sullivan, a middle-aged woman, was found today in her little tenement at No. 3 North Anderson street. Three other families lived in the block but none of them knew of the grewsome presence.

The dead woman had been eccentric so that neighbors did not pry into her affairs. She was about 60 years of age unmarried and had been employed as cook by several Boston families, among them that of Judge Robert Grant.

The woman was last seen alive about December 25. Complaints made by other tenants in the house caused the landlord to investigate today. He entered the apartments through one of the windows and found the body sitting in a chair by the bedside. Death was caused by heart trouble.

SIX DEATHS.

By Associated Press to The Sun.

HALIFAX, N. S., June 2.—There were six deaths on the steamer Arcadia which arrived today during her trip from Hamburg with over a thousand Galacian immigrants. None of the deaths was due to infectious diseases.

OLD BASIN GONE.

The old basin in the North common has been filled in with loam and made level with the surrounding land. It is expected that a band stand will be erected on this spot in a few days so as to be in readiness for the Fourth of July.

DREYFUS AMNESTY BILL.

By Associated Press to The Sun.

PARIS, June 2.—In the senate today the Dreyfus case amnesty bill was adopted by 25 to 24 votes.

MILITARY SURGEONS.

By Associated Press to The Sun.

NEW YORK, June 2.—About fifty members of the association of military surgeons of the United States met in the last day's session of the ninth annual meeting today. The literary program was continued, a paper being read by Captain W. C. Borden, U. S. A., on "The Morbidity of War Wounds With Tentative Conclusions Relative to Modern Weapons and Surgical Methods."

The following officers were elected:

President, Brigadier General A. J. Stone of Minnesota.

Secretary, Col. Charles Adams of Illinois.

Treasurer, Lieut. Herbert M. Arnold, of St. Paul.

St. Paul was selected for the next convention.

NO SPRINKLERS.

The residents of Butterfield street are making a great howl at being assessed for sprinkling the street and there has not been a drop of water put on the street thus far this season. They say that there will be some fun when they are called upon to pay the assessment for street sprinkling.

NEW WELLS CONNECTED.

The water department connected its 51 new boulevard wells on Friday, and 5,000,000 gallons of pure water a day are now available to be added to the city's supply. Unfortunately the pumping station on the boulevard is capable of pumping only a million gallons a day in excess of the regular supply and a new engine will be necessary. The temperature of the water from the new wells is 37; or equal to iced water.

CARS COLLIDED

At Sharp Curve on Electric Road

MOTORMAN WAS SERIOUSLY INJURED

And the Cars Were Badly Damaged

By Associated Press to The Sun.

FALL RIVER, Mass., June 2.—A head-on collision of electric cars occurred this morning on the Newport road, at a sharp curve near Tiverton, which resulted in two cars being badly damaged and Motorman Lewis being badly injured. The cars in collision were a regular car from Newport in charge of Motorman Nickerson and a special car from this city in charge of Lewis. Both cars were loaded and came together with much force. Motorman Nickerson saved himself by jumping, but Lewis was caught between the fender and the car. He was removed to the emergency hospital for treatment and hopes are entertained for his recovery. The passengers suffered no injuries except that resulting from the shock.

LOST HIS CLOTHING.

The city's contagious hospital, now used for the smallpox and varioloid patients, is situated on land belonging to the city farm. It is apart from all other buildings and is carefully guarded to prevent anybody but the doctors from visiting it. There is a man at the city farm whose duty it is to drive the cows to and from pasture. In going for one of the cows a day or two ago, he violated the rules and went within the quarantine lines prescribed. Apparently there was no one around and it did not look as though there could be any danger in approaching the hospital, even if the health authorities had said so. But health rules are made to be enforced. The man did not go back with his cow. Instead he was taken into custody, placed in a cell and his clothing was taken from him and burled. He will not venture near the hospital again.

DISORDERLY SCENES

AT SESSIONS OF THE PROVINCIAL LEGISLATURE.

By Associated Press to The Sun.

CHARLOTTETOWN, P. E. I., June 2—Disorderly scenes have occurred at the sessions of the provincial legislature during the past few days. Owing to the slim majority in the house, by which the Farquharson government (Liberal) holds office, the opposition is placing every possible obstruction in the way of their opponents. One of the members of the house, Mr. Birch, (Conservative) charges that his desk was broken open by some one, and that certain important papers were stolen. These papers, he said, had a bearing on the legality of the seat now occupied by A. A. Pineau, formerly a member of the opposition, but now a supporter of the government. The conservatives charge that the government was only able to save itself from defeat by inducing Mr. Pineau to support it. It is also further charged that Mr. Pineau was sent to Lynn, Mass., to remove him from the influence of his former party friends, and was not recalled until his vote was needed to save the government. Several days have already been occupied by the legislature in a wrangle over the Pineau case. Practically no public business has been transacted.

ALLEN'S SUCCESSOR

FORMALLY OPENS THE NAVAL WAR COLLEGE.

By Associated Press to The Sun.

NEWPORT, R. I., June 2.—The naval war college was formally opened for the summer course of instruction this morning by Hon. Frank W. Hackett, assistant secretary of the navy. The exercises were attended by the greater part of the officers of the naval station and the war vessels at Newport and from Fort Adams, the officers of the class and many civilians.

Captain C. H. Stockton, U. S. N., president of the war college, introduced Assistant Secretary Hackett, who spoke in complimentary terms of his predecessor, Assistant Secretary Allen. He spoke of Mr. Allen's leaving his congenial duties in the navy department to become governor of Porto Rico, thus yielding to the choice of the president from a sense of duty. He said that the war college, young as it was, had amply justified its existence in the solution of problems of naval administration. He dwelt upon the present popularity of the navy, saying that formerly admiration for our sailors found a home chiefly along the seaboard, but that today it knew no boundary or locality. The guns of Dewey and of Sampson had awakened gladdening echoes throughout the land. He spoke of the increased responsibility which the nation had assumed and the new duties required of commanding officers in distant waters. The test of success in war was that a commander achieve the largest results possible with the instructions placed in his hands. The effective force of the ship depended upon the men who handled it. He spoke of the fact that few men had gained distinction in business or science except by reason of knowing more about one thing than anybody else. He dwelt upon the infinite subjects that an officer of the navy at present must comprehend the mystery of the ocean, currents and winds, the miracle of modern human ingenuity, the modern battleship; chemistry, electricity, hygiene, diplomacy and international law. Moreover, the officer must be conversant with human nature under a blue flannel shirt, must be a master of discipline and possess rare decision of character.

At the conclusion of the address, a reception was given by the assistant secretary in the library of the war college building and was attended by all of the officers at the lecture.

Next week, Captain A. T. Mahan, U. S. N., retired, formerly president of the college, will give a series of six lectures on "Napoleon's Campaigns in Italy," deducting therefrom lessons in the art of war.

MAN'S BODY FOUND.

By Associated Press to The Sun.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., June 2.—The police of this city found the body of a man in the waters of Fresh Pond, the source of the water supply today. It was unrecognizable, but the jacket contained a flat iron and because of this the body is believed to be that of Harry W. Ried of this city, formerly a stenographer in the office of Adjutant-General Dalton. Ried disappeared over two months ago, taking with him a flat-iron similar to the one found on his body. He had been despondent.

HOW ACTORS SPEND THEIR MONEY.

The Fads and Fancies That Lure the Nimble Dollar From the Pocket of the Footlight Favorite.

By An Actress.

As the theatrical season draws to a close a great many of the vast numbers of theatre goers ask the question, "Now that the time for rest has come, how do the great actors and actresses who draw enormous salaries spend their money? Do they settle down at some quiet resort in America or Europe or do they trot around the globe in search of excitement from an irresistible habit of itinerancy acquired by constant travel during their season of work?

The answers to these questions are almost as numerous as there are individual actors and actresses, for nearly every one of the great stars has a favorite way of spending his or her vacation and using up the money earned by months of tedious labor. Actors are proverbially improvident. That "rainy day" which comes sooner or later seldom enters their thoughts so long as they draw salary. They live on the "eat, drink and be merry, for to-morrow ye die" principle; but oh, what a difference in the old age! Still they go right on with their false theories and will not learn the lesson of economy.

Whether it is the idea of sudden death which makes an actor wasteful and extravagant, or whether it is a succession of idle, empty days hanging heavy on his hands that tempts him to buy everything he sees, from a Japanese cabinet to a milk punch, who shall say? The interesting fact remains that he cannot keep money in his inside pocket.

Joseph Jefferson is wealthy, but he has made so much money that it would have puzzled him to find ways of getting rid of all of it, even had he been so inclined. He is far from being a spendthrift, however, but he supports at least twenty-five persons and gives a great deal to the poor. He takes his pleasure in painting and in exchanging fish stories with his friend, Grover Cleveland.

Sol Smith Russell is worth at least a quarter of a million. He used to be passionately fond of faro, but found that real estate investments paid better. Now, beyond a small and friendly game as a summer pastime, he does not "copper the ace."

Nat Goodwin has accumulated at least $150,000 and spends a great deal of his money upon his beautiful summer home in England. It is said that he also is fond of passing away the hours at poker, at which he is specially lucky. But this report can afford to "be taken with salt."

Francis Wilson has plenty of this world's goods, and he deserves it. The story of his courage and ambition as a young man is pretty generally known. He was a song and dance man at a salary of $75. He aspired to the legitimate, throwing up this comfortable income, began at the lowest rung of the operatic ladder, receiving $10 a week. He was earnest, studious and determined.

He has never wasted his substance in riotous living. No one sees him in barrooms or loafing about the streets. To-day he is the richest comic-opera comedian on the stage. He is a linguist, an art connoisseur and the best amateur fencer in this country. He paid $80,000 for his summer home at New Rochelle New York. It is a perfectly appointed miniature theatre. He has a fine collection of rare books and prints, and adds to it each year during his vacation travels. He spares no expense in making his home what a cultured man's ideal should be.

Richard Mansfield has a passion for collecting armor and curios. He is also fond of yachting and goes in for the sport extensively each summer. He owns a handsome pleasure boat on which he entertains his friends in a lavish manner during the "resting" season. Young Emmet owns a steam yacht, and it is his chief delight to open wine for his pals when they visit him on board the what's-its-name?

The mention of Billy Crane's name calls up visions of sailboats. Crane lives on his yacht in the summer, occasionally dropping in at his home in Cohasset, Mass., just to show his family that there is no ill-feeling.

Henry Irving spends fabulous sums on the production of plays. Every detail must be perfect, no matter what the expense. For instance, the peal of bells used at the end of the first act of "Faust" and heard but a few seconds as the curtain falls, cost $5,000. He brought a church organ to this country and an experienced organist as well, besides 400 tons scenery for his repertoire of plays. He also brought over a singer at a salary of $100 a week to render one song in a play he thought of producing. He wasn't even sure that he would produce it. There is no "rubbing" in Mr. Irving's plays. It is said that he has a fortune, but it cannot be very large when so much of his money goes for staging his plays.

George Clark has the right idea of saving money. He believes that the time to make hay is while the sun is shining. When he was with Augustin Daly he received a salary of $150 a week. Do you think he went to expensive hostelries and hung his dress suit up in a $1-a-day room? Not he. He quietly hied him to half bedrooms in $10-a week boarding-houses and sewed $140 to the inside of his chest-protector. He has a farm not far from New York and a snug sum invested in bonds. So if he lives to ripe old age he won't be afraid of any wolves confronting around his door.

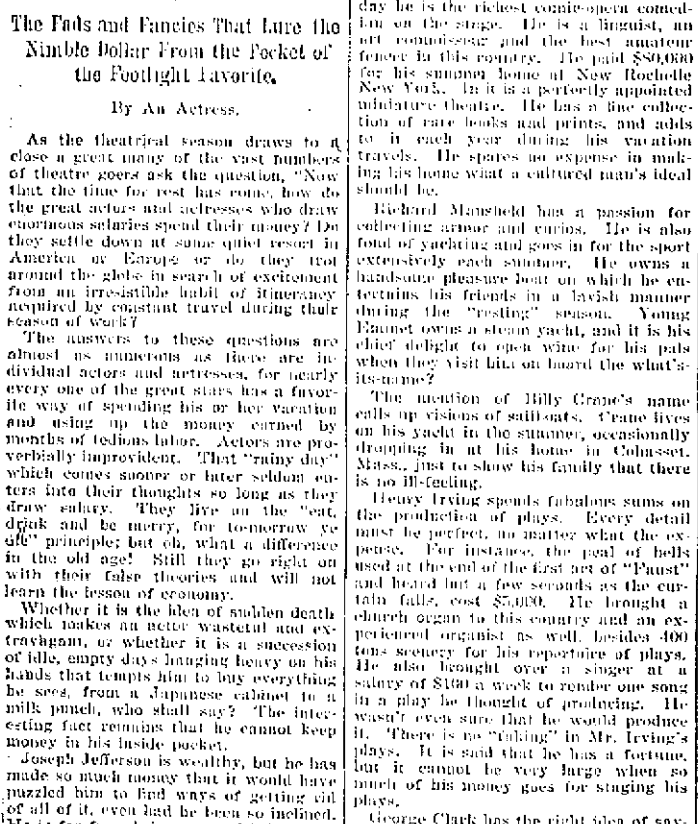

Lillian Russell has ventured to buy a $70,000 house, but she is very extravagant, and they say she has not much cash, though her jewels are worth over a quarter of a million. A great deal of the "American Beauty's" money goes toward the education of her only daughter. Stuart Robson's fad is books. John Drew's hobby is books pertaining to the drama. He has a rare collection.

Della Fox invests largely in diamonds. So does Johnstone Bennett. "Johnny" is devoted to amateur photography and always travels with a camera. Mr. and Mrs. Bancroft, shining lights of the English stage, have an odd hobby. It is usual with them to pass their summers in Wales. When they find a church altar which does not appeal to their artistic sense they immediately build one to their taste and present it to the church. During a recent sojourn in Switzerland they built a church in a little town which they visited.

Ada Rehan likes to pick up unique pieces of furniture for her house in New York. Maude Harrison delights in bric-a-brac. Maud Adams is quiet and studious, and her taste is distinctly in the line of books. She spends her vacation at her beautiful summer home on Long Island, riding and "looking after the farm," accompanied by her mother, to whom she is very devoted.

De Wolf Hopper spends most of his money in buying and staging operas. He has never had any great amount of the gold. His wig bill is quite an item. You know he loses a lot of them "rooting" for baseball; but, wig or no wig, we all love him!

Thomas Whiffen is a book fiend, and has a fine library. Dickens is his idol. Mention David Copperfield to him and in a jiffy this is what you will hear: "The twins have ceased to derive their nutriment from nature's fount. 'In short,' said Mr. Micawber, in a burst of confidence, 'the twins are wearied.'" This, in his funny, inimitable voice, followed by "Oh, beautiful!" He actually smacks his lips over Dickens, and one can't blame him.

MAY IRWIN, WRITER OF MANY FUNNY TALES OF THE STAGE.

WILLIE KEELER AT THE BAT.

ALEC SMITH.

FUNNY TIMES UPON THE STAGE.

And how Augustin Daly Once Caught John Drew Imitating his Peculiarities.

By May Irwin.

I never shall forget my first rehearsal at Daly's, or how I suffered. The play was one of Pinero's called "Boys and Girls."

I had to go on just after the curtain went up. I was supposed to smell an odor of burned fish, and Mr. Daly's directions to me were to come on, sniff, look around and sniff harder. I at once objected right out loud, "Why, no." I said, "that would be absurd. I should go straight to the fireplace, where the smell comes from, of course. Why, Mr. Daly, do you suppose if I smelled something burning in my flat I wouldn't know enough to go to the range?"

The guv'nor, that's what we all called him, must have been thunderstruck; every one else was; for the slow voice in which he said, "Miss Irwin, I don't allow this," was the least bit choky.

I saw what I had done, of course, "Very well," I said, "I'll try it your way." And I did, but I couldn't do it. I think we must have done it twenty times, and it was not much nearer what he wanted, but at last we went on.

* * *

In a few days we reached the second act, and at once struck a similar snag. The guv'nor was sitting down in the auditorium, and his solemn voice informed me: "Not in the least like it."

"Well, I'll try again," I said, and I did.

Then up to me came the remark: "Well, I wonder where you have left your intelligence this morning." It was the last straw. I had never before been spoken to like that in my life—and here it came out before all the company! I tried to take a brave, but couldn't, so I just broke down and blubbered. It was the first time I ever did such a thing.

"Go on," said the inexorable voice, and I could only sob, "You'll have to wait for me."

"Very well, skip that and go on," said Mr. Daly, and I retired to a dark corner and cried as if my heart was broken. Pretty soon Daly hunted me up. "Come, come," said he, "you mustn't do this. I treat all my people alike. If you don't do well, you as well as I will be criticised. It's for your own sake as much as mine." And that was the last encounter of that kind we ever had.

It did not take me long to understand that Mr. Daly knew more than I did, and that to learn to follow him was to make it out.

* * *

The many stories of Willie Collier, while he was callboy at the theatre, imitating Mr. Daly behind the scenes are true. You know that guv'nor got himself into all sorts of queer postures when he was at work. He would twist one leg up behind the other and get all in a snarl. Well, Willie would get behind him and imitate him, exaggerating it awfully, of course, but following him right along in every movement.

It was excruciatingly funny, and I always laughed hard. The guv'nor would hear the titter behind him, and, without turning his head, say, "Willie, tell them to keep quiet," and Willie would come right up to me and say "Sh!" Why, I came near losing my engagement there that way.

But the story that Mr. Daly caught Collier imitating him is not true. He caught John Drew. It was one morning when we were waiting for the guv'nor to arrive. Mr. Drew began walking about in Mr. Daly's way, and along came Mr. Daly and saw it all. All he said was, "Ah, very good, very good. Willie, call the first act."

GREAT ENGLISH RACE OF THE YEAR.

And the Many Sensational Happenings Which Have Made the Derby Notable in the Past.

Among all the events in the sporting calendar in England there is nothing to compare with Derby Day and, as the result, this race, which is so soon to be run again, is now one of the chief topics of interest from one end of the United Kingdom to the other; in fact, if it were not for the war it would be the only subject worthy of being talked about.

If there is any one thing that will make the present Derby conspicuous, it will be the absence of the Duke of Westminster, who succeeded in carrying off the honors last year with that great horse, Flying Fox. Four times the Duke won the riband that is so highly prized, and there has been scarcely a race for twenty years or more in which his stable has not been well represented. Naturally, therefore, he will be missed by those who gather to watch the contest this season, but there is no doubt that more than one of the horses that appear at the track will recall the old sportsman to the mind of the spectators, as the blood of his stable is represented by more than one of the prominent contestants.

It would be difficult for one to find any event in turf history that has a more interesting record for sensational contests than the Derby. In fact, it is not necessary to search very far back before one discovers the record of an event that was sensational enough to appeal to the soul of the most hardened admirer of the runners, for, of the hundred-odd struggles that have been contested upon Epsom Downs, few have caused more excitement than the race of 1896, when Jeddah, starting at the decidedly useful price of 100 to 1 against him, beat the Duke of Westminster's colt Batt by three-quarters of a length, with another 100 to 1 chance, Dunlop, a moderate third.

AN EXCITING RACE.

It is a long cry back from 1898 to 1844—a year that will always be associated with one of the most daring turf frauds ever perpetrated. In that year a horse described on the card as "Mr. A. Wood's Running Rein, by The Saddler—Queen Mab." came in first for the Derby; but, it being afterward proved to the satisfaction of the jockey club authorities that the winner was actually a four-year-old by Gladiator—Capsicum's Dam, the race was awarded to General Peel's colt Orlando, which had finished second.

The Derby of 1867, won by Mr. Chaplin's Hermit, will always be memorable for having been run during a snow storm, and by reason of the fact that some of the most sensational wagering on record took place over this race.

It was undoubtedly the victory of Hermit that ruined the ill-fated Marquis of Hastings, whose losses amounted to nearly $1,000,000. One transaction alone made by this plunging nobleman was an even $50,000 upon three of the competitors, not one of which succeeded in getting a place. The bulk of his losses, however, was sustained through laying heavily against Hermit at long odds.

The term "sensational" may also be appropriately applied to the Derby of 1868, for Blue Gown was so badly thought of by his owner that the latter did not risk a single penny upon him. In spite of this, however, the colt won easily, in the then record time of 2.43¼, and Sir Joseph Hawley, the owner, was so delighted at seeing his black and cherry jacket borne to victory in the coveted race that he presented the whole of the stakes, worth about $30,000, to "Tiny" Wells, the jockey who had sat astride the horse.

The entries for the Derby of this year are as yet in such a condition that it is difficult to even attempt to make a reasonable guess at the probable winner. Many fine colts have been entered and each of the animals is heart and soul out for the Blue Riband.

THERE IS BIG MONEY ON THE DIAMOND.

The Managers Have Arranged it so That the Teams Will be Prosperous in 1900.

The baseball season is now fairly upon us, and from this time until the November breezes make their presence felt, we shall revel in descriptions of phenomenal batting, sensational catching and a host of other features that are so dear to the hearts of those who follow the great National game.

If the opinion of the venerable president of the National League is to be taken for anything, "the present season is to be the most successful in the history of the game," and as Mr. Young has been intimately associated with professional baseball since the organization of the big league in 1876, his prediction ought to receive more than passing consideration.

Disregarding all of Mr. Young's prophecies, however, there is more than one reason to suppose that for the year 1900 the "most successful season" will be fully realized. In the first place, the National League has finally accomplished a feat that removes the greatest stumbling block in the way of the prosperity of the game.

For years past, in fact, ever since the expensive war between the players and the managers in 1890, there has been just one drawback that could not be overcome, and the game has simply tottered along because of the cumbersome burden of a badly scattered and unwieldy circuit of twelve clubs.

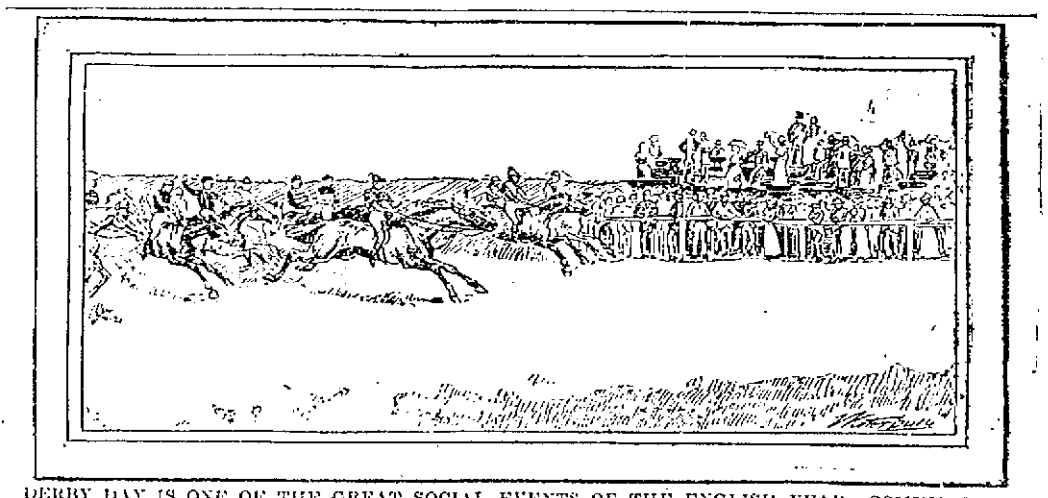

The only excuse that could be given for maintaining all these clubs was that the League desired to occupy all the available territory and thus make it impossible for a rival organization to gain a foothold. In one sense of the word, the object of the League was attained. This action effectually prevented competition and yet the necessity of carrying so much dead timber entailed a loss that it has been difficult to overcome.

Another argument that may be used against a twelve team league is that there is not a sufficient number of players of the first rank to form twelve well-balanced clubs. As the result, as the history of the game will show, half a dozen cities have absorbed all the strongest players and the remaining towns on the circuit have been compelled to accept those that have been left over.

Under such conditions it was impossible to have other than one-sided contests and it is not strange that there should have been a lack of interest and loss of patronage on occasions in which the results were already settled. People do not like to see a game, the result of which is a foregone conclusion, and when, last year, the Bostons or the Brooklyns played the Clevelands, it was a well-recognized fact that the latter could only win as the result of an accident. Such baseball contests are farcical, and it is a matter for congratulation that these conditions have been eradicated.

In spite of all these facts, however, it was with the greatest difficulty that this result was accomplished. For years baseball has been an unsatisfactory business venture, and yet the managers have hesitated to take the step that would place them upon a paying basis. According to the Indianapolis agreement of 1891, the twelve team league was to continue its existence for ten years, unless in the meantime there were clubs that failed to meet their obligations. At no time has this occurred, and, as the result, the change from the twelve to the eight club league meant the purchase of four franchises. In no other way could the league be relieved of its twelve club incubus.

This desirable and much needed change was brought about through the efforts of Andrew Freedman, the owner and president of the New York club. It is a well-recognized fact that New York is the keystone of the baseball arch from a financial point of view.

DERBY DAY IS ONE OF THE GREAT SOCIAL EVENTS OF THE ENGLISH YEAR; COMING IN THE MIDST OF THE LONDON SEASON IT ATTRACTS A GREAT CROWD OF FASHIONABLE PEOPLE, INCLUDING THE ROYAL FAMILY, HEADED BY THE PRINCE OF WALES.

AGUINALDO SHOT?

Major March Thinks Leader Has Fallen

By Associated Press to The Sun.

VIGAN, Luzon, June 2, via Manila, June 3.—Major March, with his detachment of the 33d regiment, overtook what is believed to have been Aguinaldo's party on May 19 at Lagat, about 100 miles northeast of Vigan. The Americans killed or wounded an officer, supposed to be Aguinaldo, whose body was removed by his followers.

Aguinaldo had one hundred men, and Major March had 125. The American commander reached Labuagan, where Aguinaldo had made his headquarters since March 6, on May 7. Aguinaldo had fled seven hours before, leaving all the beaten trails, and traveling through the forest along the beds of streams. Toward evening, May 19, Major March struck Aguinaldo's outpost about a mile outside of Lagat, killing four Filipinos and capturing two. From the latter he learned that Aguinaldo had camped there for the night. Although exhausted and half starved, Major March's men entered Lagat on the run. They saw the insurgents scattering into the bushes or over the plateau. A thousand yards beyond the town, on the mountain side, the figures of twenty-five Filipinos dressed in white with the leader on a gray horse, were silhouetted against the sunset. The Americans fired a volley and saw the officer drop from his horse. His followers fled, carrying the body.

The Americans, on reaching the spot, caught the horse, which was richly saddled. Blood from a badly wounded man was on the animal and on the ground. The saddlebags contained Aguinaldo's diary and some private papers, including proclamations. One of these was addressed "To the civilized nations." It protested against the American occupation of the Philippines. There were also found copies of Senator Beveridge's speech, translated into Spanish and entitled "The death knell of the Filipino people."

Major March, believing that the Filipinos had taken to a river which is a tributary to the Chico, followed it for two days, reaching Tiao, where he learned that a party of Filipinos had descended the river, May 20, on a raft with the body of a dead or wounded man upon a litter, covered with palm leaves.

There Major March reviewed his command, shoeless and exhausted, and picked out 24 of the freshest men, with whom he beat the surrounding country for six days longer, but without finding any trace of the insurgents. The Americans pushed on and arrived at Aparri, May 29. The officer shot was either Aguinaldo or als adjutant; and as the horse was richly caparisoned, it is a fair presumption that it was Aguinaldo.

The soldiers of General Young, military governor of northwestern Luzon, captured early last Month an insurgent officer with papers revealing Aguinaldo's whereabouts. General Young immediately organized for pursuit, giving Major March a chance to finish the work begun in November. Major March left Candon May 20, hurrying north towards Laboagan, while Colonel Hare, with a battalion divided into two parts, started from Rangued, the province of Abra, covering the trails westward. The garrison in the Cagayan valley were disposed in such a way as to guard the avenues of escape eastward.

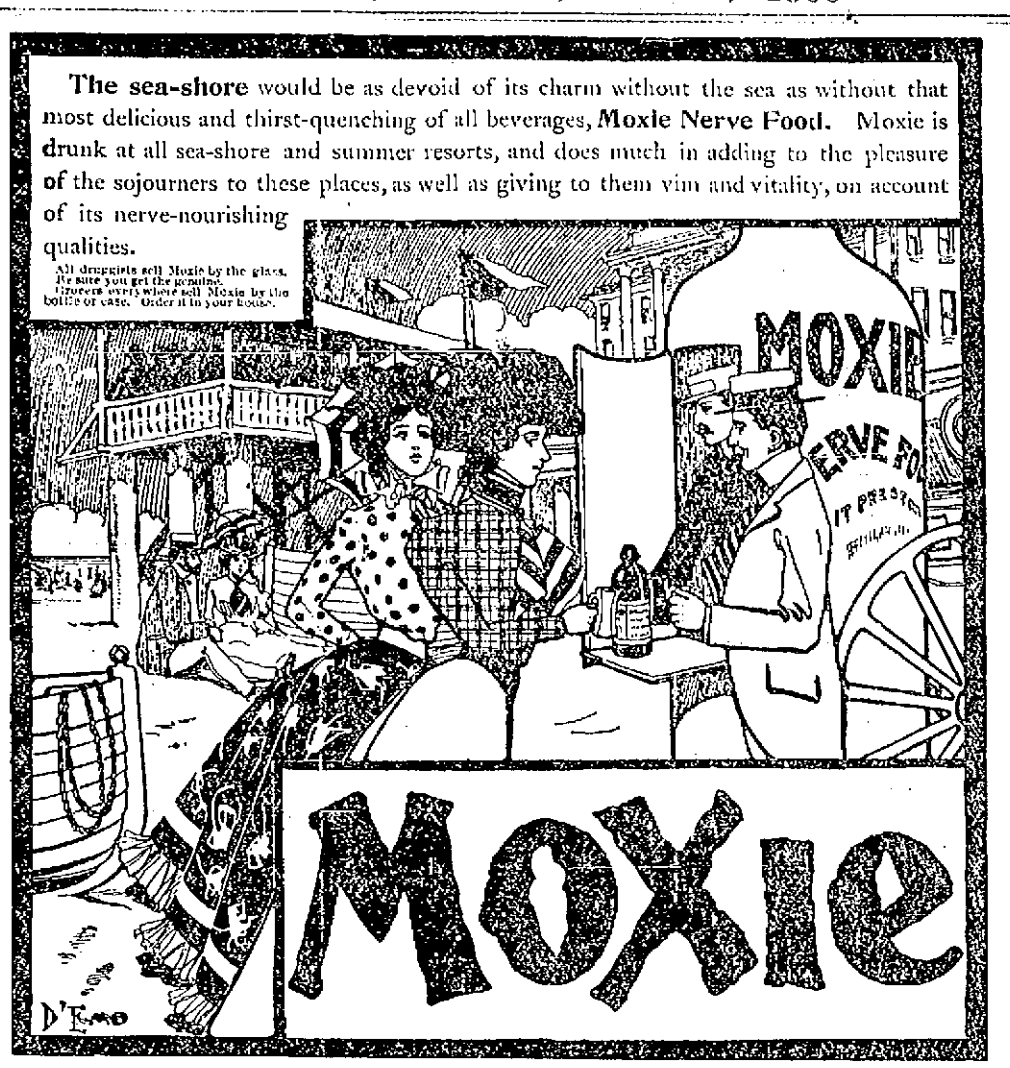

Spies heralded the approach of Major March with signal fires. On reaching Laboagan he apprehended a letter in Aguinaldo's handwriting, the ink of which was hardly dry, addressed to an officer of guerillas of the Filipino army and saying:

"There having arrived this morning at Laboagan a hostile column from Bokoo, I have set out with all my force. My road had no fixed destination."

This was signed "Col. David," a subriquet. Aguinaldo called at the presidentia, from which he issued decrees and where his followers celebrated Easter with a banquet at a triangular table, where speeches were made, eulogizing Gregoro de Pilar.

That night Major March's men slept in the bamboo resuming the advance in the morning and reaching Lagat, 40 miles distant, in two days, although it was raining hard in the mountains all the time.

Aguinaldo's papers are very important. They show that he took refuge in Isabella province, where he remained until he established himself at Laboagan, province of Abra, where he proposed to direct the rainy season operations. Until recently he was ignorant of outside events, making no pretence of directing the insurrection, happy if indeed, he might be able to keep alive among the hostile Igorrotes, who killed several of his followers.

FELL OUT WINDOW

Richard Webb Seriously Injured by Fall

FROM WINDOW IN BOOTT MILLS SATURDAY

Sustained a Fracture of the Jaw

Richard Webb, a fireman on the Boott corporation, met with a very serious accident while at work Saturday night, about 8 o'clock.

Engineer Hoyt requested him to go up stairs one flight and close a window. Webb went up and a short time later was found lying on the ground outside, unconscious and severely injured.

He was taken to the corporation hospital where it was learned that he had sustained a fracture of the jaw and clavicle. He has been in this city about ten years and has a brother, John, in Fall River and an uncle, Mr. Patrick Horan of 82 Gorham street.

It is supposed that Webb fell from the window, though no one saw the accident. He was in another accident about three months ago when a revolver accidentally went off in his hands and shot him in the fingers. He was then living at 53 Bridge street. At 2.30 o'clock this morning he was resting comfortably.

Serbser had drank heavily, and had neglected his family lately and they told him they did not want him around. He threatened to jump in the river and it is supposed that he committed suicide by drowning in the Merrimack here.

FATAL ASSAULT

Man Struck With an Iron Cuspidor

ALLEGED ASSAILANT UNDER ARREST

Taken in Charge by Boston Police

By Associated Press to The Sun.

HAVERHILL, Mass., June 4.—The town of Plaistow, N. H., is considerably excited over an assault committed on Ralph B. Muntress, at the Union house in that town, and the probability is that he will not live very long. The authorities in that town were informed late last night that Harry Green was arrested in Boston late last evening on the charge of committing a murderous assault on Muntress. It is alleged that Green struck Muntress over the head with an iron cuspidor early Saturday morning and the blow rendered him unconscious.

COLOMBIA REBELS

SANK A GOVERNMENT GUNBOAT NEAR CARTHAGENA.

By Associated Press to The Sun.

KINGSTON, Ja., June 4.—The British steamer Orinoco which arrived here yesterday from Colombia reports that on May 21 the rebels were within six miles of Panama. The government troops had prepared for action; the British consul and others had left with their families for Tabogu, for safety; all the Colombian soldiers had left Colon to strengthen the Panama garrison and 280 soldiers, brought from Savanilla by a French steamer on May 28, had gone to Panama. The United States warship Machias was at Colon when the Orinoco left, under orders to land marines if the city was threatened by the rebels.

The authorities of Colon had been impressing into the military service large numbers of native youths. The Orinoco brings also a report that a Colombian gunboat, the Cordova, was sunk by the rebels between Carthagena and Colon. Carthagena and Savanilla are quiet but the country is flooded with paper money, the premium on gold being 1000 per cent.

ANNUAL BANQUET

OF THE ASSOCIATED PRESS OPERATORS HELD IN BOSTON.

The second annual meeting and banquet of the New England Telegraph Corps of the Associated Press was held in Gould's hotel, Boston, yesterday. The occasion was a happy reunion of all the members of the corps, honorary and active, and was made the more enjoyable by the presence of the New England manager of the Associated Press, Mr. John H. Fahey, who in a brief, yet bright and pointed address, expressed his appreciation of the service rendered the association by the operators, referred to the importance their work is to the success of the association and wished them all prosperity and success.

That the operators were gratified by his remarks was evidenced by the applause that followed the speech. Probably no two men in such positions as those occupied by Mr. Fahey as New England agent and Mr. Ernest M. Fisher as chief of the operators of the Associated Press, enjoy to such an extent as they do the confidence of their employes. For both of them the operators have the greatest regard and esteem.

The men in the service place every reliance in these two men, and have never had occasion to regret it, for their interests, at all times have been guarded well and faithfully.

The menu at yesterday's banquet was the best that Gould's could provide and 7-20-4 cigars were smoked with the compliments of the manufacturer.

John H. Fahey, Boston, (honorary); Miss M. A. Estes, Woonsocket, R. I.; P. J. O'Connor, Lewiston, Me.; H. C. Bunting, Portland, Me.; R. E. Grandfield, Fall River; Mr. A. Fleming, Haverhill; E. J. Neill, Lawrence; C. F. Whitney of The Sun, Lowell; J. Keating, Lowell; S. P. Nash, Taunton; H. C. Belles, New Bedford; G. F. Cannon, Concord; P. J. Stewart, Manchester; E. C. Cooke, Pawtucket; G. W. S. Burroughs, Providence; C. A. Price, Providence, and the following officials of the Associated Press office in Boston: Ernest M. Fisher, J. A. Griswold, C. G. Rogers.

The invited guests were Fred H. Glasby, Boston; D. Roy Newcomb, New Bedford; Thomas J. Mulligan of The Sun, Lowell; J. A. Hosey, Biddeford, Me.; L. C. Wedmore, Boston; A. F. Booth, Boston.

The following officers of the association were re-elected: Ernest M. Fisher, president; Robert E. Grandfield, Fall River, vice president; Park J. Stewart, Manchester, secretary; Chester G. Rogers, Boston, treasurer; relief fund investigating committee, G. W. S. Burroughs, Providence; George F. Cannon, Concord; A. M. Stevens, Portland; James A. Griswold, Boston.

HE WAS DROWNED

Tragic Fate of a Young Greek

WHILE BATHING WITH COMPANIONS

Had Been in Country Only One Week

Epaminondas Stathopulos, a Greek aged 19 years, and only one week in this country, was drowned in the Suffolk canal while bathing Saturday afternoon.

Owing to the fact that the mills are working overtime, the canals are not drawn off Saturday noon as was formerly the custom.

Stathopulos, with several of his countrymen, went to a point of the canal winding between the Suffolk bridge and Ellison's machine shop for the purpose of taking a bath, although none of the party, it is said, could swim. Stathopulos ventured out too far and before anything could be done he was in a dangerous position.

He screamed for help but his companions were powerless to act. Several attempts were made by them to reach him, but he was too far and soon sank.

The drowning man's screams attracted many to the banks, but before assistance could be given him.

Stathopulos was employed in the Tremont & Suffolk mills. He lived with his cousin, who was the only relative he had in this city.

WATCH YOUR KIDNEYS!

DR. HOLTIN'S KIDNEY TABLETS WILL CURE THEM.

The Verdict of Mr. J. F. O'Donnell is the Verdict of Thousands.

WATCH FOR THE DANGER SIGNALS.

Dizziness, Backache, Headache, Tired Feeling, Pains Across the Loins or in the Bladder, Nervousness, Sleeplessness, Chills, Scalding Urine or Urine of an Unnatural Color, All Tell One Story—That of Diseased Kidneys.

As surely as the heart beats time to the life of a man so do the kidneys foreshadow death. It is simply a matter a few years when the neglecting of the kidneys' danger signals result in the life of a man and woman being prematurely cut off. When the kidneys are in a healthy condition they extract all poison and disease germs from the blood, passing them along the canal that connects the kidneys with the bladder and then out of the system along with the urine. When the kidneys are in a diseased condition from overwork, cold, or any one of the very numerous causes they refuse to perform their functions as a filter, causing the very prominent display of the signals above referred to.

Many and many are the letters that have been received by THE HOLTIN CHEMICAL CO. from suffering people, who regret with their last breath that they did not take heed of the danger signals that were given them by nature. Suffering in the last grasp of the dreaded Bright's Disease, they knew that had they taken DR. HOLTIN'S KIDNEY TABLETS their lives would not have been crushed out before their natural time. Is this not a warning to people who are rushing along life's pathway without any regard to the cry of Nature's signs?

The American people, as a nation, overwork their kidneys. This fact, coupled with the large quantity of injurious acids contained in the common American beverages, fully accounts for the surprising and always increasing number of deaths in this country from the fatal Bright's Disease, Bright's Disease, the advanced form of Kidney Disease is purely and simply consumption of the kidneys. Like consumption of the lungs, a cure is almost utterly impossible in its advanced stage. All persons—mothers and fathers, sons and daughters—owe to themselves and family connections a serious duty—that of taking such steps as will insure them against premature death. Weak, overworked kidneys must be attended to. They must do their functions properly, and all injurious acid consumed through the stomach must be obliterated by means of the kidneys, and if the kidneys are in any way clogged, the proper medicine must be taken to assist them in their filtering process.

Kansas City, Mo., April 24, 1900.

Holtin Chemical Company, New York City.

Gentlemen: Noticing your advertisement in The Star, where you guarantee to cure kidney troubles with Dr. Holtin's Kidney Tablets, I purchased a box and began treatment five weeks ago. I am now on my third box and must say I never felt as well as I do at present. Before using your tablets I suffered from backache, headache, nervousness and was unable to sleep nights. My urine was scanty and a desire to urinate frequently, even getting up three or four times during the night. These symptoms have all passed and, although I feel well and am able to attend to my business, yet I intend to continue with your medicine until I am sure I have become completely cured.

I have recommended your tablets to several friends, who also speak highly of the benefits they have derived from their use. You may use my name to recommend your Kidney Tablets at any time, and I hope they will benefit others as they have. Yours Truly, J. F. O'DONNELL.

Pretoria Being Bombarded by French's Cavalry

By Associated Press to The Sun.

MASERU, Basutoland, Friday, June 1—General Brabant's horse have been the subjects of several small captures at the hands of the Boers. Lieut. Rundle, with 20 men while searching a farm house in the Ficksburg district, were captured, two of the men being wounded. Lieut. Lees and two men were captured while "commandeering." Another patrol of the Border Horse numbering 20 men, while pursuing a small party of Boers, were surrounded and captured.

Count Gleichen sent 13 men of the Provincial Horse under Lieut. Bowker with a flag of truce to Senekal to demand the surrender of that place. The Boers captured the entire party and after robbing the men of all but their clothing, sent them to Ufede, whence some of them managed to escape. Most of those who succeeded in eluding their guards, however, were re-captured.

CONFUSION REIGNS AT PRETORIA

By Associated Press to The Sun.

CAPE TOWN, Sunday, June 3.—The telegraph to Pretoria is still open. The town is in great confusion. There has been a general exodus, among those taking part in it being the foreign fighting again. Six special trains left on Wednesday last, and one of them is reported to have been derailed. No British refugees have arrived.

LORD ROBERTS 25 MILES FROM PRETORIA

By Associated Press to The Sun.

LONDON, June 4.—4 a. m.—There is no direct news from Pretoria of later date than Thursday evening. General French's cavalry was then at Irene, eight miles south of Pretoria, and firing was heard there. Lord Roberts' messages about secondary operations elsewhere and the situation at Johannesburg, dated at Orange Grove, a farm four miles northeast of Johannesburg show that on Saturday at 9.10 p. m. he was 25 miles from Pretoria.

The correspondents with Lord Roberts have not got through a line about the operations after the occupation of Johannesburg. Official messages continue to come through, but press telegrams are held up, probably to avoid their giving even a hint as to what may be the pending operations. From the other side there filters through Lourenzo Marques a mass of statements, some contradictory, others obviously improbable, but the following purporting to be facts:

"Passengers arriving at Lourenzo Marques Saturday direct from Pretoria say that the capital was preparing to surrender when they left Thursday. The forts were dismantled. The Boer guard at Komati Poort searched all trains and turned back most of the fugitives, among them deserting foreigners who were striving to reach neutral soil.

"Immense Boer convoys of provisions are between Pretoria and Middleburg. Fifteen trains are sent daily to Machadsdoran with supplies for Lydenburg. Pretoria is pictured by the refugees as in a state of indescribable confusion and chaos. The populace are dismayed and the British are expected hourly."

Some foreign attaches have arrived at Lourenzo Marques to communicate with their governments for orders to leave, as they consider that "organized war on the Transvaal side is at an end. Flying among the Boers are reports that the British have been beaten back at Lindley with heavy loss; that the main attack on Elandsfontein failed and Lord Roberts was forced to retire to Klipsriverberg; that the railway has been cut behind him south of Vereeniging and that a provision train has been captured.

Without crediting any of these Boer bulletins everything from the field of war behind Lord Roberts points to a great effort last week to paralyze his advance by a bold stroke from the eastward at the railway north of Bloemfontein. Unless four Boer columns were in a movement seemingly with this objective, there was a commando in front of General Brabant, near Ficksburg; another faced General Rundle, near Senekal, a third occupied Lindley, and pressed toward the railway, and a fourth seized Heilbron and pushed toward Kroonstad. These operations, assuming them to have been independent, all appear to have failed.

The revival of the Boer fighting power east of Lord Roberts' advance, although fruitless, is a symptom that the Boers are not yet crushed. In General Rundle's attack on the entrenched Boers, seven miles east of Senekal, May 29, the British did not see a Boer all day, so completely were they screened. The British infantry did not get within 1,600 yards of their riflemen. The 182 losses wired by Lord Roberts were suffered by the Grenadiers and Scots Guards while advancing over a level from which the grass had been burned. The Britishers in khaki were a conspicuous target against the black background.

General Rundle withdrew his whole force at sundown to Senekal, having succeeded in drawing the Boers from Lindley allowing the threatened force to get away safely. The Boers sent to the British for medical help, saying that Commandant Devilliers was seriously wounded. General Rundle sent a doctor with a bottle of champagne and his compliments, as well as a message that he would release all the Boer prisoners at Senekal.

In the advance of the Grenadiers Col. Lloyd led in the face of a deadly fire. He was hit, but struggled on only to be disabled by another bullet. Lieut. Murray falling, cried: "Forward, Grenadiers." The blinding smoke of the veldt hampered the operations.

Lieut. Lord Seymour on offering to go back to direct the artillery was wounded. The order to retire was given and executed under a screen of smoke. The Boer fire was kept up until dusk.

According to a despatch to the Daily Telegraph from New Castle dated Saturday, the Boers exhibited signs of leaving Laings Nek.

Newspaper commentaries here generally regard the situation in Pretoria as enigmatical. They rather expect news of the British occupation today.

In the Indian mail landed at Dover Saturday was a bag of despatches from Pretoria, including some from the Transvaal government to its agents abroad. The destination of the bag was Naples, but it was landed at Aden by a German steamer through a mistake and was shipped with the Indian mail to Prindisi, where is was taken up by the English authorities.

The Lourenzo Marques correspondent of the Times telegraphing June 2 says:

"An Austrian who was seven months in active service in the Transvaal declares that a large proportion of the burghers are deserting to their homes. The arrangement whereby the British prisoners at Pretoria have been placed until an armed guard with British officers, pending the formal occupation of the town is ascribed to the good sense and humane disposition of General Louis Botha, and the Transvaal war secretary, both of whom have earned the profound respect of all classes. It is interesting to note that Lord Roberts' soldierly qualities are admired greatly by both Boers and foreigners. It seems that the Boer attack upon Irene was intended to cover the withdrawal from Pretoria of all the supplies procurable. The last consignment was six hundred wagon loads."

KUMASSIE'S FATE

NOT YET KNOWN TO THE BRITISH

By Associated Press to The Sun.

LONDON, June 4.—The Daily Express has the following from Cape Coast Castle dated Saturday:

Fifteen hundred men are here and 500 hundred others are in Nigeria. It is expected that these with eight guns will go to Kumassie. It is reported that Capt. Hall has already retrieved Kumassie but the report is not confirmed.

BOLD HOLD-UP

Jas. F. Galligan Beaten and Robbed

BY TWO MEN NEAR WESTERN AVENUE

One of the Alleged Assailants Captured

Saturday night as James F. Galligan was walking along Middlesex street he was met by two fellows and invited to walk over the railroad bridge near the depot towards Western avenue. He went along with the fellows and just as he got near the storehouse of William E. Livingstone, one the fellows hit him on the side of the head. The blow was so severe that it knocked him over and in falling his head struck the railroad track, rendering him unconscious.

When he recovered his senses he saw the two fellows running down the track near Western avenue and found that his pockets had been turned inside out and ten dollars had been taken. He reported the matter to the police and a little while later John Rogers was arrested by Sergeant Crowley and Officer Curran. Rogers was recognized at the police station by Galligan as one of his assailants.

Rogers' case was continued until tomorrow for trial.

MIDLSX.CO. COURT

June Term Opened in Cambridge

SEVERAL LOWELL CASES ON LIST

Charged With Larceny and Other Offences

By Associated Press to The Sun.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., June 4.—The June term of the Middlesex county superior criminal court opened here today with the session of the grand jury, who, during the week will consider the majority of a list of 70 or more cases. There are few items of importance. Among the cases is that of Edward Naganzi, the self-styled seer, who was arrested in Boston early in April, and taken to Marlboro, where he was arraigned on a charge of larceny of $3000 from Mrs. Ellen A. McKenna. It is claimed that Naganzi took the money with the understanding that he was to invest it in the stock market which he believed he could do successfully on account of his clairvoyant powers. In the Marlboro court, Naganzi was held for the grand jury in $5000.

There are several cases from Lowell, including that of David Willett, who was held on thec harge of breaking and entering and larceny; of Delard Greenwood and James Wilson, charged with breaking and entering, and of Frank Reed and Cornelius Maguire, who were held on the charge of larceny from the person. Peter Talbis and George Mellias will be arraigned for breaking and entering and larceny in Ayer.

SMALL POX RUMOR

Caused Considerable Anxiety in Belvidere Today

AN ASH ST. RESIDENT REPORTED INFECTED

Health Authorities Found no Smallpox

THE ROBILLARD FAMILY LEAVES HOSPITAL

The Child Having Completely Recovered

The residents of Ash street and vicinity were much disturbed this morning over the report that a child named Ward living in A. G. Thompson's tenement block at 31 Ash street, was affected with small-pox.

As a result of the report which started early in the days few children attending the High street primary school were kept at home by their parents and the health authorities were notified.

The mother of the child states that the little one is suffering from the results of vaccination and has no serious or contagious ailment.

Agent Clapp sent his men to investigate a similar report from Belvidere yesterday and found it without foundation. This forenoon he had the Ward case investigated and found no cause for alarm.

The small-pox patients and others detained at the contagious hospital are doing nicely and the entire Robillard family of five persons will be discharged today, the Robillard child having completely recovered from her illness. The Brais children are progressing finely.

STRIKERS RETURN.

By Associated Press to The Sun.

BUFFALO, N. Y., June 4.—This morning between 2500 and 3500 car repairers, yard men and freight handlers of the Erie, Lehigh Valley, Lackawanna & Western, New York and Pennsylvania railroads, who quit work six weeks ago, reported for duty. In some instances there were no places for them, notably so among those freight handlers whose places to a considerable extent had been filled. The old men will, however, be given preference over the new and less satisfactory workers with the probable result that before long all of the strikers will be at work again.

"I'LL KILL MYSELF"

Kate Itlen's Threat in Police Court Today

"You'll find that the way of the transgressor is hard," said Judge Hadley to Kate Itlen in police court this morning. Then he sent her to Sherburne for two years. When sentence was pronounced she became enraged. "Two years in Sherburne," he shouted. "I appeal. I'll never serve a sentence in Sherburne. I have been there twice and I never yet served a full sentence. They had to transfer me both times. Sherburne left me as I am today and I will not go back. I would rather go to Worcester insane asylum than to Sherburne. You send me there and I tell you now that I will commit suicide before I will start for Sherburne," shouted the girl, now white with rage. As she spoke she shook all over and when the judge said the officers testified that she was always on the street she replied in a strong voice, "I have been working in the Boott mills the past six weeks."

"I am sending you to Sherburne as a protection. I want to try and save you," said the court.

"I will appeal," cried the prisoner, and she was led down stairs, while her husband, who is an Armenian, went off to get bail for her.

Before marriage her name was Kate Maya, and she war arrested for drunkenness. She has a previous record in court and when Officer Holland attempted to arrest her Saturday afternoon in Church street she created quite a scene, and several hundred persons gathered. She resisted arrest and used profane language. She is a very pretty girl.

There were forty drunks in court. Four drunks were allowed to go by Judge Hadley as it was their first offence.

The following Saturday drunks were fined $5 each: Emery Charette, Frank W. O'Brien, James A. Cunningham, Harry Hall, Patrick H. McLaughlin, Jeremiah Lynch, William F. Meade, Asa Walker, John McCarthy.

Edward J. Little was placed on probation.

Michael Hennessey was continued in one cent for six months and Julia Sullivane was sent to the workhouse for six months.

John W. Jamieson pleaded guilty to drunkenness. Officer Holland was asked to tell what he knew of Jamieson and he said that the latter had worked very little for a year or so, and had been drunk a number of times. Jamieson was sent to the Massachusetts Reformatory but he appealed and was held in $500 for the superior court.

Henry Holt pleaded not guilty of being drunk. Officer Hurley said that late Saturday night he heard a woman calling for the police and he ran up Adams street and arrested Holt. The officer said that Holt told him he had only picked up his wife and threw her down again. Holt claimed that people would come to his house and bring beer. He wanted that stopped and that is what caused the trouble. He admitted having taken a few glasses of beer Saturday night. He was fined $2.

Patrick McNally was fined $2 for drunkenness, and ordered in $100 to keep the peace for six months.

George Moore pleaded guilty of drunkenness. Officer Mulrey said he met Moore's wife and daughters on the street and they said he had driven them from the house. The judge gave Moore some good advice and then placed him on probation.

Homer Brunelle was found guilty of drunkenness and was held in $50 till tomorrow for sentence.

Margaret Turner was sent to the workhouse for four months.

Judge Hadley said he had tried every way to have her reform, but it seemed to have no effect on her as she would get drunk just the same.

John F. Devine pleaded guilty to drunkenness but asked to be given another chance. He made quite an appeal to the court which caused Judge Hadley to remark: "If your sobriety equalled your volubility, you would be all right. One page of this book is devoted to your record here."

He then imposed a fine of $2 on Devine.

Bernard M. Laughlin, the old time ball player was in for drunkenness. He was held in $20 bail till tomorrow for sentence.

Alfred Germain pleaded guilty of illegally keeping liquor and was sent to jail for three months.

Ellen Kennedy, another drunk, was continued till tomorrow.

Catherine Durfee was charged with drunkenness. The officer said he found her in a real estate office on Middlesex street and she was disrobing.

When placed under arrest she said she wanted to die and asked the officer to throw her into the canal.

George Arsenault, charged with larceny of a suit of clothes from a Mr. Champeaux, living in Cabot street, and assault on Inspector Laflamme was next placed on trial.

Mr. Champeaux testified that the clothes were his and that they were stolen from his house in Cabot street Saturday.

Mr. George Griggs, when placed on the stand testified that defendant went to his place of business in John street and pawned the clothes.

Defendant denied the charge of larceny and testified that he never saw the clothes or attempted to pawn them.

On the charge of assault on an officer, Inspector Laflamme testified that when attempting to arrest the defendant in an alley off Middlesex street that defendant struck him in the back of the head, and after a hard tussle and with the assistance of Detective Drury, he succeeded in placing Arsenault under arrest.

His honor after summing up the evidence found the defendant guilty on both complaints and sentenced him to three months in jail for larceny and four months additional for assault on an officer.

The case of Michael McNamara, charged with larceny of a pound of chocolates and 35 cents from Mary McKenna, was next tried.

Mary McKenna, the defendant, keeps a small variety store on Cedar street. She testified to Mr. McNamara coming into her store on the 7th of May and asking for two cents worth of cigarettes. After giving the defendant the cigarettes the complainant went into a back room and while she was there she claimed that McNamara filled his pockets with candy and took 35 cents from a small box that was on the ice chest.

Complainant's daughter testified to seeing McNamara coming out of her mother's store and also heard her mother asking defendant to let her see what he had in his pockets.

Michael McNamara, the defendant testified to going into complainant's store to buy cigarettes on the 7th of May. He said he waited 20 minutes for Mrs. McKenna to wait on him. On his way out of the store the complainant asked the defendant to let her see what he had in his pockets. He testified to refusing to let Mrs. McKenna go through his pockets because he had nothing belonging to her.

Defendant was found guilty and held in $300 to appear June 7 for sentence.

John H. McCabe, charged with assault and battery on his wife, Ida M. McCabe, was then placed on trial. Mrs. McCabe testified in part as follows: "I live in Coburn street in Centralville and on the morning of the assault my husband came around after an absence of a few days and started to use abusive language. After a while he started throwing chairs and a tea kettle at me. My son came to my assistance and if it was not for him I might have been badly hurt."

Complainant's son and his wife corroborated the complainant's testimony.

The defendant, John McCabe, denied the testimony given by the complainant and said that he wished to part from his wife. He testified to having a place to go and he would be willing to pay her board.

On cross-examination Mrs. McCabe said, "My husband is of no benefit to me and has not supported me since we have been married. I do not want to live with him and am only too glad to get rid of him. He has been a great source of trouble lately and I am afraid to live with him."

On cross-examination the defendant said he was willing to live with his wife and support her but that he was afraid of her son for he had threatened him with a revolver and that complainant's son tried to run the house.

The defendant was placed on probation for six months.

LOCAL DELEGATES

NATIONAL DELEGATES WERE CHOSEN

The Old Board of Officers Re-Elected

The annual convention of the Catholic Total Abstinence union of the Arch-diocese of Boston was held in Boston College hall yesterday. The Lowell delegates present were John J. Lyons, Patrick O'Neil, Dennis J. Donahoe, Edward F. Slattery, James O'Sullivan, Frank McLaughlin and John A. McKenna. The convention was called to order by Rev. Thomas Scully and Rev. W. G. Read Mullen, S. J., of Boston College offered the opening prayer. Edward F. Slattery was named as chairman of the credential committee and Joseph Sheehan, Esq., of Boston was placed at the head of the committee on resolutions.

There were 26 delegates present, representing 27 societies. Delegates from the A. C. H., Total Abstinence association were present and requested admission to the arch-diocesan union. They were welcomed and given assurance that they will be admitted. The following national delegates were chosen: Rev. Dr. Mullen of the Cathedral; Edwin Mulready, Joseph Sheehan, Miss Mary Herrick.

The board of government was instructed to take steps to secure the restoration of drinking fountains in the public streets in Boston.

It was also voted to discuss a plan for a reception to the Cuban teachers who are coming to Harvard this summer.

A vote of thanks was extended to Chaplain Hoss of the Wabash for his efforts to promote total abstinence among the sailors of the navy. The convention closed with prayer by Rev. Fr. Barry of Charlestown. Lunch was served by St. Valentine society.

The delegates of the C. T. A. union of the archdiocese of Boston in this, their twenty-fourth annual convention assembled, reaffirm their purpose of making every effort to extend sobriety by the means of the principles of Catholic Total Abstinence and on this feast of Pentecost offer up their prayers to the Holy Ghost that the spirit of temperance may be renewed in all Catholics. The convention recognizes the fact that without the aid of the church the progress of the movement will be slow and that a proper regard of our duties as Catholics is absolutely essential in order to obtain beneficent results in our work.

It hails with profound admiration the many and ever-increasing examples of devotion to the principles of total abstinence presented by our beloved clergy setting before all Catholics a soul-inspiring example which they should willingly follow. It is convinced that wives and sisters of Catholic young men who are frequently thrown into temptation can do much to prevent them from, and strengthen them against those temptations by joining total abstinence societies for the sake of example and by making their homes more attractive than the saloon. Catholic fathers above all are exhorted to expound the cause of total abstinence in order that they may successfully teach their children to lead better lives. The council of Baltimore sixteen years ago called upon pastors to induce those of their congregation engaged in the liquor traffic to abandon the business. And the convention regards with regret the failure of a large number of Catholics who have not complied with this request. The convention desires to call to the attention of such Catholics that the business in which they are engaged is the great loadstone around the necks of our people; that the saloon is no business for a Catholic to be engaged in, however legitimate the state may make it.

The greatest assistance to the total abstinence movement is a healthy public sentiment. Therefore the delegates call upon the societies in our union not to suffer themselves to become apathetic, but to still further educate the public to uphold the truths of Catholic Total Abstinence. The power of the press we hold to be of inestimable value in accomplishing any reform, and while thanking the press of Boston and vicinity for its favors to our union in the past, our fond hope is that the day is not distant when the entire press with one accord will be active promulgators of our cause and principles. The convention desires to express its emphatic and unqualified endorsement of the Sacred Heart Review for its devotion to the cause of total abstinence and we commend it as a shining example to other Catholic papers. We recognize the far-reaching and beneficent results which are produced by non-Catholic total abstainers and we stretch out our hands to them, walking side by side in a common cause and labor, the noblest cause that ever inspired the heart of man.

The delegates desire to express their hearty appreciation of the zealous and untiring efforts of their beloved president, Rev. Thomas Scully and return to him their sincere thanks for his self-sacrificing labors in our holy cause.

ONE MAN KILLED

Several Seriously Injured in Foxboro Fire

By Associated Press to The Sun.

TAUNTON, Mass., June 4.—A special from Foxboro, says:

This town is today dazed and panic-stricken. The town hall was burned probably by an incendiary this morning and though it was early in the morning, yet it has resulted in the death of one citizen the fatal injury of another and the serious injury of two others. The loss is $40,000 and the scholars in the high, grammar and three intermediate grades are now without a place to attend school.

This disaster coming so suddenly on the heels of the distruction of the big straw shop last week has benumbed and paralyzed the community and the people are standing on the street corners wondering at the outcome with the town's chief industry destroyed and no schools for the children to attend.

At a little before five o'clock this morning fire was discovered in the attic of the town hall, and though the department at once went to work, yet their efforts were in vain. Mansfield again sent her department to the aid of Foxboro and they did noble work, but the fire had gained such headway that nothing could stop it. Citizens by the hundreds crowded to the scene and when the big cupola fell it pinioned two firemen and two citizens to the ground. Eager men jumped to their rescue but it was seen that their efforts were in vain in at least one case as one man died after being taken from the ruins, one was sent to the Massachusetts General hospital and two will be cared for here at their homes.

Dead—George H. Joslin.

Injured—Arthur A. Joslin, leg broken and face smashed in, sent to Massachusetts General hospital; Samuel J. Johnson, shoulder and face hurt, may recover; Joseph Watkins, head and body badly wrenched and bruised.

The town records were saved. In the building was located the high, grammar, and three intermediate classes and every thing in connection with the school work was destroyed. The loss is $40,000 and the insurance about $30,000. The fire is said to be of incendiary origin.

PATRICK LYNCH'S WILL.

By the will of the late Patrick Lynch, an old and prominent resident, who died several weeks ago at his home on Cross street, his daughter, Mrs. George Greene, is cut off with a dollar. This was due to her refusal to comply with his wishes in a business transaction after her marriage.

The rest of the estate, which is very valuable, is divided in four parts among his two sons, Andrew and Charles, another daughter, Miss Norah, and the children of the testator's son, the late John Lynch. The executor of the will is James Calnin.

U. S. DELEGATES

TO THE SCHRIPPENFEST GREETED BY THE EMPEROR.

By Associated Press to The Sun.

BERLIN, June 4.—The president and officers of the New York Kiegerbund have returned here from Munich to participate in traditional so-called Schrippenfest at Potsdam, at the special invitation of the emperor. At the audience preceding the ceremonies this morning, President Mullen expressed in the most respected form the pride and joy he and his comrades felt at being received by their former Kriegsherr (War Lord) and assured the emperor that all the German veterans in the United States like themselves, felt that indissoluble ties connected them with the fatherland. His Majesty responded briefly, carefully avoiding everything of political import.

Afterwards, the emperor informally inquired about the personal conditions of each delegate and wished them a pleasant sojourn here and a happy return to the United States, "a country which I esteem most highly on many accounts."

AN UNKNOWN BOY

Found With Fractured Skull on Audobon Road

Only Word He Uttered Was "Mother"—Police Believe Murder Was Attempted

By Associated Press to The Sun.

BOSTON, June 4.—Unconscious and on the brink of death in the accident ward of the city hospital lies the young boy who was found in the bushes off Beacon street, on the Audobon road, late Saturday afternoon, suffering from a fractured skull and other injuries. He will probably die without recovering consciousness.

Mystery surrounds his identity and the identity of his assailants. That an attempt to murder the boy was made the police are certain. They worked unceasingly yesterday, but learned nothing of a definite nature to encourage them. Everything depends on their identifying the boy. If they succeed in this, they are confident they will be successful in naming those in whose company he was when he received his injuries.

The only theory which has come into the police mind is that the boy incurred the enmity of some person or persons on board his vessel and that he was either lured to the spot where he was found or was assaulted on the vessel and taken there to conceal the crime.

It is a sailor boy the hospital physicians have for a patient—a boy who has been away from home and loved ones evidently but a short time, and who may have been making his first trip at sea. Sixteen and not more than 17 years, the physicians guess his age to be.

That his home recently has been on the sea, and that it was a new life to him is evidenced by a diary which physicians found in his clothing yesterday. This diary dates only from May 1 and contains entries which one accustomed to sea voyages would hardly make. It is the only thing the police have to follow in the work of establishing his identity. Publicity given to the simple and boyish entries may lead to the solution of the mystery.

The diary had been kept on a sheet torn from an extra large pocket notebook. With a lead pencil he had numbered the days of May on both sides of the leaf and after about one-half of the numbers had written brief sentences in a schoolboy's hand.

From the heading of the diary, it is inferred that he was to get $15 monthly for his services. Under the date of May 7 he wrote, "I scraped the foremast;" under the date of May 5, "Left Sa-em 3 p. m." The third letter in the second word had been obliterated by a fold in the paper. The supposition is that he had written Salem. There is no evidence, however, that he did. Opposite May 18, he wrote "Drew 2 cents;" May 21, "20 cents;" May 12, "25 cents," and May 17, "Rain." On May 8 he wrote "Laid off until we start loading." On the following day he wrote "We start loading." The last entry in the diary was on May 25. On that day he wrote, "Drew 25 cents off pay."

There was nothing on the paper to indicate where his home was, where his vessel sailed from or its name. With the exception of the scrap of paper, there was but one other thing found in his pockets. That was a small piece of carbon paper, such as is commonly used in a pocket notebook. On the back of this piece of paper, which was inked only on one side, was written the name "Harold." It was evidently written by the person who had kept the diary. Whether it was the boy's name, one can only conjecture.

BODY IDENTIFIED.

By Associated Press to The Sun.

BOSTON, June 4.—The youth found on Audubon road last Saturday in an unconscious condition, suffering from a fractured skull, was identified today as Harold Poole, by several people whose names have been withheld by the hospital authorities. Poole still remains in an unconscious condition and the doctors give no hope of his recovery.

IN TEN INNINGS

Boston Took a Game From St. Louis

BOSTON PLAYED UPHILL GAME

They Gave Pitcher Powell a Surprise

By Associated Press to The Sun.

BOSTON, June 4.—Boston won a game from St. Louis Saturday that was not worth five cents on the dollar at several stages of the play.

The visitors made their runs easily, as the Boston pitchers, Dineen and Lewis, were strawberries and cream for the visitors, while the home team fought one of the gamest kind of uphill battles.

The contest lasted more than three hours and a half, but not a moment of it was dull.

While things were breaking nicely for the western men, they were a noisy lot, good natured and amusing, with perhaps the exception of Capt. McGraw who was put out of the game by umpire Emslie. Both teams worked about as hard on the bench as on the field, and the number of pitchers, four for Boston and three for St. Louis, will show how the boys laued the ball.

The home players did the better hitting, and gave Powell a surprise, for he has usually been effective against the home team.

With the score 5 to 2 it looked blue for Boston, and a few people left the grounds. As the Boston men commenced to crawl up the crowd grew interested, and the fine hitting was cheered in good style.

When the ninth inning came it was a case of hurry up to catch the train but the locals tied the score with the help of the regular team and Captain Duffy as a side dish.

The visitors looked like sure winners again in the 10th, but were doomed to bitter disappointment, thanks to fine pitching by Willis and a phenomenal play by Tenney.

The winning run was made in a businesslike way. The third pitcher came in after Jones burned Tenney; a sacrifice and a single by Freeman did the rest, and a happier crowd than the Boston men would be hard to find. At the same time a more disgusted crowd than the St. Louis boys could not be imagined, as they had counted the game as won early in the day.

The fielding features were few considering the great hitting. Hamilton, Long, Tenney and Criger did about all the good work in that line.

At the bat Dunlin carried off the honors with five safe ones, including a triple and a home run.

Herman Long got in four, with a total of eight; Stahl four, with a total of six; besides two sacrifice hits. Freeman, Clarke, and Tenney hit strong, while Kelster and Criger went against the ball in great shape.

The Boston outfield lost their places constantly, with the exception of Hamilton, and some one suggested that Selee work his signals from the bench, as it seems utterly impossible for some young men to remember how to play for certain men under certain circumstances.

Pittinger did the best work of the Boston pitchers, Lewis having little or no speed after two innings. Jones was a puzzle for the home team but was wild when the cheering commenced.

Manager Selee said after the game that his men deserved special credit for winning with such weak pitching. He acknowledged that the Boston club had authorized Bill Clarke to secure Hillebrand of the Princeton college team at the close of this season, and he thought there was a very good show of getting the man.

When a team can make 23 with a total of 33 off three pitchers, they should not be forced to play in extra luck to win the games, is Selee's reasoning.

The score by innings:

Innings	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10
St. Louis	1	0	0	1	0	2	1	1	5	0	0—16

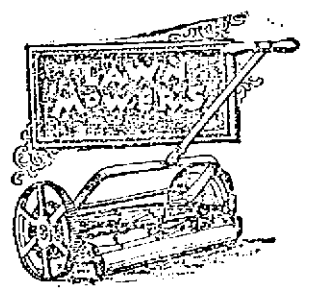

Three base hits, Donlin, Kelster, Long, Tenney, Stahl 2, Freeman 2, Criger, Kelster. Home runs, Long, Donlin. Stolen bases, Hamilton, Collins, Donovan, McGann, Duffy. Sacrifice hits, Stahl 2. First base on balls, by Dineen, McGraw, Donovan, Burkitt, Dillard 2, Robinson by Lewis, Donovan, Donlin, Jones, by Powell, Lowe, Dineen, Hamilton, by Jones, Hamilton, Long. Struck out, Lewis, Clarke, Powell. Double play, Tenney, Lowe. Passed ball, Robinson. Wild pitch, Jones. Hit by pitched ball, Tenney, McGann, Kelster. Umpire, Emslie. Time 3h., 35m. Attendance 5500.

The other games resulted as follows: Philadelphia 8, Pittsburg 2 (5 innings.) Brooklyn-Chicago, called in fifth, rain. New York-Cincinnati, rain.

TOWN EMPLOYEES PAID OFF

New Town Meeting Will be Called

With two licenses within a stone's throw of each other at the Navy Yard, there promises to be some exciting competition between the dealers, Geo. Ducey and John T. Leary. Both places opened on Friday with business rushing. On Saturday the townspeople were surprised to find Leary's place closed and Ducey doing business alone. It seems that Leary opened up without having paid for his license and as the result of a complaint to the selectmen, he was ordered to close until he had settled.

Saturday was pay day at the town office and all employed by the town who were unable to get their money on account of the town meeting muddle were paid off.

A town meeting will probably be called in about two weeks to give the citizens an opportunity to vote on the proposed additions to the Collinsville and Parker Avenue schools.

BAD COLLISION

CAR AND WAGON COLLIDE ON GORHAM STREET.

Saturday evening, about a quarter past six, there was a lively mix-up in Gorham street, near Tower's Corner. As the 6.15 car from Lowell, bound for Boston, was going through Gorham street, it collided with a provision wagon belonging to L. W. Hall & Co., dealers in meats and provisions in Gorham street.

The street is very narrow at this point and when a wagon is on the side of the street there is barely room enough for an electric car to pass. The new Boston electrics are wider than the ordinary cars and it has been customary when passing this point to turn up the foot board. Saturday night the conductor neglected to do this and as a result when the car reached the wagon, it threw the latter against the curbing and it got wedged. After some difficulty the wagon and car were untangled and it was found that beyond the straining of the hubs of the wagon, and some bad scratches there was little damage done.

WHOLESOME ADVICE

For People Whose Stomachs are Weak and Digestion Poor

Dr. Harlandson, whose opinion in diseases is worthy of attention, says "When a man or woman comes to me complaining of indigestion, loss of appetite, sour stomach, belching, sour watery rising, headaches, sleeplessness, lack of ambition, and a general run-down nervous condition, I advise them to take after each meal one or two of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, allowing the tablet to dissolve in the mouth and thus mingle with the food eaten. The result is that the food is speedily digested before it has time to sour and ferment. These tablets will digest the food anyway, whether the stomach wants to or not, because they contain harmless digestive principles, vegetable essences, pepsin and Golden Seal, which supply just what the weak stomach lacks.

"I have advised the tablets with great success, both in curing indigestion and to build up the tissues, increasing flesh in thin nervous patients whose real trouble was dyspepsia and as soon as the stomach was put to rights, they did not know what sickness was."

A fifty-cent package of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets can be bought at any drug store, and as they are not a secret patent medicine, they can be used as often as desired with full assurance that they contain nothing harmful in the slightest degree. On the contrary, anyone whose stomach is at all deranged will find great benefit from the use of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. They will cure any form of stomach weakness or diseases except cancer of the stomach.

ANTI-TRUST

The Littlefield Anti-Trust Bill Passed

By Associated Press to The Sun.

WASHINGTON, June 4.—Only one vote was cast in the house Saturday against the Littlefield anti-trust bill to amend the Sherman act of 1890 to make it more effective in the prosecution of trusts and combinations, their agents, officers or attorneys.

Mr. Mann (Ill.) rep. cast the negative vote.

The bill, according to the statements of the republican leaders, goes to the limit of the authority of congress under the constitution.

All the democratic minority amendments except one were defeated.

The bill amends the Sherman anti-trust law so as to declare either contract or combination in the form of trust or conspiracy in restraint of commerce among the states or with foreign nations, illegal, and every party to such contract or combination guilty of a crime, punishable by a fine of not less than $500, nor more than $5000 and by imprisonment not less than six months nor more than two years.

It provides that any person injured by a violation of the provisions of the law may recover three-fold damages.

The definition of "person" and "persons" in the present law is enlarged so as to include the agents, officers or attorneys of corporations.

For purposes of commerce it declares illegal all corporations or associations formed for carrying on business for purposes declared illegal by the common law: provides that they may be perpetually enjoined from carrying on interstate commerce and forbids them the use of the United States mails.

It provides for the production of persons and papers, confers jurisdiction upon United States circuit and district courts for the trial of cases under it, and authorizes any person, firm, corporation or association to begin and prosecute proceedings under it.

ADB-EL-GOLEN, THE MOORISH CHIEF, AND MLLE. VERMAILLE, THE PARISIAN BEAUTY AND HERONIE WHO WILL WED.

By Associated Press to The Sun.

PARIS, June 4.—The sensation of the hour is the announced marriage of the beautiful aristocrat, Miss Julia de Vermaille, to Abd-el-Golea, the young Arabian chief, who recently came to Paris as the apostle of Mahometanism. It is a study in black and white.

Julia de Vermaille is an heiress who has amazed this capital before. She and her brother Robert, now French governor of the High Laos in Indo China, were the only children of General De Vermaille, whose brilliant conduct in the Algerian campaign added fresh glory to a name glorious through many generations. When he died his immense fortune was divided between Robert and Julia.

Julia de Vermaille, to whom the courts awarded the ownership and management of over 7,000,000 francs, then arranged a life after her own ideas. Her mansion is well appointed and well kept; her horses, which she selected personally, were of the best. Some of her deals on the Stock Exchange created quite a stir. In the big house surrounded by a park which she inhabits at Neuilly, when in Paris, out of the fourteen servants only one, her personal maid, is a woman.

Her beauty and grace were such that famous artists begged as a privilege the right to paint her portrait. the best known of the masterpieces she inspired being, no doubt, the large canvas by Clairin. Her photographs were sold by the thousand.

Two years ago she published. with her full name bravely set on the title page, a pamphlet against the subjection of women in marriage. The book set the press and the public wild. The discussion, especially in the smart set, promised to be everlasting.

One of the curious statements in the pamphlet was that the author had refused marriage offers from sixty men. Considering the fortune and beauty of the girl, the number is not extraordinary.

Perhaps to escape from the noise made by her publication, perhaps because she was weary of Paris, Mlle. De Vermaille suddenly without closing her house, without saying when she would return, went travelling.

Hers was a curious experience. She started for Switzerland, probably intending to come back to Paris after a short stay there. That was two years ago. She returned last month, having in the meantime been around the globe twice.

This is the girl.

Abd-el-Golea, who is to be her husband, is a scarcely less unique creature. Impelled by a cold, intelligent fanaticism, this young chief came from Timbucton with the purpose of promulgating the Koran among the "giaours" of the modern Babylon.

Abd-el-Golea come from royal Moorish blood. His father was Abd-el-Mah, half-brother and main lieutenant of the celebrated Abel Kader, the emir of Mascara, who, until he was made prisoner by General Bugeaud, was the most powerful foe of the French and for 15 quest of Algeria.

TOMORROW AFTERNOON.

Mortgagee's sale of the residence realty known as the Atis Osgood estate, and numbered 21 Chester street between Westford and Princeton streets or adjoining the residences of Messrs. S. H. Jones and Charles E. Carter.

It is my purpose as executor of thstate of Elizabeth Rogers, to sell at absolute auction under the power of sale contained in a certain mortgage deed given by Atis Osgood to Ethan A. Smith, the herewith described real estate to the highest bidder on Tuesday, the 5th day of June, 1900, at four o'clock in the afternoon, regardless of weather or attendance.

The premises consist of a modern house of nine rooms, also large hall, bath room, pantry, laundry, storage and cellar, all heated by steam. The lot has 5542 square feet of land, possessing a frontage of 91 feet; it is nicely graded and down to a fine lawn; has several splendid fruit trees and is a very shapely and handsome lot.

In the original survey and laying out of Chester street and the abutting land, the parcel with this residence comprised two lots; the house now occupies one of them; the other is a sort of an orchard lot and lawn and can be easily sold for a building lot; in fact, we believe there is a customer all ready to take it at a fair price. The estate as a whole is a very desirable one, extremely well situated in one of the choicest portions of the Highlands. The purchaser must deposit with or secure to the auctioneers $050 as soon as the property is struck off. Other terms liberal. Make all inquiries at the office of the auctioneers.

CALL PASTOR

Rev. Chas. McNally Invited to This City

BY THE WORTHEN ST. BAPTIST CHURCH

Many Interesting Sermons Given Yesterday

The Worthen street Baptist church held a meeting after morning service yesterday and voted unanimously to extend a call to Rev. Charles R. McNally of the senior class at Newton Theological seminary to become its pastor. The vote was taken in concurrence with the recommendation of the committee on pulpit supply. The society will meet tonight to consider the question.

Mr. McNally is a a young married man, about 25 or 26 years old. He is at the head of his class at the theological seminary, and has been for some time assistant pastor of the church in Brookline. It is understood that he will accept the call if the society concurs.

FIRST TRINITARIAN.

At the First Trinitarian church last night Rev. George F. Kenngott gave the last of his series of illustrated talks on "Lowell's Educational and Charitable Institutions." He spoke of the city library, the county truant school, the jail and other institutions showing views taken for his use.

FIRST BAPTIST.

"Hornets and Angels," was the subject of an interesting sermon by Rev. S. T. Ford yesterday, showing the various agencies used by the Almighty to further His work. His text was: "Behold, I send an angel before thee," and "I will send hornets before thee."

KIRK STREET CHURCH.

A special musical program was one of the features at the Kirk St. church yesterday evening. Gounod's "Forever with the Lord," was effectively rendered by the double quartet. Rev. Dr. Bartlett spoke on "The Victory of Elijah," and at the request of a member of the congregation he spoke on "Is Smoking a Sin?" in his prelude. Dr. Bartlett's remarks on smoking were as follows

"To sin, is to break a command of God contained in the Bible, or to act contrary to the teachings of the conscience. The law of the Bible changes not, but the law of the conscience changes as we receive more light. The Bible says nothing about the use of tobacco, but says much about keeping clean, reminding us that we are temples of the Holy Ghost. In matters not treated by the Bible the conscience is tribunal. What may be a sin for one may not be to another. But with the progressing Christian some things appear innocent today, but sinful tomorrow, according as we receive more light. If conscience begins to trouble the smoker, then to him it is a sin to smoke.

"I will give, without comment, the substance of a number of letters and opinions which have come to me unsolicited. The man who asks my opinion is fond of his cigar, but says he shall discourage his son from it because it is 'expensive, useless and hard to break.' Another man writes 'I think it is a sin and an awful curse. I have been battling with tobacco for about 19 years. I say battling, for in all those years I was trying to give up its use. But I thank the Lord that since I gave myself to Christ I have had no desire to smoke.' A letter comes from a lady who says among other things: "I believe there are hosts of good Christians who use tobacco, but it is an expensive, useless and filthy habit. and there can be no doubt of the evil effects of tobacco upon the different organs of the system, for instance the heart. It is only a question of time when the habit will be stronger than the will.' She quotes Mr. Moody as answering the question, 'Can a man be a Christian and use tobacco?' by his saying, 'Yes, but a dirty one.'

"A letter has just reached me from a teacher in an institute for the blind stating that while intemperance is regarded the chief cause of blindness, tobacco comes next, and that some of the pupils in that school are in a 'frightful condition because the parents used tobacco to excess.' The manager of the New York Christian home for intemperate men states 'we teach that tobacco comes next in point of harm.' One man has called on me to say that while he does not regard the use of tobacco as a sin, he found no language strong enough as to its harmfulness, etc.

"I have been a little surprised at receiving nothing on the other side. It is interesting to have both sides represented. I might add to what has been said that an increasing number of the best firms as well as the government and railroads are beginning to discriminate against the smoker.

"My own opinion is that smoking is not a sin unless a man's conscience condemns him. But with the light we have, I should say it was pretty near a sin for a young man just starting in life to cultivate the habit.

POSITIVE PROOF

Should Convince the Greatest Skeptic in Lowell

Because it's evidence in Lowell —It's from a citizen, perhaps a neighbor—Investigation will confirm it.

Mr. Terrence Flood of 30 Davidson St., says: "A severe attack of pneumonia left me suffering from kidney ailment, which was manifested by pains in my back. I heard about the merits of Doan's Kidney Pills and went to Ellingwood & Co.'s drug store, corner of Merrimack and Central streets and got a box. Its use proved so beneficial I continued the treatment until I had taken four boxes, when I felt so well I did not consider further use of Doan's Kidney Pills or any other remedy necessary. I value this remedy so highly that I am pleased to recommend it to others."

COURT DECISIONS

Of General Interest Recently Rendered

Following are some recent court decisions of general interest:

The selection of a suitable intermediate bank for the purpose of sending a check for collection is held, in Givan vs. Bank of Alexandria (Tenn.) 47 L. R. A. 270, to constitute a sufficient discharge of the duty of the initial bank in which the check was deposited, but it is held to be negligence to send the check directly to the drawee bank for collection.

The rule that a carrier is charged with the highest degree of care consistent with the nature of his undertaking, as between him and his passenger, is held, in Tall vs. Baltimore Steam Packet Co. (Md.) 47 L. R. A. 120, not to be applicable to the matter of injuries to passengers by acts of fellow passengers or strangers, but in such cases the carrier's liability is held to arise only when it could have prevented the injury after knowledge or when it ought to have had knowledge of the treatened injury. On these principles a recovery was denied for injury to a passenger during a quarrel between other passengers who were playing cards in the smoking room of a steamboat.

The rule of a carrier that baggage will not be checked more than 30 minutes before train time is held, in Goldberg vs. Ahnapee & W. R. Co. (Wis.) 47 L. R. A. 221, not to be unreasonable as matter of law, and it was held not to be reasonable as matter of law to leave baggage in the evening for a train at 6 o'clock in the morning.

The theft of diamond rings from the finger of a woman asleep in a sleeping car is held, in Pullman's Palace Car Co. vs. Hunter (Ky.) 47 L. R. A 286, to give her a right of action if the theft was due to the failure of the employes in the car to use ordinary care and watchfulness, and their negligence was held to be a question for the jury.

A statute making it unlawful to work more than eight hours per day in mines or smelters is held, in Re. Morgan (Colo.) 47 L. R. A 52, to be in violation of constitutional guaranties of liberty and the right to acquire, possess, and protect property, notwithstanding a decision of the supreme court of the United States holding that the federal constitution was not violated by such a statute.

An act to regulate the weighing of coal at the mine which prohibits the screening of coal until after it is weighed and duly credited, if miners are employed at quantity rates, is held in State vs. Wilson (Kan.) 47 L. R. A. 71, to be a valid exercise of the police power, where it does not purport to prevent contracts as to the amount of wages or in any wise infringe upon the freedom of contract.

The rendition of a judgment against one who was not served with process in the action or named as a party until after the original judgment was rendered, but who was brought in subsequent thereto by an order to show cause and condemned to pay the judgment, is held, in Louisville & N. R. Co. vs. Schmidt, Advance Sheets U. S. p. 620, to be in conformity with the constitutional provision as to due process of law, where such paryt had voluntarily appeared in the case and actively conducted the defense.

Mutual promises of merchants to refrain from engaging in business after 6.30 p. m. of each day, are held, in Stovall vs. McCutchen & Co. (Ky.) 47 L. R. A. 287, to be a sufficient consideration to support the contract, and an injunction to enforce it was held proper in order to prevent a repeated and recurring cause of action.

The right of a stockholder to inspect and examine the books and records of the corporation is declared, in State ex rel., Weinberg vs. Pacific B. & M. Co. (Wash.) 47 L. R. A. 208, to extend to such inspection at all reasonable times, so long as his purpose is to inform himself as to the manner and fidelity with which the corporate affairs are being conducted and his examination is made in the interests of the corporation.

The effect of transferring stock in a corporation to relieve the former stockholder from liability as such is considered in Rochester & K. F. L. Co. vs. Raymond (N. Y.) 47 L. R. A. 246, which holds that a subscription to stock does not imply an agreement to pay for it in full, but is only a contract to enter into the relation of stockholder, and that, if a corporation permits a transfer of stock by cancelling the certificate and issuing a new one to the purchaser, whom it attempts to hold as stockholder, it ratifies the transaction and cannot subsequently deny that the transfer is valid. With this case is a note reviewing the decisions on the effect of such a transfer upon liability for unpaid subscriptions.

A statute arbitrarily establishing a high school and requiring its maintenance by the people of a county is upheld in State, ex rel., McCausland vs. Freeman (Kan.) 47 L. R. A. 67, against the contention that it interferes with local self government.

A covenant in a lease of a portion of a railroad right of way for warehouse purposes, that the lessee will hold the lessor harmless for losses by fires set by engines, is held, in Northern Pacific R. Co. vs. McClure (N. D.) 47 L. R. A. 149, to be binding on the lessees after the lessor has transferred its rights, including the lease, to another company, where the lease provides that the covenant shall bind the assigns of both parties.

RICHARD WEBB, FOUND UNCONSCIOUS AFTER A FALL FROM A WINDOW OF THE BOOTT MILL.

TWO MEN KILLED

They Took Hold of a Live Wire

FATALITY OCCURRED IN PULP MILL

Another Man Was Seriously Injured

By Associated Press to The Sun.

FAIRFIELD, Me., June 4.—A sad accident occurred here Saturday evening, in which two men lost their lives and another lies at the point of death. It is not known just how the accident occurred, as all connected with the plant in which it happened are reticent regarding the details.

As near as can be learned, it was a few minutes before 6 o'clock that tower Boss Elden Foss of the Somerset & Kennebec Pulp company discovered a wire connected with the lighting department lying on the ground.

It was not time for the current to be turned on from the power station of the Waterville & Fairfield railway and Light company so Foss called Bethman Hosman to his assistance for the supposed purpose of banging the wire in a position where it would not cause trouble. The wire was a live one and as soon as the men took hold of it they were seen to fall to the ground.

William O'Brien, another employe of the mill, went to the assistance of Foss and Hosman, and he received a shock that rendered him unconscious and may result fatally. A message was sent to the power station and the current was shut off before anything could be done to relieve the men.

Dr. Rand was called but he found that Foss and Hosman had both been instantly killed by the high voltage of the current.

O'Brien suffered from bad burns and at midnight had not gained consciousness although the surgeons believe that he will recover.

There are several stories connected with the accident.

Foss leaves a wife. Hosman was unmarried and was a native of New Brunswick.

CHEATED

The merchant who pays for advertising and doesn't get it, cries out that advertising doesn't pay. He is wrong. Advertising pays if you get it. If you pay for any commodity that is never delivered, you lose money on it, just the same as you lose on advertising that you pay for but never get.

When merchants learn to buy their advertising space in the newspapers as they buy their merchandise—by measure and weight, it will pay them. Buy space by the inch per thousand of circulation and see that you get what you pay for. Then you will never be cheated in advertising and it will pay you. The Sun will give you more advertising for your money than any other paper in Lowell. It is

WORK OF CONGRESS.

Congress is to adjourn next Wednesday with a large portion of the important legislation still pending. First of all the Hay-Pauncefote treaty goes over to the short session without the slightest hope of ever becoming law and with it go the other treaty providing for reciprocity with France, the Nicaragua canal bill, the Philippine government bill and the bill for the reorganization of the army. The chief legislation of the session was the passage of the gold standard bill and the bills for the government of Hawaii and Porto Rico. The passage of the Littlefield anti-trust law by the house on Saturday was significant as expressing popular sentiment on that issue. The measure will probably be passed by the senate and may receive the president's signature but even if it should become law it will not injure the trusts while a republican administration holds sway. The republicans will not enforce it. There are anti-trust laws already in force but no republican official with the exception of one, attorney general for the state of Ohio, makes any attempt to enforce them.

On the other hand the gold standard and refunding bill that practically gives over the regulation of the currency to the banks will be enforced to the injury of the people. The republicans will claim that they have fulfilled every pledge to the people and on that ground will seek a return to power. They will have some lengthy explanations to make, however, in defence of the war taxes still levied on the people, of the postal frauds in Cuba, the patronage of the trusts and the imperial policy by which this nation must become a military power to be always ready for a conflict with the powers of Europe, Asia or Africa.

THE WAR IS NOT OVER.

The war is over, say the British despatches; the war is over, assert the British enthusiasts; the war is over, echoes the United States press; but there is one man in England wiser than all the rest who says "The war is not over." Editor Stead is the man and he is not afraid to assert that the war is not over and that it will not be over for years.

The Boers will not yield, even to a force of ten or even twenty to one; they will keep up a guerilla warfare if nothing else will do; they will bide their time to strike for their rights and their liberties and strike they will, harder than ever before. The South African republics may be annexed; they may be wiped off the map as Salisbury has asserted; but England will thereby set up a new enemy that will wait the opportunity to avenge the wrongs of the past and to regain that liberty that had been stolen.

The Transvaal and the Orange Free State today are the scene of slaughter and carnage, the happy homes of the people are deserted or held only by women and children, while the men have gone to the front to fight for the right to enjoy the homes which they established in a primeval forest. They have gone with high hopes and dauntless courage to fight an overwhelming force, but alas, they have been so vastly outnumbered that many of them will never return. But the Boers have sworn to fight the aggression of England to the bitter end and this they will do and if unable to win a victory in the present generation they will commit the cause to posterity that the fight may be continued until victory is eventually won.

No, the war is not over and will not be over for ten years to come if England persists in throttling the two republics.

Another menace to the peace of England's South African possessions comes with the threat to annex the two republics to Cape Colony and rule all as one united colony. The colonists have assembled in a general congress to protest against the proposition and they have adopted resolutions to that effect protesting against this course as calculated to destroy the peace and prosperity of the South African colonies and to make necessary the maintenance of a large standing army. The men who instigated the war, who fomented the discord that led to the war, will lose as heavily as anybody when England gets hold of the gold mines. Rhodes, Werner and Beit will suffer as they should, for they have been largely responsible for this terrible struggle. They instigated what the colonists term the intolerable interference of the British ministry in the internal affairs of the Transvaal, which directly led to the war and sooner or later both they and England will be punished.

The war is not over then, for although England may suppress the South African republics, she cannot extinguish the love of liberty in the breasts of the Boers; she cannot stamp out the aspiration of these people to be free and independent, and this alone will keep up continuous turmoil until England's sway in South Africa is overthrown and until a union of free and independent states is formed similar to that on our own continent. The next trouble England will have to meet will be a rebellion in which all the citizens of the colonies will unite to cast off the yoke of oppression, perhaps at a time when England will be unable to stay their onward march to freedom.

THE STREET RAILWAY DEAL.

Notice by what a quiet, skilful and effective transaction the Lowell & Suburban street railway is to be absorbed by the Massachusetts Electric company. Local parties secured the franchise on the most favorable terms because they were all men of good standing in the community, some of them men of great influence locally. Now the franchise, road and all appurtenances go over to a syndicate that has no special interest in the city of Lowell.

Is not this another example of the absurdity of dealing out public franchises worth millions of dollars to shrewd speculators free of charge?

Now is the season in which public baths would benefit the thousands who do not possess the luxury of a bath tub in their homes. But it is hard to move the city authorities to do anything except what comes as a result of a political pull.

Lowell is not to be honored by a visit from the Boer envoys. They had not the time to come this way, but had they come they would have gotten a rousing reception.

The sale of swill to farmers continues and already the ravages of cholera infantum have begun.

BOXING GOSSIP

In the future the Colorado Athletic club is to make a bid for big fistic events. Max Fields, brother of Lou Fields of the popular theatrical firm of Weber and Fields, has identified himself with the Colorado club, and all his well known energy and enterprise will be thrown into the fistic institution. Big matches will be catered for, and Lou Houseman of Chicago will be depended upon to send out the very best talent to Denver that can be secured in the east. The advent of Max Fields in Denver boxing affairs foretells much mental worry for poor old Bat Masterson's mental future. Eastern enterprise and vigor have more than once been too many for Bat.

Rob Roy gives the following in commenting on the recent McCoy-Ryan fight: "Without discussing the "why" and "wherefore," I want to speak my little piece about the action of the club officials in Chicago in over-riding Referee Hogan's decision in the McCoy-Ryan contest. I will admit that as a matter of mutual business agreement the referee should have rendered a draw at the end of the sixth round when both men were on their feet. However, it was a duty owed the public that they should have been told in advance what that agreement was, and it is clear that the desire was to hide the fact from the spectators. As the referee declared McCoy the winner, that decision must stand, and all bets. If there were any, should be governed by that decision. There is nothing whatever in the precedents of the rules of the boxing business which empowers Tom Hawton, Lou Houseman and E. W. Smith, a so-called committee of the club, to wipe out Referee Hogan's decision and call the bout a draw. It is simply one of those strong-arm Chicago breaks. The club in the first place is simply a proprietary affair and the owners have no more right or authority to make a second decision contrary to that by the referee than I have. If they can, then any other individual can. I am merely speaking of the right of the matter, but will add that, in the face of the mutual agreement between the principals, a lot of dissatisfaction would have been avoided if Referee Hogan had declared the contest a draw. The facts that we now have at our disposal show that Ryan was to have received $2500 of the $5000, no matter what the outcome, and his one purpose was to stay the six rounds and get a draw to save his record.

"It wearies one to hear the last lot of stuff that emanates from George Siler. He has now reached the stage where he criticises other referees and predicts the winners of contests which he is scheduled to referee. Siler has been selected to referee the Fitzsimmons-Ruhlin battle, and has been writing lengthy articles giving his opinion that Fitz should win. Billy Madden, as manager for Gus Ruhlin, very properly objects to Siler refereeing now, and there is talk of putting Charlie White or some other man in as referee.

George Gardner, New England's champion middleweight, contemplates a trip to the Pacific coast in the near future where he will meet some of the best men of the west. Before leaving however, he will probably be matched with Dick O'Brien, who recently put away Gardner's old rival, George Byrns. O'Brien is a stumbling block for them all and is in especially fine condition these days. Gardner and O'Brien would make a bout.

Billy Gardner is going under the management of Al. McMurray, who brought Tim Kearns to the front. McMurray will get all the good points out of Billy and place him in the front rank. Billy at present is a good boxer but not aggressive enough and inclined to be slow at infighting.

Young Jack Brady of this city has abandoned the idea of being a Ted Sloan and is now following in the footsteps of Terry McGovern and is surprising all his friends by his clever work with the gloves. He made an excellent showing in Lawrence a few nights ago and is now matched with Young Maguire of this city. If he succeeds in stopping Maguire, it is probable that he will be matched with "Smoke" Connors, the 105-pound champion of the Hub. "Smoke" will certainly make Brady earn his money.

GENERAL GOMEZ

The Cuban Leader Expected in Havana

THE INDEPENDENCE OF CUBA

Is What He is Working for

By Associated Press to The Sun.

HAVANA, June 4. General Gomez is expected to arrive today and preparations have been made to receive him with all honors. Representatives of the nationalist and republican parties will go in different tugs, each having a band and various societies will also send delegations to join in the welcome. The motives that have induced him to return are the subject of much speculation. Many believe that General Gomez disappointed at the attitude taken toward him by the people of Santiago Duardos, has come back to Cuba to engage in an active campaign for the future presidency of the Cuban republic.

It is asserted that his first step will be to bring all his influence to bear in favor of the election to the mayoralty of Havana of General Alejandro Rodriguez, partly for personal and partly for political considerations. If he can make the necessary impression upon the members of the national party, and if the result of his intervention is the defeat of Senor Estrada Moro, then the power of General Gomez will be much more generally recognized than it is now. Already his friends have issued a statement stating that early in the week he will attempt to consolidate the democratic, republican and national political parties with a view of bringing about a harmonious constitutional convention in this city in August. The authors of this statement contend that such a convention is the only path to independence.

It is reported that Gomez while at San Domingo said that while he was returning to Havana to bring about the complete and absolute independence of Cuba and that he had such a convention in view, it is also asserted that he desires if possible, to be the first president of free Cuba, but that he feels that there may be strong opposition to him because of his birth, in which event his choice for the presidency would be Carlos Cespedes or Alejandro Rodriguez. Either would receive his entire support, but he would prefer Cespedes.

The leaders of the various parties reply that the principles of the organizations differ too radically to make anything like Gomez proposes.

ELMS WON AGAIN

Defeated T. R. and T's in Fine Game

The Elms are still at it without any let up for Saturday they went out to North Billerica and "trimmed" the T. R. and T.'s by a substantial majority. The feature of the game was the magnificent twirling of "Punk" Ryan, who struck out 13 men. He received excellent support. "Joe" Tyrrell added to the features by a circus catch in the last inning.

The score by innings:

Innings ...	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
T. R. & T.'s	0	1	2	0	0	0	0	0	0	3

OTHER SATURDAY GAMES.

The Riversides were defeated by the Wamesits Saturday afternoon. The score was 12 to 7.

Moran started to pitch for the Riversides, but he retired at the close of the second inning after five runs had been scored. Teddy Flynn succeeded him but was no improvement, and he, too, had to be taken out. Scully was then put in and finished the game. Flemings, a new comer into the local base ball field, twirled for the Wamesits, and had the Riversides at his mercy.

The game at Atherton between the Emmetts and the Y. M. C. I. resulted in a regular cricket score, the Emmetts winning, 23 to 10.

The Emmetts had no difficulty finding Leslie, who pitched for the Belvidere nine, while Kearns, the Emmetts' twirler, was a mystery to the vanquished players.

The Beavers defeated the Beachmonts on the old cricket grounds by a score of 14 to 8. The feature of the game was the batting of the Beavers in the third inning when they scored five runs.

GRAND STEEPLE CHASE

PASSED OFF WITHOUT ANY DISTURBANCE.

By Associated Press to The Sun.

PARIS, June 4.—The grand steeplechase at Auteuil, last year the scene of a turbulent outburst against President Loubet, passed off yesterday without a sign of political disturbance. M. Loubet left the palace of the Elysee in a landau, accompanied by Mme. Loubet, M. Combarieu, director of the civil cabinet of the president and General M. C. Ballourd, chief of the military households. Although unaccompanied by a military escort, he drove to the race course without incident, except occasional cries raised by passers-by for the army.

On descending from the carriage at the race course, he was met by M. Waldeck-Rousseau, premier; M. Delcasse, minister of foreign affairs; M. Millerand, minister of commerce; M. Leygues, minister of public instruction; M. Jean Dupuy, and many other high officials. The diplomatic corps was in full attendance, including United States Ambassador Porter, with the members of his family. No political color was given to the presence of M. Loubet during the races.

After the steeplechase, the presidential party left the tribune and returned to the palace by the same route as was taken before, arriving at 5 o'clock.

The day was very beautiful and the concourse was crowded. Among the multitude were many prominent Americans, a number of whom arrived Saturday or yesterday from London and other points with a special view of attending the event.

PIPPIN CLUB MEETING.

The Pippin club met Saturday evening but transacted no routine business other than the election of a secretary to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of J. Joseph Kelley, who starts this week on a trip to Chicago. James A. Bagley was elected, receiving 79 votes to 63 for Charles D. Monahan, Jr., and 42 for Timothy J. Feeley.

FREE TREATMENT FOR CATARRH

If Doctor Plunkett were asked what medical teaching would accomplish the greatest good he would unhesitatingly say:

"The lesson to those with enfeebled constitutions, weak lungs, or a tendency to Bronchial Trouble or Consumption, of the vital opportunities that summer offers them."

The best teaching is the teaching that will save the most lives.

And this lesson to those with the slightest predisposition to consumption will save more lives than any that could be taught.

Indeed, with many of the more serious cases—where long neglected Catarrhal disease invading the bronchial tubes which convey the air to the lungs, has taken its advance into the tissues of the lungs themselves, has reached the end of the road lined with the mucous membrane upon which it lives and feeds, and finding no new tissue, settles down to feed upon the lung cells—with many of these serious cases, treatment during the spring and summer months is the only hope. Little, if any, help can be promised them during the winter.

It is then during the summer that Catarrh in its early stages, involving, maybe, the nasal passages and throat and vocal cords and windpipe, may be most speedily cured, and the danger of its extension into the deeper part of the Bronchial Tubes or Lungs averted.

Free Treatment.

Doctor Plunkett's treatment positively cures catarrh. He guarantees that; and in order to demonstrate that his treatment will do what he claims, he will give until June 15th, a free trial treatment to any one suffering from catarrhal disease of any character.

THIS OFFER APPLIES TO ALL CATARRHAL DISEASES—TO DEAFNESS, TO BRONCHIAL TROUBLE, TO ASTHMA, TO STOMACH TROUBLES, TO BLADDER, LIVER AND KIDNEY DISEASE.

Today I can hear ordinary conversation plainly. I can hear with the right ear as well as I ever could in my life; and with the left ear that was almost totally deaf I can hear a watch ticking 8 inches away.

RIOTS AT ST. LOUIS

Boy Killed by Stray Bullet From a Car

As He Sat in His Own Door—Dynamite Explosion Wrecked a Cable Conduit—900 Men Now Ready to Aid Sheriff in Keeping Peace

By Associated Press to The Sun.

ST. LOUIS, June 4.—A riot of small proportions during the progress of which a boy was fatally shot and a dynamite explosion marred what would have otherwise been an uneventful Sabbath.

As a car on the Tower Grove line of the Transit company was passing the corner of 12th and Calhoun streets, a crowd of strike sympathizers began throwing stones at it. An unknown man leaned from a window of the car and fired a revolver shot toward the crowd. The bullet sped over the heads of the mob and lodged in the breast of Peter Frank, aged 16, who was sitting in the doorway of his father's house. A detachment of police dispersed the rioters. Frank's wound, it is said, will prove fatal.

Late yesterday afternoon an explosion of dynamite shattered the cable conduit and switches in the Olive street line at the intersection of Maryland and Boyle avenues. No one was injured but traffic on that end of the line had been suspended. There is no clue to the perpetrators.

More than the usual quota of police was furnished yesterday for the protection of passengers and crews as a result of the number of cars on the various lines of the Transit company was materially increased.

The work of subpoenaing citizens continued uninterruptedly today. There were 228 additional deputies sworn in Saturday and about 200 yesterday with the 400 already sworn in, gives the sheriff a total force of 900 men to assign to active duty, in response to the call issued Saturday by President Hawes of the police board.

NICARAGUA CANAL BILL POSTPONED

Until the Next Session of Congress

By Associated Press to The Sun.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—Soon after the senate convened today a concurrent resolution was adopted providing for the printing of 16,000 sets of messages and papers of the presidents, 10,000 sets to be sold at the actual cost of publication and 6000 sets to be placed at the disposal of the senate and house.

Mr. Morgan chairman of the committee on inter-oceanic canals, made a request that the so-called Hepburn Nicaragua canal bill be made the special order for consideration, December 10, the second Monday of the next session.

Mr. Morgan said he realized the impossibility of obtaining consideration of the bill at this session. His request was agreed to.

When the morning business was concluded, the senate resumed consideration of the general deficiency bill.

An amendment was offered by Mr. Morgan and agreed to, appropriating $13,568 to re-imburse the Maritime Canal company of Nicaragua for expenditures in aid of the commissions authorized by act of congress known as Ludlow commission for inspection and survey for the Nicaragua canal.

An amendment was offered and agreed to to pay an extra month's salary to the employes of the senate and house of representatives.

IN THE HOUSE.

By Associated Press to The Sun.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—Before proceeding to the consideration of the anti-trust bill under the special order, the house today disposed of some routine business. Mr. Watson, (Ind.) was appointed one of the board of visitors to the naval academy in place of Mr. Grout, resigned. The senate amendments to the sundry civil bill were agreed to and the bill was sent to conference.

tunity would be afforded to test the

Mr. Barthold (Mo.) asked if opposition sense of the house on a motion to concur in the St. Louis exposition appropriation. Mr. Cannon replied in the affirmative.

Mr. Ray, chairman of the judiciary committee, demanded the regular order, the anti-trust bill. Under the order, 30 minutes on a side will be allowed for general debate.

Mr. Overstreet (Ind.) who drew the report on the bill occupied the time for general debate on his side with an explanation of the proposed amendments to the Sherman anti-trust law which it contained.

Mr. Fitzgerald (Dem. Mass.) ridiculed the idea that the republican party had done anything to curb the trusts. Only yesterday, he said, the leader of the republican party, the chairman of its national committee, defended in the senate one of the greatest of the trusts, the armor plate trust.

After further remarks by Messrs. Terry (Ark.), Swanson (Va.), Driggs (N. Y.) and Bellamy (N. C.), general debate was closed.

The bill was then read under the five minute rule.

After several minor amendments had been made to the bill, it was reported to the senate, the amendments agreed to and the bill passed. This is the last of the general appropriation bills.

Mr. Allison called up a bill authorizing the secretary of the treasury, the secretary of the interior and the attorney general of the United States to make settlement and adjustment with the Sioux City and Pacific railway of its indebtedness to the United States.

A conference was ordered on the sundry civil appropriation bill and Messrs. Allison, Hale and Cockrell were named as conferees.

The emergency river and harbor bill providing for numerous surveys and for other purposes was taken up and read, the committee amendments being agreed to.

After being amended slightly by individual senators, it was reported to the senate and passed.

The substitute proposed by the senate judiciary committee for the house bill providing for the extradition of alleged criminals from the United States to Cuba was called up by Mr. Fairbanks (Ind).

By Associated Press to The Sun.

PHILADELPHIA, June 2.—The Russian cruiser Varing which left Cramps' ship yard last Tuesday for her builder's trial trip, returned to this city today after having been given a satisfactory test. The big warship was tried out in ever conceivable way and not one weak spot was found in the construction of the vessel. On her speed trial, which took place between the southwest and northeast Five Fathoms Bank lightships, about 20 miles off the Delaware capes last night, the cruiser developed a speed of 23 knots an hour, under natural draft and with one of her boilers out of use. The contract calls for 23 knots an hour. The Russian officers and the builders of the ship are confident that she can cover fully 24 knots when put under forced draught.

NOISY DEMONSTRATION

AT FUNERAL SERVICES OVER MAITRE FALATEUF.

By Associated Press to The Sun.

PARIS, June 2.—The funeral services over Maitre Falateuf, M. Deroulède's counsel before the high court at the Church of the Madeline today, was made the occasion of a noisy demonstration by a body of nationalists. After the funeral service François Coppee, who represented M. Deroulde, insisted on delivering a political speech under the porch of the church. He denounced the high court, (Senate) amidst shouts of approval from 29 nationalists. M. Coppee drove away in a cab brandishing his hat in the air, his supporters crying "Vive Coppee," "Vive Deroulde."

Workmen responded with cries of "Vive Loubet," "Vive la Republique," whereupon the partisans of the nationalists rushed upon a workman, beating him over the head with sticks and fists. In an instant the man's face was covered with blood and he was with difficulty rescued by the police. The nationalist who struck the first blow was arrested. He is a brother-in-law of M. Marcel Habert, condemned with M. Deroulde to 10 years' banishment.

SUSPECTS HELD

Six Men are Now Under Arrest

CHARGED WITH CRACKING A SAFE

Not Believed to be the Guilty Ones

By Associated Press to The Sun.

LEWISTON, Me., June 2.—The Buckfield special says:

Six men are now held on suspicion of being concerned in the post office robbery in this village yesterday morning. There is some doubt, however, as to whether any of them can be found guilty. In fact the prevailing impression in this town is that the true robbers have escaped and that the men who have been captured are tramps.

Word came from South Paris last night that two men supposed to be robbers were locked up in a box car at Mechanics Falls. Train hands had discovered the men and promptly confined them. The men submitted to arrest quietly and were taken away without trouble. They gave their names as Edwin Cavanaugh and James Davis. Cavanaugh claims he came from Haverhill, Mass. Davis would not tell where he came from. Cavanaugh is six feet high, weighs some 180 pounds, dark complexion with a very heavy moustache and fairly well dressed in dark clothes. Davis is a short, thick-set man, weighing about 150 pounds with hair inclined to be gray.

This morning, two men were arrested at Buckfield Village and are held for identification. They claim they have just come into the section and assert that they had nothing to do with the robbery.

It was announced that all the plants owned by the company will start up at once at their full capacity. It is stated that there is an understanding, although no definite compact, between the new concern and the American Sugar Refining company, and that no rate war will result from the organization of the new company.

DYNAMITE USED

Attempt to Blow up Railroad Barns

LITTLE DAMAGE WAS DONE

More Trouble in the St. Louis Strike

OFFICER GOT A BIG SCARE

Routed Out of Bed Late at Night

By Associated Press to The Sun.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., June 2.—More cars are now in operation over the lines of the St. Louis Transit company than on any day since May 8, when the strike began. All are under police protection. The work of securing the force of 2,500 special deputy sheriffs called for by the police board continues.

An attempt was made during the night to blow up with dynamite the Transit company's barns at Easton and Prairie avenues, in which 150 employes and policemen were asleep. The explosive was thrown to the roof of the shed. Several sleeping policemen were thrown violently from their cots by the force of the concussion. Very little damage was done. No arrests were made.

HEARING HELD

ON THE NOMINATION OF JOHN R. HAZEL.

By Associated Press to The Sun.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—A sub committee of the senate on judiciary consisting of Senators Davis, Thurston and Pettus today gave a hearing upon the nomination of John R. Hazel, to be judge of the new western district of New York.

A committee representing the New York Bar association consisting of Robert W. DeForest, William G. Choate, William E. Curtis and H. W. Taft, presented a report of the committee on judiciary nomination of the association against Mr. Hazel. This report was to the effect that the appointee has not the proper standard of legal experience and ability for high judicial office. The committee asserted Mr. Hazel's selection was based upon political and personal considerations. Reference was also made in the report that $400, which it is alleged Mr. Hazel received in connection with the sale of the yacht Enquirer to this government.

DEAD BODY FOUND

WHILE SITTING IN A CHAIR

Gruesome Discovery Was Made Today

By Associated Press to The Sun.

BOSTON, June 2.—Sitting bolt upright in the chair where she died five months ago, the body of Mary Sullivan, a middle-aged woman, was found today in her little tenement at No. 3 North Anderson street. Three other families lived in the block but none of them knew of the grewsome presence.

The dead woman had been eccentric so that neighbors did not pry into her affairs. She was about 50 years of age unmarried and had been employed as cook by several Boston families, among them that of Judge Robert Grant.

The woman was last seen alive about December 28. Complaints made by other tenants in the house caused the landlord to investigate today. He entered the apartments through one of the windows and found the body sitting in a chair by the bedside. Death was caused by heart trouble.

MILITARY SURGEONS.

By Associated Press to The Sun.

NEW YORK, June 2.—About fifty members of the association of military surgeons of the United States met in the last day's session of the ninth annual meeting today. The literary program was continued, a paper being read by Captain W. C. Borden, U. S. A., on "The Morbidity of War Wounds With Tentative Conclusions Relative to Modern Weapons and Surgical Methods."

The following officers were elected:

President, Brigadier General A. J. Stone of Minnesota.

Secretary, Col. Charles Adams of Illinois.

Treasurer, Lieut. Herbert M. Arnold, of St. Paul.

St. Paul was selected for the next convention.

NO SPRINKLERS.

The residents of Butterfield street are making a great howl at being assessed for sprinkling the street and there has not been a drop of water put on the street thus far this season. They say that there will be some fun when they are called upon to pay the assessment for street sprinkling.

NEW WELLS CONNECTED.

The water department connected its 51 new boulevard wells on Friday, and 5,000,000 gallons of pure water a day are now available to be added to the city's supply. Unfortunately the pumping station on the boulevard is capable of pumping only a million gallons a day in excess of the regular supply and a new engine will be necessary. The temperature of the water from the new wells is 37; or equal to iced water.

CARS COLLIDED

At Sharp Curve on Electric Road

MOTORMAN WAS SERIOUSLY INJURED

And the Cars Were Badly Damaged

By Associated Press to The Sun.

FALL RIVER, Mass., June 2.—A head-on collision of electric cars occurred this morning on the Newport road, at a sharp curve near Tiverton, which resulted in two cars being badly damaged and Motorman Lewis being badly injured. The cars in collision were a regular car from Newport in charge of Motorman Nickerson and a special car from this city in charge of Lewis. Both cars were loaded and came together with much force. Motorman Nickerson saved himself by jumping, but Lewis was caught between the fender and the car. He was removed to the emergency hospital for treatment and hopes are entertained for his recovery. The passengers suffered no injuries except that resulting from the shock.

LOST HIS CLOTHING.

The city's contagious hospital, now used for the smallpox and varioloid patients, is situated on land belonging to the city farm. It is apart from all other buildings and is carefully guarded to prevent anybody but the doctors from visiting it. There is a man at the city farm whose duty it is to drive the cows to and from pasture. In going for one of the cows a day or two ago, he violated the rules and went within the quarantine lines prescribed. Apparently there was no one around and it did not look as though there could be any danger in approaching the hospital, even if the health authorities had said so. But health rules are made to be enforced. The man did not go back with his cow. Instead he was taken into custody, placed in a cell and his clothing was taken from him and buried. He will not venture near the hospital again.

DISORDERLY SCENES

AT SESSIONS OF THE PROVINCIAL LEGISLATURE.

By Associated Press to The Sun.

CHARLOTETOWN, P. E. I., June 2—Disorderly scenes have occurred at the sessions of the provincial legislature during the past few days. Owing to the slim majority in the house, by which the Farquharson government (Liberal) holds office, the opposition is placing every possible obstruction in the way of their opponents. One of the members of the house, Mr. Birch, (Conservative) charges that his desk was broken open by some one, and that certain important papers were stolen. These papers, he said, had a bearing on the legality of the seat now occupied by A. A. Pineau, formerly a member of the opposition, but now a supporter of the government. The conservatives charge that the government was only able to save itself from defeat by inducing Mr. Pineau to support it. It is also further charged that Mr. Pineau was sent to Lynn, Mass., to remove him from the influence of his former party friends, and was not recalled until his vote was needed to save the government. Several days have already been occupied by the legislature in a wrangle over the Pineau case. Practically no public business has been transacted.

ALLEN'S SUCCESSOR

FORMALLY OPENS THE NAVAL WAR COLLEGE.

By Associated Press to The Sun.

NEWPORT, R. I., June 2.—The naval war college was formally opened for the summer course of instruction this morning by Hon. Frank W. Hackett, assistant secretary of the navy. The exercises were attended by the greater part of the officers of the naval station and the war vessels at Newport and from Fort Adams, the officers of the class and many civilians.

Captain C. H. Stockton, U. S. N., president of the war college, introduced Assistant Secretary Hackett, who spoke in complimentary terms of his predecessor, Assistant Secretary Allen. He spoke of Mr. Allen's leaving his congenial duties in the navy department to become governor of Porto Rico, thus yielding to the choice of the president from a sense of duty. He said that the war college, young as it was, had amply justified its existence in the solution of problems of naval administration. He dwelt upon the present popularity of the navy, saying that formerly admiration for our sailors found a home chiefly along the seaboard, but that today it knew no boundary or locality. The guns of Dewey and of Sampson had awakened gladdening echoes throughout the land. He spoke of the increased responsibility which the nation had assumed and the new duties required of commanding officers in distant waters. The test of success in war was that a commander achieve the largest results possible with the instructions placed in his hands. The effective force of the ship depended upon the men who handled it. He spoke of the fact that few men had gained distinction in business or science except by reason of knowing more about one thing than anybody else. He dwelt upon the infinite subjects that an officer of the navy at present must comprehend the mystery of the ocean, currents and winds, the miracle of modern human ingenuity, the modern battleship; chemistry, electricity, hygiene, diplomacy and international law. Moreover, the officer must be conversant with human nature under a blue flannel shirt, must be a master of discipline and possess rare decision of character.

At the conclusion of the address, a reception was given by the assistant secretary in the library of the war college building and was attended by all of the officers at the lecture.

Next week, Captain A. T. Mahan, U. S. N., retired, formerly president of the college, will give a series of six lectures on "Napoleon's Campaigns in Italy," deducting therefrom lessons in the art of war.

MAN'S BODY FOUND.

By Associated Press to The Sun.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., June 2.—The police of this city found the body of a man in the waters of Fresh Pond, the source of the water supply today. It was unrecognizable, but the jacket contained a flat iron and because of this the body is believed to be that of Harry W. Ried of this city, formerly a stenographer in the office of Adjutant-General Dalton. Ried disappeared over two months ago, taking with him a flat-iron similar to the one found on his body. He had been despondent.

HOW ACTORS SPEND THEIR MONEY.

The Fads and Faucies That Lure the Nimble Dollar From the Pocket of the Footlight Favorite.

By An Actress.

As the theatrical season drawn to a close a great many of the vast numbers of theatre goers ask the question, "Now that the time for rest has come, how do the great actors and actresses who draw enormous salaries spend their money? Do they settle down at some quiet resort in America or Europe or do they trot around the globe in search of excitement from an irresistible habit of itineracy acquired by constant travel during their season of work?

The answers to these questions are almost as numerous as there are individual actors and actresses, for nearly every one of the great stars has a favorite way of spending his or her vacation and using up the money earned by months of tedious labor. Actors are proverbially improvident. That "rainy day" which comes sooner or later seldom enters into their thoughts so long as they draw salary. They live on the "eat, drink and be merry, for to-morrow ye die" principle; but oh, what a difference in the old age! Still they go right on with their false theories and will not learn the lesson of economy.

Whether it is the idea of sudden death which makes an actor wasteful and extravagant, or whether it is a succession of idle, empty days hanging heavy on his hands that tempts him to buy everything he sees, from a Japanese cabinet to a milk punch, who shall say? The interesting fact remains that he cannot keep money in his inside pocket.

Joseph Jefferson is wealthy, but he has made so much money that it would have puzzled him to find ways of getting rid of all of it, even had he been so inclined. He is far from being a spendthrift, however, but he supports at least twenty-five persons and gives a great deal to the poor. He takes big pleasure in painting and in exchanging fish stories with his friend, Grover Cleveland.

Sol Smith Russell is worth at least a quarter of a million. He used to be passionately fond of faro, but found that real estate investments paid better. Now, beyond a small and friendly game as a summer pastime, he does not "copper the ace."

Nat Goodwin has accumulated at least $150,000 and spends a great deal of his money upon his beautiful summer home in England. It is said that he also is fond of passing away the hours at poker, at which he is specially lucky. But this report can afford to "be taken with salt."

Francis Wilson has plenty of this world's goods, and he deserves it. The story of his courage and ambition as a young man is pretty generally known. He was a song and dance man at a salary of $75. He aspired to the legitimate throwing up this comfortable income, began at the lowest rung of the operatic ladder, receiving $10 a week. He was earnest, studious and determined.

He has never wasted his substance in riotous living. No one sees him in barrooms or loafing about the streets. To-day he is the richest comic-opera comedian on the stage. He is a linguist, an art connoisseur and the best amateur fencer in this country. He paid $80,000 for his summer home at New Rochelle New York. In it is a perfectly appointed miniature theatre. He has a fine collection of rare books and prints, and adds to it each year during his vacation travels. He spares no expense in making his home what a cultured man's ideal should be.

Richard Mansfield has a passion for collecting armor and curios. He is also fond of yachting and goes in for the sport extensively each summer. He owns a handsome pleasure boat on which he entertains his friends in a lavish manner during the "resting" season. Young Emmet owns a steam yacht, and it is his chief delight to open wine for his pals when they visit him on board the what's-its-name?

The mention of Billy Crane's name calls up visions of sailboats. Crane lives on his yacht in the summer, occasionally dropping in at his home in Cohasset, Mass., just to show his family that there is no ill-feeling.

Henry Irving spends fabulous sums on the production of plays. Every detail must be perfect, no matter what the expense. For instance, the peal of bells used at the end of the first act of "Faust" and heard but a few seconds as the curtain falls, cost $5,000. He brought a church organ to this country and an experienced organist as well, besides 460 tons scenery for his repertoire of plays. He also brought over a singer at a salary of $100 a week to render one song in a play he thought of producing. He wasn't even sure that he would produce it. There is no "faking" in Mr. Irving's plays. It is said that he has a fortune, but it cannot be very large when so much of his money goes for staging his plays.

George Clark has the right idea of saving money. He believes that the time to make hay is while the sun is shining. When he was with Augustin Daly he received a salary of $150 a week. Do you think he went to expensive hostelries and hung his dress suit up in a $4-a-day room? Not he. He quietly hied him to hall bedrooms in $10-a-week boarding-houses and sewed $140 to the inside of his chest-protector. He has a farm not far from New York and a snug sum invested in bonds. So if he lives to ripe old age he won't be afraid of any wolves tomfooling around his door.

Lillian Russell has managed to buy a $70,000 house, but she is very extravagant, and they say she has not much cash, though her jewels are worth over a quarter of a million. A great deal of the "American Beauty's" money goes toward the education of her only daughter. Stuart Robson's fad is books. John Drew's hobby is books pertaining to the drama. He has a rare collection.

Della Fox invests largely in diamonds. So does Johnstone Bennett. "Johnny" is devoted to amateur photography and always travels with a camera. Mr. and Mrs. Bancroft, shining lights of the English stage, have an odd hobby. It is usual with them to pass their summers in Wales. When they find a church altar which does not appeal to their artistic sense they immediately build one to their taste and present it to the church. During a recent sojourn in Switzerland they built a church in a little town which they visited.

Ada Rehan likes to pick up unique pieces of furniture for her house in New York. Maude Harrison delights in bric-a-brac. Maud Adams is quiet and studious, and her taste is distinctly in the line of books. She spends her vacation at her beautiful summer home on Long Island, riding and "looking after the farm," accompanied by her mother, to whom she is very devoted.

De Wolf Hopper spends most of his money in buying and staging operas. He has never had any great amount of the gold. His wig bill is quite an item. You know he loses a lot of them "rooting" for baseball; but, wig or no wig, we all love him!

Thomas Whiffen is a book fiend, and has a fine library. Dickens is his idol. Mention David Copperfield to him and in a jiffy this is what you will hear: "The twins have ceased to derive their nutriment from nature's fount. 'In short,' said Mr. Micawber, in a burst of confidence, 'the twins are weaned.'" This, in his funny, inimitable voice, followed by "Oh, beautiful!" He actually smacks his lips over Dickens, and one can't blame him.

MAY IRWIN, WRITER OF MANY FUNNY TALES OF THE STAGE.

WILLIE KEELER AT THE BAT.

FUNNY TIMES UPON THE STAGE.

By May Irwin.

I never shall forget my first rehearsal at Daly's, or how I suffered. The play was one of Pinero's called "Boys and Girls."

I had to go on just after the curtain went up. I was supposed to smell an odor of burned fish, and Mr. Daly's directions to me were to come on, sniff, look around and sniff harder. I at once objected right out loud, "Why, no," I said, "that would be absurd. I should go straight to the fireplace, where the smell comes from, of course. Why, Mr. Daly, do you suppose if I smelled something burning in my flat I wouldn't know enough to go to the range?"

The guv'nor, that's what we all called him, must have been thunderstruck; every one else was; for the slow voice in which he said, "Miss Irwin, I don't allow this," was the least bit choky.

I saw what I had done, of course, "Very well," I said, "I'll try it your way."

And I did, but I couldn't do it. I think we must have done it twenty times, and it was not much nearer what he wanted, but at last we went on.

* * *

In a few days we reached the second act, and at once struck a similar snag. The guv'nor was sitting down in the auditorium, and his solemn voice informed me: "Not in the least like it."

"Well, I'll try again," I said, and I did.

Then up to me came the remark: "Well, I wonder where you have left your intelligence this morning." It was the last straw. I had never before been spoken to like that in my life—and here it came out before all the company! I tried to take a brace, but couldn't, so I just broke down and blubbered. It was the first time I ever did such a thing.

"Go on," said the inexorable voice, and I could only sob, "You'll have to wait for me."

"Very well, skip that and go on," said Mr. Daly, and I retired to a dark corner and cried as if my heart was broken. Pretty soon Daly trotted me up. "Come, come," said he, "you mustn't do this. I treat all my people alike. If you don't do well, you as well as I will be criticised. It's for your own sake as much as mine." And that was the last encounter of that kind we ever had.

It did not take me long to understand that Mr. Daly knew more than I did, and that to learn to follow him was to make a hit.

* * *

ALEC SMITH.

while he was callboy at the theatre, imitating Mr. Daly behind the scenes are true. You know that guv'nor got himself into all sorts of queer postures when he was at work. He would twist one leg up behind the other and get all in a start. Well, Willie would get behind him and imitate him, exaggerating it awfully, of course, but following him right along in every movement.

It was excruciatingly funny, and I always laughed hard. The guv'nor would hear the titter behind him, and, without turning his head, say, "Willie, tell them to keep quiet," and Willie would come right up to me and say "Sh!" Why, I came near losing my engagement there that way.

But the story that Mr. Daly caught Collier imitating him is not true. He caught John Drew. It was one morning when we were waiting for the guv'nor to arrive. Mr. Drew began walking about in Mr. Daly's way, and along came Mr. Daly and saw it all. All he said was, "Ah, very good, very good. Willie, call the first act."

GREAT ENGLISH RACE OF THE YEAR.

And the Many Sensational Happenings Which Have Made the Derby Notable in the Past.

Among all the events in the sporting calendar in England there is nothing to compare with Derby Day and, as the result, this race, which is so soon to be run again, is now one of the chief topics of interest from one end of the United Kingdom to the other; in fact, if it were not for the war it would be the only subject worthy of being talked about.

If there is any one thing that will make the present Derby conspicuous, it will be the absence of the Duke of Westminster, who succeeded in carrying off the honors last year with that great horse, Flying Fox. Four times the Duke won the riband that is so highly prized, and there has been scarcely a race for twenty years or more in which his stable has not been well represented. Naturally, therefore, he will be missed by those who gather to watch the contest this season, but there is no doubt that more than one of the horses that appear at the track will recall the old sportsman to the mind of the spectators, as the blood of his stable is represented by more than one of the prominent contestants.

It would be difficult for one to find any event in turf history that has a more interesting record for sensational contests than the Derby. In fact, it is not necessary to search very far back before one discovers the record of an event that was sensational enough to appeal to the soul of the most hardened admirer of the runners, for, of the hundred-odd struggles that have been contested upon Epsom Downs, few have caused more excitement than the race of 1836, when Jeddah, starting at the decidedly useful price of 110 to 1 against him, beat the Duke of Westminster's colt Batt by three-quarters of a length, with another 100 to 1 chance, Dunlop, a moderate third.

AN EXCITING RACE.

It is a long cry back from 1836 to 1814—a year that will always be associated with one of the most daring turf frauds ever perpetrated. In that year a horse described on the card as "Mr. A. Wood's Running Rein, by The Saddler - Queen Mab," came in first for the Derby; but, it being afterward proved to the satisfaction of the jockey club authorities that the winner was actually a four-year-old by Gladiator—Capsicum's Dam, the race was awarded to General Peel's colt Orlando, which had finished second.

The Derby of 1867, won by Mr. Chaplin's Hermit, will always be memorable for having been run during a snow storm, and by reason of the fact that some of the most sensational wagering on record took place over this race.

It was undoubtedly the victory of Hermit that ruined the ill-fated Marquis of Hastings, whose losses amounted to nearly $1,000,000. One transaction alone made by this plunging nobleman was an even $50,000 upon three of the competitors, not one of which succeeded in getting a place. The bulk of his losses, however, was sustained through laying heavily against Hermit at long odds.

The term "sensational" may also be appropriately applied to the Derby of 1868, for Blue Gown was so badly thought of by his owner that the latter did not risk a single penny upon him. In spite of this, however, the colt won easily, in the then record time of 2.43½, and Sir Joseph Hawley, the owner, was so delighted at seeing his black and cherry jacket borne to victory in the coveted race that he presented the whole of the stakes, worth about $30,000, to "Tiny" Wells, the jockey who had sat astride the horse.

The carries for the Derby of this year are as yet in such a condition that it is difficult to even attempt to make a reasonable guess at the probable winner. Many fine colts have been entered and each of the animals is heart and soul out for the Blue Riband.

THERE IS BIG MONEY ON THE DIAMOND.

The Managers Have Arranged it so That the Teams Will be Prosperous in 1900.

The baseball season is now fairly upon us, and from this time until the November breezes make their presence felt, we shall revel in descriptions of phenomenal batting, sensational catching and a host of other features that are so dear to the hearts of those who follow the great National game.

If the opinion of the venerable president of the National League is to be taken for anything, "the present season is to be the most successful in the history of the game," and as Mr. Young has been intimately associated with professional baseball since the organization of the big league in 1876, his prediction ought to receive more than passing consideration.

Disregarding all of Mr. Young's prophecies, however, there is more than one reason to suppose that for the year 1900 the "most successful season" will be fully realized. In the first place, the National League has finally accomplished a feat that removes the greatest stumbling block in the way of the prosperity of the game.

For years past, in fact, ever since the expensive war between the players and the managers in 1890, there has been just one drawback that could not be overcome, and the game has simply tottered along because of the cumbersome burden of a badly scattered and unwieldy circuit of twelve clubs.

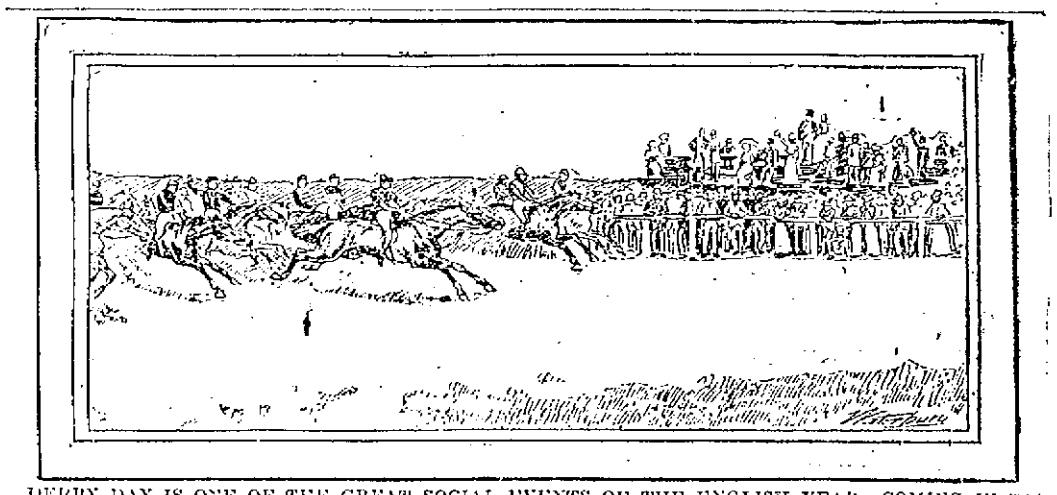

The only excuse that could be given for maintaining all these clubs was that the League desired to occupy all the available territory and thus make it impossible for a rival organization to gain a foothold. In one sense of the word, the object of the League was attained. This action effectually prevented competition and yet the necessity of carrying so much dead timber entailed a loss that it has been difficult to overcome.

Another argument that may be used against a twelve team league is that there is not a sufficient number of players of the first rank to form twelve well-balanced clubs. As the result, as the history of the game will show, half a dozen cities have absorbed all the strongest players and the remaining towns on the circuit have been compelled to accept those that have been left over.

Under such conditions it was impossible to have other than one-sided contests and it is not strange that there should have been a lack of interest and loss of patronage on occasions in which the results were already settled. People do not like to see a game, the result of which is a foregone conclusion, and when, last year, the Bostons or the Brooklyns played the Clevelands, it was a well-recognized fact that the latter could only win as the result of an accident. Such baseball contests are farcical, and it is a matter for congratulation that these conditions have been eradicated.

In spite of all these facts, however, it was with the greatest difficulty that this result was accomplished. For years baseball has been an unsatisfactory business venture, and yet the managers have hesitated to take the step that would place them upon a paying basis. According to the Indianapolis agreement of 1891, the twelve team league was to continue its existence for ten years, unless in the meantime there were clubs that failed to meet their obligations. At no time has this occurred, and, as the result, the change from the twelve to the eight club league meant the purchase of four franchises. In no other way could the league be relieved of its twelve club incubus.

This desirable and much needed change was brought about through the efforts of Andrew Freedman, the owner and president of the New York club. It is a well-recognized fact that New York is the keystone of the baseball arch from a financial point of view

AGUINALDO SHOT?

Major March Thinks Leader Has Fallen

By Associated Press to The Sun.

VIGAN, Luzon, June 2, via Manila, June 3.—Major March, with his detachment of the 33d regiment, overtook what is believed to have been Aguinaldo's party on May 19 at Lagat, about 100 miles northeast of Vigan. The Americans killed or wounded an officer, supposed to be Aguinaldo, whose body was removed by his followers.

Aguinaldo had one hundred men, and Major March had 125. The American commander reached Laboagan, where Aguinaldo had made his headquarters since March 6, on May 7. Aguinaldo had fled seven hours before, leaving all the beaten trails, and travelling through the forest along the beds of streams. Toward evening, May 19, Major March struck Aguinaldo's outpost about a mile outside of Lagat, killing four Filipinos and capturing two. From the latter he learned that Aguinaldo had camped there for the night. Although exhausted and half starved, Major March's men entered Lagat on the run. They saw the insurgents scattering into the bushes or over the plateau. A thousand yards beyond the town, on the mountain side, the figures of twenty-five Filipinos dressed in white with the leader on a gray horse, were silhouetted against the sunset. The Americans fired a volley and saw the officer drop from his horse. His followers fled, carrying the body.

The Americans, on reaching the spot, caught the horse, which was richly saddled. Blood from a badly wounded man was on the animal and on the ground. The saddlebags contained Aguinaldo's diary and some private papers, including proclamations. One of these was addressed "To the civilized nations." It protested against the American occupation of the Philippines. There were also found copies of Senator Beveridge's speech, translated into Spanish and entitled "The death knell of the Filipino people."

Major March, believing that the Filipinos had taken to a river which is a tributary to the Chico, followed it for two days, reaching Tiao, where he learned that a party of Filipinos had descended the river, May 20, on a raft with the body of a dead or wounded man upon a litter, covered with palm leaves.

There Major March reviewed his command, shoeless and exhausted, and picked out 24 of the freshest men, with whom he beat the surrounding country for six days longer, but without finding any trace of the insurgents. The Americans pushed on and arrived at Aparri, May 29. The officer shot was either Aguinaldo or his adjutant; and as the horse was richly caparisoned, it is a fair presumption that it was Aguinaldo.

The soldiers of General Young, military governor of northwestern Luzon, captured early last Month an insurgent officer with papers revealing Aguinaldo's whereabouts. General Young immediately organized for pursuit, giving Major March a chance to finish the work begun in November. Major March left Candon May 20, hurrying north towards Laboagan, while Colonel Hare, with a battalion divided into two parts, started from Rangued, the province of Abra, covering the trails westward. The garrison in the Cagayan valley, were disposed in such a way as to guard the avenues of escape eastward.

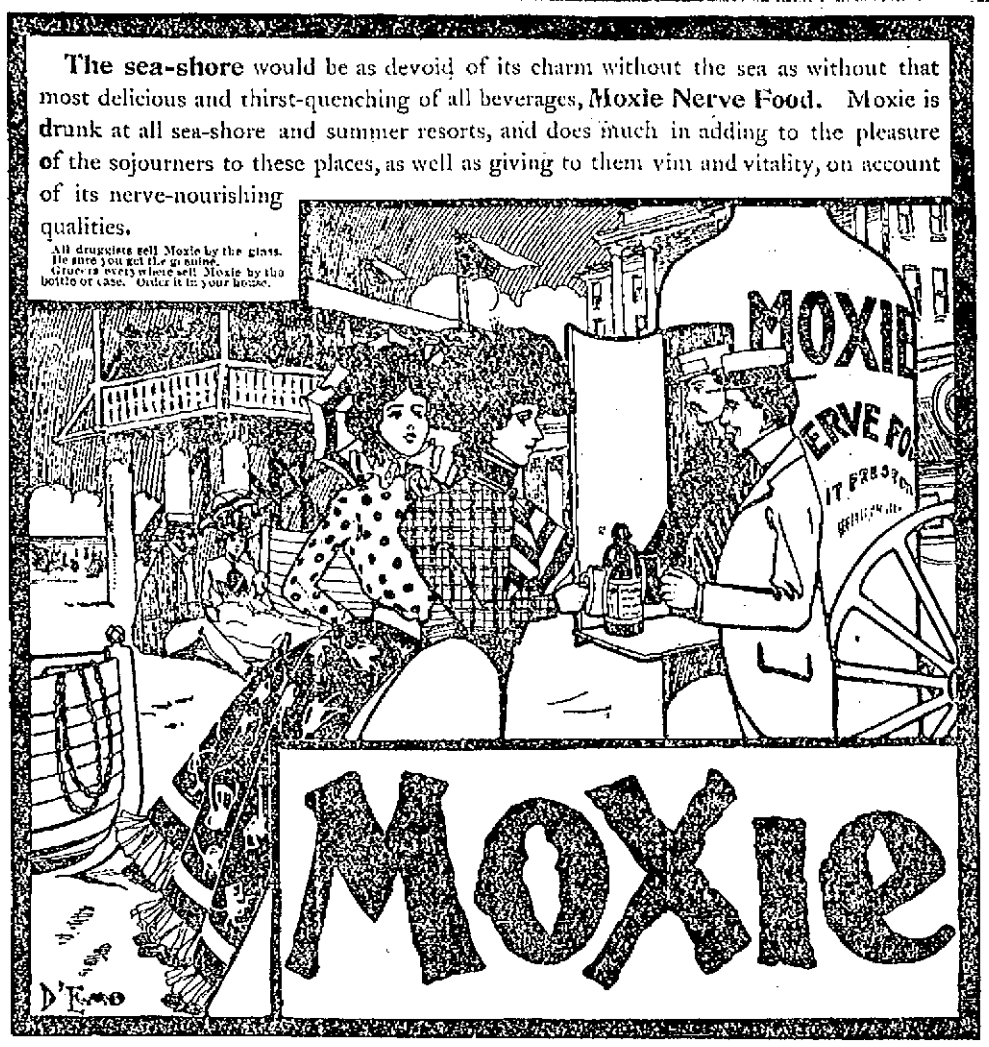

Spies heralded the approach of Major March with signal fires. On reaching Laboagan he apprehended a letter in Aguinaldo's handwriting, the ink of which was hardly dry, addressed to an officer of guerillas of the Filipino army and saying:

"There having arrived this morning at Laboagan a hostile column from Bokoo, I have set out with all my force. My road had no fixed destination."

This was signed "Col. David," a subriquet. Aguinaldo called at the presidentia, from which he issued decrees and where his followers celebrated Easter with a banquet at a triangular table, where speeches were made, eulogizing Gregoro de Pilar.

That night Major March's men slept in the bamboo resuming the advance in the morning and reaching Lagat, 40 miles distant, in two days, although it was raining hard in the mountains all the time.

Aguinaldo's papers are very important. They show that he took refuge in Isabella province, where he remained until he established himself at Laboagan, province of Abra, where he proposed to direct the rainy season operations. Until recently he was ignorant of outside events, making no pretence of directing the insurrection, happy if indeed, he might be able to keep alive among the hostile Igorrotes, who killed several of his followers.

FELL OUT WINDOW

Richard Webb Seriously Injured by Fall

FROM WINDOW IN BOOTT MILLS SATURDAY

Sustained a Fracture of the Jaw

Richard Webb, a fireman on the Boott corporation, met with a very serious accident while at work Saturday night, about 8 o'clock.

Engineer Hoyt requested him to go up stairs one flight and close a window. Webb went up and a short time later was found lying on the ground outside, unconscious and severely injured.

He was taken to the corporation hospital where it was learned that he had sustained a fracture of the jaw and clavicle. He has been in this city about ten years and has a brother, John, in Fall River and an uncle, Mr. Patrick Horan of 82 Gorham street.

It is supposed that Webb fell from the window, though no one saw the accident. He was in another accident about three months ago when a revolver accidentally went off in his hands and shot him in the fingers. He was then living at 52 Bridge street. At 2.30 o'clock this morning he was resting comfortably.

FATAL ASSAULT

ALLEGED ASSAILANT UNDER ARREST

Taken in Charge by Boston Police

By Associated Press to The Sun.

HAVERHILL, Mass., June 4.—The town of Plaistow, N. H., is considerably excited over an assault committed on Ralph B. Muntrees, at the Union house in that town, and the probability is that he will not live very long. The authorities in that town were informed late last night that Harry Green was arrested in Boston late last evening on the charge of committing a murderous assault on Muntress. It is alleged that Green struck Muntress over the head with an iron cuspidor early Saturday morning and the blow rendered him unconscious.

COLOMBIA REBELS

SANK A GOVERNMENT GUNBOAT NEAR CARTHAGENA.

By Associated Press to The Sun.

KINGSTON, Ja., June 4.—The British steamer Orinoco which arrived here yesterday from Colombia reports that on May 31 the rebels were within six miles of Panama. The government troops had prepared for action; the British consul and others had left with their families for Taboga, for safety; all the Colombian soldiers had left Colon to strengthen the Panama garrison and 250 soldiers, brought from Savanilla by a French steamer on May 28, had gone to Panama. The United States warship Machias was at Colon when the Orinoco left, under orders to land marines if the city was threatened by the rebels.

The authorities of Colon had been impressing into the military service large numbers of native youths. The Orinoco brings also a report that a Colombian gunboat, the Cordova, was sunk by the rebels between Carthagena and Colon. Carthagena and Savanilla are quiet but the country is flooded with paper money, the premium on gold being 1000 per cent.

ANNUAL BANQUET

OF THE ASSOCIATED PRESS OPERATORS HELD IN BOSTON.

The second annual meeting and banquet of the New England Telegraph Corps of the Associated Press was held in Gould's hotel, Boston, yesterday. The occasion was a happy reunion of all the members of the corps, honorary and active, and was made the more enjoyable by the presence of the New England manager of the Associated Press, Mr. John H. Fahey, who in a brief, yet bright and pointed address, expressed his appreciation of the service rendered the association by the operators, referred to the importance their work is to the success of the association and wished them all prosperity and success.

That the operators were gratified by his remarks was evidenced by the applause that followed the speech. Probably no two men in such positions as those occupied by Mr. Fahey as New England agent and Mr. Ernest M. Fisher as chief of the operators of the Associated Press, enjoy to such an extent as they do the confidence of their employes. For both of them the operators have the greatest regard and esteem.

The men in the service place every reliance in these two men, and have never had occasion to regret it, for their interests, at all times have been guarded well and faithfully.

The menu at yesterday's banquet was the best that Gould's could provide and 7-20-1 cigars were smoked with the compliments of the manufacturer.

John H. Fahey, Boston, (honorary); Miss M. A. Estes, Woonsocket, R. I.; P. J. O'Connor, Lewiston, Me.; H. C. Bunting, Portland, Me.; R. E. Grandfield, Fall River; M. A. Flemming, Haverhill; E. J. Neill, Lawrence; C. F. Whitney of The Sun, Lowell; F. J. Keating, Lowell; S. P. Nash, Taunton; H. C. Belles, New Bedford; G. F. Cannon, Concord; P. J. Stewart, Manchester; E. C. Cooke, Pawtucket; G. W. S. Burroughs, Providence; C. A. Price, Providence, and the following officials of the Associated Press office in Boston: Ernest M. Fisher, J. A. Griswold, C. G. Rogers.

The invited guests were Fred H. Glasby, Boston; D. Boy Newcomb, New Bedford; Thomas J. Mulligan of The Sun, Lowell; J. A. Hosey, Biddeford, Me.; L. C. Wedmore, Boston; A. F. Booth, Boston.

The following officers of the association were re-elected: Ernest M. Fisher, president; Robert E. Grandfield, Fall River, vice president; Park J. Stewart, Manchester, secretary; Chester G. Rogers, Boston, treasurer; relief fund investigating committee, G. W. S. Burroughs, Providence; George F. Gannon, Concord; A. M. Stevens, Portland; James A. Griswold, Boston.

HE WAS DROWNED

Tragic Fate of a Young Greek

WHILE BATHING WITH COMPANIONS

Had Been in Country Only One Week

Epaminondas Stathopulos, a Greek aged 19 year, and only one week in this country, was drowned in the Suffolk canal while bathing Saturday afternoon.

Owing to the fact that the mills are working overtime, the canals are not drawn off Saturday noon as was formerly the custom.

Stathopulos, with several of his countrymen, went to a point of the canal winding between the Suffolk bridge and Kitson's machine shop for the purpose of taking a bath, although none of the party, it is said, could swim. Stathopulos ventured out too far and before anything could be done he was in a dangerous position.

He screamed for help but his companions were powerless to act. Several attempts were made by them to reach him, but he was too far and soon sank.

The drowning man's screams attracted many to the banks, but before assistance could be given him.

Stathopulos was employed in the Tremont & Suffolk mills. He lived with his cousin, who was the only relative he had in this city.

DR. PIERCE'S GOLDEN MEDICAL DISCOVERY FOR THE BLOOD, LIVER, LUNGS.

WATCH YOUR KIDNEYS!

DR. HOLTIN'S KIDNEY TABLETS WILL CURE THEM.

The Verdict of Mr. J. F. O'Donnell is the Verdict of Thousands.

WATCH FOR THE DANGER SIGNALS.

Dizziness, Backache, Headache, Tired Feeling, Pains Across the Loins or in the Bladder, Nervousness, Sleeplessness, Chills, Scalding Urine or Urine of an Unnatural Color, All Tell One Story—That of Diseased Kidneys.

As surely as the heart beats time to the life of a man so do the kidneys foreshadow death. It is simply a matter a few years when the neglecting of the kidneys' danger signals result in the life of a man and woman being prematurely cut off. When the kidneys are in a healthy condition they extract all poison and disease germs from the blood, passing them along the canal that connects the kidneys with the bladder and then out of the system along with the urine. When the kidneys are in a diseased condition from overwork, cold, or any one of the very numerous causes they refuse to perform their functions as a filter, causing the very prominent display of the signals above referred to.

Many and many are the letters that have been received by THE HOLTIN CHEMICAL CO. from suffering people, who regret with their last breath that they did not take heed of the danger signals that were given them by nature. Suffering in the last grasp of the dreaded Bright's Disease, they knew that had they taken Edt. HOLTIN'S KIDNEY TABLETS their lives would not have been crushed out before their natural time. Is this not a warning to people who are rushing along life's pathway without any regard to the cry of Nature's signs?

The American people, as a nation, overwork their kidneys. This fact, coupled with the large quantity of injurious acids contained in the common American beverages, fully accounts for the surprising and always increasing number of deaths in this country from the fatal Bright's Disease, Bright's Disease, the advanced form of Kidney Disease is purely and simply consumption of the kidneys. Like consumption of the lungs, a cure is almost utterly impossible in its advanced stage. All persons—mothers and fathers, sons and daughters—owe to themselves and family connections a serious duty—that of taking such steps as will insure them against premature death. Weak, overworked kidneys must be attended to. They must do their functions properly, and all injurious acid consumed through the stomach must be obliterated by means of the kidneys, and if the kidneys are in any way clogged, the proper medicine must be taken to assist them in their filtering process.

Kansas City, Mo., April 21, 1900.

Holtin Chemical Company, New York City.

Gentlemen: Noticing your advertisement in The Star, where you guarantee to cure kidney troubles with Dr. Holtins Kidney Tablets, I purchased a box and began treatment five weeks ago. I am now on my third box and must say I never felt as well as I do at present. Before using your tablets I suffered from backache, headache, nervousness and was unable to sleep nights. My urine was scanty and a desire to urigate frequently, even getting up three or four times during the night. These symptoms have all passed and, although I feel well and am able to attend to my business, yet I intend to continue with your medicine until I am sure I have become completely cured.

I have recommended your tablets to several friends, who also speak highly of the benefits they have derived from their use. You may use my name to recommend your Kidney Tablets at any time, and I hope they will benefit others as they have. Yours Truly,

BRABANT'S TROOPS

Are Being Captured in Small Parties

The Boers are Worrying Them—Report States That Pretoria is Being Bombarded by French's Cavalry

By Associated Press to The Sun.

MASERU, Basutoland, Friday, June 1—General Brabant's horse have been the subjects of several small captures at the hands of the Boers. Lieut. Rundle, with 20 men while searching a farm house in the Ficksburg district, were captured, two of the men being wounded. Lieut. Lees and two men were captured while "commandeering." Another patrol of the Broder Horse numbering 20 men, while pursuing a small party of Boers, were surrounded and captured.

Count Gleichen sent 13 men of the Provincial Horse under Lieut. Bowker with a flag of truce to Senekal to demand the surrender of that place. The Boers captured the entire party and after robbing the men of all but their clothing, sent them to Urede, whence some of them managed to escape. Most of those who succeeded in eluding their guards, however, were re-captured.

CONFUSION REIGNS AT PRETORIA

By Associated Press to The Sun.

CAPE TOWN, Sunday, June 3.—The telegraph to Pretoria is still open. The town is in great confusion. There has been a general exodus, among those taking part in it being the foreign fighting again. Six special trains left on Wednesday last, and one of them is reported to have been derailed. No British refugees have arrived.

LORD ROBERTS 25 MILES FROM PRETORIA

By Associated Press to The Sun.

LONDON, June 4.—4 a. m.— There is no direct news from Pretoria of later date than Thursday evening. General French's cavalry was then at Irene, eight miles south of Pretoria, and firing was heard there. Lord Roberts' messages about secondary operations elsewhere and the situation at Johannesburg, dated at Orange Grove, a farm four miles northeast of Johannesburg show that on Saturday at 9.10 p. m. he was 25 miles from Pretoria.

The correspondents with Lord Roberts have not got through a line about the operations after the occupation of Johannesburg. Official messages continue to come through, but press telegrams are held up, probably to avoid their giving even a hint as to what may be the pending operations. From the other side there filters through Lourenzo Marques a mass of statements, some contradictory, others obviously improbable, but the following purporting to be facts:

"Passengers arriving at Lourenzo Marques Saturday direct from Pretoria say that the capital was preparing to surrender when they left Thursday. The forts were dismantled. The Boer guard at Komati Poort searched all trains and turned back most of the fugitives, among them deserting foreigners who were striving to reach neutral soil.

"Immense Boer convoys of provisions are between Pretoria and Middleburg. Fifteen trains are sent daily to Machadsdoran with supplies for Lydenburg. Pretoria is pictured by the refugees as in a state of indescribable confusion and chaos. The populace are dismayed and the British are expected hourly."

Some foreign attaches have arrived at Lourenzo Marques to communicate with their governments for orders to leave, as they consider that organized war on the Transvaal side is at an end. Flying among the Boers are reports that the British have been beaten back at Lindley with heavy loss; that the main attack on Elandsfontein failed and Lord Roberts was forced to retire to Klipsriverberg; that the railway has been cut behind him south of Vereeniging and that a provision train has been captured.

Without crediting any of these Boer bulletins everything from the field of war behind Lord Roberts points to a great effort last week to paralyze his advance by a bold stroke from the eastward at the railway north of Bloemfontein. Unless four Boer columns were in a movement seemingly with this objective, there was a commando in front of General Brabant, near Ficksburg; another faced General Rundle, near Senekal, a third occupied Lindley, and pressed toward the railway, and a fourth seized Heilbron and pushed toward Kroonstad. These operations, assuming them to have been independent, all appear to have failed.

The revival of the Boer fighting power east of Lord Roberts' advance, although fruitless, is a symptom that the Boers are not yet crushed. In General Rundle's attack on the entrenched Boers, seven miles east of Senekal, May 29, the British did not see a Boer all day, so completely were they screened. The British infantry did not get within 1,000 yards of their rifle-men. The 153 losses wired by Lord Roberts were suffered by the Grenadiers and Scots Guards while advancing over a level from which the grass had been burned. The Britishers in khaki were a conspicuous target against the black background.

General Rundle withdrew his whole force at sundown to Senekal, having succeeded in drawing the Boers from Lindley allowing the threatened force to get away safely. The Boers sent to the British for medical help, saying that Commandant Davilliers was seriously wounded. General Rundle sent a doctor with a bottle of champagne and his compliments, as well as a message that he would release all the Boer prisoners at Senekal.

In the advance of the Grenadiers Col. Lloyd led in the face of a deadly fire. He was hit, but struggled on only to be disabled by another bullet. Lieut. Murray falling, cried: "Forward, Grenadiers." The blinding smoke of the veldt hampered the operations.

Lieut. Lord Seymour on offering to go back to direct the artillery was wounded. The order to retire was given and executed under a screen of smoke. The Boer fire was kept up until dusk.

According to a despatch to the Daily Telegraph from New Castle dated Saturday, the Boers exhibited signs of leaving Laings Nek.

Newspaper commentaries here generally regard the situation in Pretoria as enigmatical. They rather expect news of the British occupation today.

In the Indian mail landed at Dover Saturday was a bag of despatches from Pretoria, including some from the Transvaal government to its agents abroad. The destruction of the bag was Naples, but it was landed at Aden by a German steamer through a mistake and was shipped with the Indian mail to Brindisi, where is was taken up by the English authorities.

The Lourenzo Marques correspondent of the Times telegraphing June 2 says:

"An Austrian who was seven months in active service in the Transvaal declares that a large proportion of the burghers are deserting to their homes. The arrangement whereby the British prisoners at Pretoria have been placed until an armed guard with British officers, pending the formal occupation of the town is ascribed to the good sense and humane disposition of General Louis Botha, and the Transvaal war secretary, both of whom have earned the profound respect of all classes. It is interesting to note that Lord Roberts' soldierly qualities are admired greatly by both Boers and foreigners. It seems that the Boer attack upon Irene was intended to cover the withdrawal from Pretoria of all the supplies procurable. The last consignment was six hundred wagon loads."

ROBERTS FACING TOWARDS PRETORIA

By Associated Press to The Sun.

LONDON, June 4.—London enjoyed Whitsun Monday, which is always a bank holiday, without being disturbed by descriptions of engagements between the British and the Boers in South Africa and the public is serene in the confident belief that Lord Roberts will soon reach Pretoria. Toward that goal presumably he is progressing. The latest explanations of the delay are based on the supposition that he is giving several columns of his flanks an opportunity to advance in an attempt to envelope such of the Boer forces as may be in the neighborhood of Pretoria.

In Orange River colony, the burghers are reported to be keeping a close watch upon President Steyn to prevent him from leaving the commandoes in the lurch.

TOWN BURNED

"Boxers" Continue Their Vicious Work

By Associated Press to The Sun.

TIEN TSIN, June 1.—Huang-Tsun, the next station to Feng-Tai, was burned this morning and a bridge was damaged.

Traffic between Tien Tsin and Pekin has been suspended.

It is reported that Pao-Ting-Fu was attacked last night.

Mr. Robinson, of the North China mission (not Mr. Stevenson, of the church of England mission at Yen-Ching, as cabled to The Associated Press last night, is) missing and five native Christians have been murdered at Yang-Ching. Mr. Norman, of the same mission, has been captured at Wu-Chiu-Ying, two miles from Yang-Ching and is in great danger.

The British cruiser Endymoin and the torpedo boat Hart have arrived at Taku.

ALARMING REPORTS.

By Associated Press to The Sun.

PEKIN, Sunday, June 3.—The most alarming reports are constantly arriving from the country, especially from Pao-Ting-Fu. The telegraph wires from Pekin to Pao-Ting-Fu are cut and all news comes via Tien Tsin.

It is reported that a serious crisis exists at the palace. The ultra-Conservative party advocates not taking repressive measures, urging the dowager empress to allow the "Boxers" to finish the work of driving the foreigners out of the country; the moderate party, led by Prince Ching, representing the serious danger of provoking a conflict with the powers. It is impossible to confirm or deny the report, but significant indications of the feeling of the government towards foreigners are contained in the attempt to arrest Lin, Chinese manager of the Pekin syndicate; Kiu, chief of the Shan-Si commercial bureau, and Fan, a leading banker of Shang-Si, on the ground that they were dangerous characters. "But in reality because they are connected with the new British enterprizes." Fortunately all of them were absent and have not yet been arrested. The British minister, Sir Claude MeDonald, has addressed a note to the Tsung-Li-Yamen, demanding why the arrests were ordered.

KUMASSIE'S FATE

By Associated Press to The Sun.

Fifteen hundred men are here and 500 hundred others are in Nigeria. It is expected that these with eight guns will go to Kumassie. It is reported that Capt. Hall has already retrieved Kumassie but the report is not confirmed.

By Associated Press to The Sun.

WASHINGTON, June 4.—The conferees of the two houses of congress have agreed upon about two thirds of the 85 items of disagreement on the sundry civil appropriation bill and have decided to report a disagreement of 61 of these items. The items of disagreement include those making an appropriation for the St Louis exposition, also all those relating to rivers and harbors and light houses and public buildings.

TRAIN HELD UP

Masked Men Board "Cannon Ball" Train

PISTOL SHOTS WERE EXCHANGED

And Robbers Were Nearly Brought Down

By Associated Press to The Sun.

LONG VIEW, Texas., June 4.—The north bound "Cannon Ball" train on the International and Great Northern was held up after midnight at a point about sixty miles south of this city.

A pile of ties was placed on the track and as the train came to a stop three masked men climbed into the engine. They forced the engineer and fireman to uncouple the mail, baggage and express cars and pull them out two miles from the remainder of the train. The robbers then commanded Express Messenger Rutherford to open the door of his car. Failing to get any response, the robbers made Fireman Love break a hole in the end of the car. While this was being done the fireman begged the messenger and baggage master not to shoot. The messenger who was well protected by a barricade said he would kill the first man to enter the hole. Love was forced in and the messenger fired past his head barely missing the robbers, who undertook to kill Rutherford by shooting through the side of the car. During the confusion, Engineer Rich crawled away to his engine, pulled the throttle wide open and left the robbers. A quick run was made to Jacksonville, fifty miles north, where blood hounds were secured to chase the robbers.

MANSFIELD'S BILL

ON CORPORATION RETURNS DEFEATED TODAY.

The bill introduced by Rep. Mansfield of Lowell to compel foreign corporations to make complete returns, was defeated in the house today by a vote of 56 to 103. It passed to a third reading on May 14 by a vote of 107 to 60, so that the flop in this case is worse than on the Westminster Chambers bill.

Miss Louise McLaughlin of this city has just returned from New York, where she has signed contracts with Francis Wilson for next season. Miss McLaughlin will play one of the leading roles in the new opera to be produced next season and also will undoubtedly understudy the prima-donna.

TELLER'S VIEWS

The Senator Heard on the Philippine Policy

He Scores Republicans for Attacks on Bryan—Claims That American Sovereignty Attached to the Philippines

By Associated Press to The Sun.

WASHINGTON, June 4.—The senate convened at 10 o'clock today, with no special order of business in view.

Mr. Morgan (Ala.) reported from the committee on Inter-oceanic canals a resolution declaring the Clayton-Bulwer treaty abrogated. He gave notice that he would call up the resolution tomorrow.

Mr. Allen asked that an hour be set aside today for the consideration of pension bills.

Mr. Pettigrew objected.

The pension laws, he thought, were defective and unjust and that special favors were being granted for political effect. Further, he declared that more pension bills had been passed at this session than at any session for years.

Mr. Gallinger, chairman of the committee on pensions, challenged Mr. Pettigrew's statement as to the number of pension bills passed.

It was then, on motion of Mr. Allen, agreed that a recess should be taken this evening from 6 until 8 o'clock.

Mr. Aldrich, (R. I.) reported from the committee on finance a bill to provide better facilities for the safekeeping of public money in the Philippines, Cuba and Porto Rico. The bill provides for the deposit of the money by the government in such banks on the islands as will deposit with the government as security United States bonds to the full amount of the deposits. The bill was passed.

Several private measures were passed, including one to refund to Mathias Pedersen $300 which he had paid for a substitute in the army during the civil war, Pedersen being an alien and not liable to military duty.

After many efforts had been made by senators to obtain consideration for various bills, all of which were blocked by objections, Mr. Teller (Col.) addressed the senate on the Philippine question. He referred to the speeches on the same subject, delivered by Mr. Beveridge (Ind.), Mr. Lodge (Mass.), and Mr. Spooner (Wis.) declaring they contained a strong political basis and an evident desire to advance the policy of the administration rather than to a just and righteous solution of the problem presented. He declares that the speeches of the senators he had referred to had contained eulogistic references to the president of the United States, references which he said were sycophantic in character. Some of the speeches of the republicans had been marred, in his opinion, by "attacks" upon the late democratic candidate for the presidency (Mr. Bryan.) It would be his effort not to make a political speech, although, he added, any remarks may be tinged with my opposition to the republican party."

He was one of those who believed that American sovereignty attached to the Philippines.

"By the laws of war," said he, "we occupied those islands. When we became masters of the island of Luzon, we became practically masters of all the islands."

CROWDED HOUSE

CONGRESS PREPARING TO CLOSE THE SESSION.

By Associated Press to The Sun.

WASHINGTON, June 4.—All the scenes about the house today presaged the near approach of final adjournment. The leaders in charge of the appropriation bills were conspicuously noticeable, the galleries and corridors were thronged with advocates of belated bills, the engrossing clerks were hustling about, and the speaker was constantly besieged by members with private bills which they desire to get through.

Three members were on the floor demanding recognition on a question of personal privilege. After the journal had been approved, Mr. Alexander (N. Y.) was first recognized. His question of privilege was an echo of the bitter fight now being waged in Buffalo against the nomination of John R. Hazel as a United States district judge. He sent to the clerk's desk and had read an extract from a speech made by ex-Representative R. B. Mahany of New York, reciting an alleged interview with Mr. Hazel in which the latter was made to say that he received $5,000 as a "rake-off" for the sale of the yacht Enquirer to the government during the Spanish war. In refutation of that statement, Mr. Alexander sent up and had read an affidavit of Mr. Hazel recounting the circumstances of the vessel and his part therein. Mr. Hazel deposed that he had acted as the attorney for the owner of the yacht and had received $5,000 therefor. He swore that he knew nothing of the $15,611 which Mr. Mahany declared he had said went elsewhere.

Mr. Allen Alexander also read the affidavit of Mr. Conner, the former owner of the yacht, substantiating Mr. Hazel's statement.

Mr. Alexander then proceeded to explain his part of the transaction. He had received a request from Mount Hazel asking him to see the assistant secretary of the navy regarding a board of survey. He had complied with that request. He knew absolutely nothing more about the transaction.

"I indict the explanation on the house," said he in conclusion, "because a senator at the other end of the capital had seen fit to insert the statement of Mr. Mahany into the record. But I think I owe the house an apology for so doing."

Mr. Miers (Ind.) as a matter of privilege, moved the adoption of a resolution of inquiry offered more than a week ago, and which had not been reported back from the committee on invalid pensions.

The resolution called upon the secretary of the interior for the facts relating to the dropping from the pension rolls of certain widows, "especially the reports and correspondence from Special Examiners W. M. Goodlove, W. S. Harris, A. W. Room and Gen. J. H. Stubbs, and each of them relative to said widows; also all letters and correspondence by said Stubbs and the commissioner of pensions to and with said Stubbs, Harris, Room, Goodlove and each of them."

He understood, he said, that more than 30 widows had been dropped from the rolls upon the report of Mr. Goodlove, who, he was informed, had asked the widows questions which could not be repeated in the house. He also was informed although he did not believe it, that the commissioner of pensions had authorized this infamous line of questions.

Mr. Harris and Mr. Room, he was informed, had made special reports upon Mr. Goodlove's action, for which both had been reduced. The line of inquiry complained of had reference to the chastity of the widow since her husband's death. Mr. Miers had read an interview with ex-Commissioner of Pensions Tanner denouncing the propounding of such insulting questions to the widows of soldiers. "By the Eternal," said he in conclusion, "I propose that the country shall know what truth there is in these charges."

Mr. Ray (N. Y.) criticised the resolution as being indefinite and unintelligible. He challenged Mr. Miers to give the name of the widows.

"I will to the gentleman's shame," said Mr. Miers, amid applause in the galleries.

"Is the gentleman prepared to give the names of the widows who have been offended?" persisted Mr. Ray.

"I will respond in my own time," replied Mr. Miers.

"The gentleman's response," retorted Mr. Ray, "shows the purpose of this resolution. It is a covert insult on the secretary of the interior and the commissioner of pensions."

Mr. Lacey (Iowa) said he did not presume Mr. Miers expected the resolution to be adopted. "It has served the gentleman's purpose," said he, "in giving him an opportunity to make a speech. If any specific charges are made, they will be investigated. The resolution should be voted down."

SUPERIOR COURT

BEGAN ITS JUNE SITTING IN NEW BEDFORD.

By Associated Press to The Sun.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., June 4.—The regular June sitting of the superior court opened in this city this morning, with Judge Bell on the bench. The grand jury was polled and retired to the consideration of the cases to be brought up. The trial list was called and numerous cases marked, the largest number being in the divorce list. Many were disposed of by motion. The first case heard was the old one involving the legality of the sale of the Inter-State street railway to the Attleboro company. One of the most interesting cases to be heard is the suit of Charles F. Wing vs. the New Bedford, Martha's Vineyard & Nantucket Steamboat company. This is the action of the Massachusetts division, L. A. W., to recover for the value of four bicycles, smashed in the collision of the steamers Gay Head and Nantucket in Vineyard sound, two years ago.

GOV. ROOSEVELT

SIGNS REQUISITION PAPERS IN NEELY CASE.

By Associated Press to The Sun.

NEW YORK, June 4.—Requisition papers have been signed by Gov. Roosevelt in the case of Charles F. W. Neely, accused of embezzlement of postal funds of the United States in Cuba, and preparations are being made by the federal authorities for the transfer of the prisoner to Havana. It is expected that habeas corpus proceedings will be brought in Neely's behalf. Assistant United States District Attorney Baldwin says that under the original charge framed under sections 1 and 2 of the act of March 3, 1875, Neely can be tried in this district.

SEWER COMMITTEE

WENT ON A TOUR OF INSPECTION TODAY.

The sewer committee this afternoon went on a tour of inspection around the city where petitions had been made for improvements in the sewers. The following places were visited: Pine, Saratoga, Corbett, West Sixth, Pawtucket, Westford and New streets, and McKinley avenue. A hearing will be given on these petitions tonight.

MORE SMALLPOX

An Outbreak of Disease in Manchester

EIGHT PERSONS HAD THE DISEASE

And the Cases Were Not Reported

By Associated Press to The Sun.

MANCHESTER, N. H., June 4.—Board of health reports the discovery of eight cases of small-pox in a tenement house in McGregorville, this noon. Its discovery was brought about by a young man presenting himself for treatment in a physician's office, and thinking his ailment small-pox, he called in two other physicians, one of whom was a member of the board of health. They all agreed as to the nature of the disease, and an investigations showed a family of eight persons had ben sick from small-pox for two weeks in an overhead tenement without the matter having been reported. The house has been quarantined and prompt measures taken to arrest further progress of epidemic.

CAR PATRONS

MEET WITH SERIOUS INTERFERENCE IN ST. LOUIS.

By Associated Press to The Sun.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., June 4.—The citizen members of the posse comitatus had their first experience with active service today when several companies were assigned for guard duty at the park avenue, Easton avenue, and Southern electric power houses of the Transit company.

While on guard duty, the members of the posse will be subject to strict military discipline. Those not on guard will be held in reserve at the different police stations. None of the deputies will be sent out to guard the cars, the police being retained for service. All but two or three divisions of the Transit system operated cars today.

Interference with passengers in some sections of the city by strike sympathizers is becoming serious. It is as much as a person's life is worth to get off a street car along South Broadway. Men, women and children join in the assault on any one caught riding on the cars, sticks, stones and fists being used on all alike.

ANCIENTS' PARADE

ANNIVERSARY OF THE ORGANIZATION OBSERVED.

By Associated Press to The Sun.

HOSTON, June 4.—The 262nd anniversary of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery company was celebrated today in accordance with long-standing custom, the program including a parade to church, accompanied by Governor Crane and other distinguished guests, a banquet in Faneuil hall and a drum-head election on Boston common, at which Gov. Crane presented to each officer his commission duly signed and sealed.

The members assembled at headquarters in Faneuil hall and at 9 o'clock, headed by a band the company began its march to the New Old South church, under command of Captain E. P. Cranna. The route led past the state house, where Gov. Crane and invited guests were received with customary military honors, and given in positions in the column. The governor was accompanied by four members of his staff and by Capt. Thos. J. Olys, representing the company. The sermon to the Ancients was delivered by Chaplain H. R. Hoes, U. S. N.

The return to Faneuil hall was made through the principal streets not traversed on the march to church.

The banquet was served at noon and at its close the company again formed in line and proceeded to the common, where the drum-head election took place.

TOOK HIS LIFE

AFTER A QUARREL WITH HIS FAMILY.

By Associated Press to The Sun.

NASHUA, N. H., June 4.—"Stay. We don't want you to come back."

These were the words of a telegram found in the pocket of a coat which covered a dead body found on the east bank of the Merrimac river in the near-by town of Litchfield yesterday morning.

The telegram was dated Manchester, May 19, and was addressed to Herman Serbser, 28 Appleton street, Lawrence, Mass. It was signed Mrs. Annie Serbser.

Edward J. Waters of Litchfield went out on a little fishing trip yesterday morning and almost stumbled over the body. He immediately notified the selectmen of the town who in turn notified coroner James H. Hunt of this city. Coroner Hunt, upon arrival, impaneled a jury consisting of J. Abbot Marsh and Walter Morgan of Litchfield and Charles L. Russell. An inquest was held and it was decided that the man came to his death by drowning.

ONE MAN KILLED

Several Seriously Injured in Foxboro Fire

By Associated Press to The Sun.

TAUNTON, Mass., June 4.—A special from Foxboro, says:

This town is today dazed and panic-stricken. The town hall was burned probably by an incendiary this morning and though it was early in the morning, yet it has resulted in the death of one citizen the fatal injury of another and the serious injury of two others. The loss is $10,000 and the scholars in the high, grammar and three intermediate grades are now without a place to attend school.

This disaster coming so suddenly on the heels of the distruction of the big straw shop last week has benumbed and paralyzed the community and the people are standing on the street corners wondering at the outcome with the town's chief industry destroyed and no schools for the children to attend.

At a little before five o'clock this morning fire was discovered in the attic of the town hall, and though the department at once went to work, yet their efforts were in vain. Mansfield again sent her department to the aid of Foxboro and they did noble work, but the fire had gained such headway that nothing could stop it. Citizens by the hundreds crowded to the scene and when the big cupola fell it pinioned two firemen and two citizens to the ground. Eager men jumped to their rescue but it was seen that their efforts were in vain in at least one case as one man died after being taken from the ruins, one was sent to the Massachusetts General hospital and two will be cared for here at their homes.

Dead—George H. Joslin.

Injured—Arthur A. Joslin, leg broken and face smashed in, sent to Massachusetts General hospital; Samuel J. Johnson, shoulder and face hurt, may recover; Joseph Watkins, head and body badly wrenched and bruised.

The town records were saved. In the building was located the high, grammar, and three intermediate classes and every thing in connection with the school work was destroyed. The loss is $40,000 and the insurance about $30,0000. The fire is said to be of incendiary origin.

U. S. DELEGATES

TO THE SCHRIPPENFEST GREETED BY THE EMPEROR.

By Associated Press to The Sun.

BERLIN, June 4.—The president and officers of the New York Kiegherbund have returned here from Munich to participate in traditional so-called Schrippenfest at Potsdam, at the special invitation of the emperor. At the audience preceding the ceremonies this morning, President Mullen expressed in the most respected form the pride and joy he and his comrades felt at being received by their former Kriegsherr (War Lord) and assured the emperor that all the German veterans in the United States like themselves, felt that indissoluble ties connected them with the fatherland. His Majesty responded briefly, carefully avoiding everything of political import.

Afterwards, the emperor informally inquired about the personal conditions of each delegate and wished them a pleasant sojourn here and a happy return to the United States, "a country which I esteem most highly on many accounts."

AN UNKNOWN BOY

Found With Fractured Skull on Audobon Road

Only Word He Uttered Was "Mother"—Police Believe Murder Was Attempted

By Associated Press to The Sun.

BOSTON, June 4.—Unconscious and on the brink of death in the accident ward of the city hospital lies the young boy who was found in the bushes off Beacon street, on the Audobon road, late Saturday afternoon, suffering from a fractured skull and other injuries. He will probably die without recovering consciousness.

Mystery surrounds his identity and the identity of his assailants. That an attempt to murder the boy was made the police are certain. They worked unceasingly yesterday, but learned nothing of a definite nature to encourage them. Everything depends on their identifying the boy. If they succeed in this, they are confident they will be successful in naming those in whose company he was when he received his injuries.

The only theory which has come into the police mind is that the boy incurred the enmity of some person or persons on board his vessel and that he was either lured to the spot where he was found or was assaulted on the vessel and taken there to conceal the crime.

It is a sailor boy the hospital physicians have for a patient—a boy who has been away from home and loved ones evidently but a short time, and who may have been making his first trip at sea. Sixteen and not more than 17 years, the physicians guess his age to be.

That his home recently has been on the sea, and that it was a new life to him is evidenced by a diary which physicians found in his clothing yesterday. This diary dates only from May 1 and contains entries which one accustomed to sea voyages would hardly make. It is the only thing the police have to follow in the work of establishing his identity. Publicity given to the simple and boyish entries may lead to the solution of the mystery.

The diary had been kept on a sheet torn from an extra large pocket notebook. With a lead pencil he had numbered the days of May on both sides of the leaf and after about one-half of the numbers had written brief sentences in a schoolboy's hand.

From the heading of the diary, it is inferred that he was to get $15 monthly for his services. Under the date of May 1 he wrote, "I scrayed the foremast;" under the date of May 5, "Left Sa-em 3 p. m." The third letter in the second word had been obliterated by a fold in the paper. The supposition is that he had written Salem. There is no evidence, however, that he did. Opposite May 18, he wrote "Drew 2 cents;" May 21, "20 cents;" May 12, "26 cents," and May 17, "Rain." On May 8 he wrote "Laid off until we start loading." On the following day he wrote "We start loading." The last entry in the diary was on May 28. On that day he wrote, "Drew 25 cents off pay."

There was nothing on the paper to indicate where his home was, where his vessel sailed from or its name. With the exception of the scrap of paper, there was but one other thing found in his pockets. That was a small piece of carbon paper, such as is commonly used in a pocket notebook. On the back of this piece of paper, which was inked only on one side, was written the name "Harold." It was evidently written by the person who had kept the diary. Whether it was the boy's name, one can only conjecture.

BODY IDENTIFIED.

BOSTON, June 4.—The youth found on Audubon road last Saturday in an unconscious condition, suffering from a fractured skull, was identified today as Harold Poole, by several people whose names have been withheld by the hospital authorities. Poole still remains in an unconscious condition and the doctors give no hope of his recovery.

IN TEN INNINGS

Boston Took a Game From St. Louis

BOSTON PLAYED UPHILL GAME

They Gave Pitcher Powell a Surprise

By Associated Press to The Sun.

BOSTON, June 4.—Boston won a game from St. Louis Saturday that was not worth five cents on the dollar at several stages of the play.

The visitors made their runs easily, as the Boston pitchers, Dineen and Lewis, were strawberries and cream for the visitors, while the home team fought one of the gamest kind of uphill battles.

The contest lasted more than three hours and a half, but not a moment of it was dull.

While things were breaking nicely for the western men, they were a noisy lot, good natured and humorous, with perhaps the exception of Capt. McGraw, who was put out of the game by umpire Emslie.

Both teams worked about as hard on the bench as on the field, and the number of pitchers, four for Boston and three for St. Louis, will show how the boys laced the ball.

The home players did the better hitting, and gave Powell a surprise, for he has usually been effective against the home team.

With the score 9 to 2 it looked blue for Boston, and a few people left the grounds. As the Boston men commenced to crawl up the crowd grew interested, and the fine hitting was cheered in good style.

When the ninth inning came it was a case of hurry up to catch the train, but the locals tied the score with the help of the regular team and Captain Duffy as a side dish.

The visitors looked like sure winners again in the 10th, but were doomed to bitter disappointment, thanks to fine pitching by Willis and a phenomenal play by Tenney.

The winning run was made in a businesslike way. The third pitcher came in after Jones burned Tenney; a sacrifice and a single by Freeman did the rest, and a happier crowd than the Boston men would be hard to find. At the same time a more disgusted crowd than the St. Louis boys could not be imagined, as they had counted the game as won early in the day.

The fielding features were few considering the great hitting. Hamilton, Long, Tenney and Criger did about all the good work in that line.

At the bat Duffy carried off the honors with five safe ones, including a triple and a home run.

Herman Long got in four, with a total of eight; Stahl four, with a total of six; besides two sacrifice hits. Freeman, Clarke, and Tenney hit strong, while Kelster and Criger went against the ball in great shape.

The Boston outfield lost their places constantly, with the exception of Hamilton, and some one suggested that Selee work his signals from the bench, as it seems utterly impossible for some young men to remember how to play for certain men under certain circumstances.

Pittinger did the best work of the Boston pitchers, Lewis having little or no speed after two innings. Jones was a puzzle for the home team but was wild when the cheering commenced.

Manager Selee said after the game that his men deserved special credit for winning with such weak pitching. He acknowledged that the Boston club had authorized Bill Clarke to secure Hillebrand of the Princeton college team at the close of this season, and he thought there was a very good show of getting the man.

When a team can make 23 with a total of 33 off three pitchers, they should not be forced to play in extra luck to win the games, is Selee's reasoning.

The score by innings:

Innings	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10
St. Louis	1	2	0	4	2	1	1	5	0	0	—16

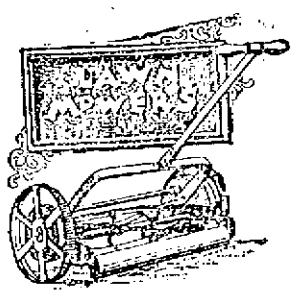

Three base hits, Duffy, Kelster, Long, Tenney, Stahl 2, Freeman 2, Criger, Kelster. Home runs, Long, Duffy. Stolen bases, Hamilton, Collins, Donovan, McGann, Duffy. Sacrifice hits, Stahl 2. First base on balls, by Dineen, McGraw, Donovan, Burkett, Dillard 2, Robinson by Lewis, Donovan, Duffy, Jones, by Powell, Lewis, Dineen, Hamilton, by Jones, Hamilton, Long. Struck out, Lewis, Clarke, Powell, Double play, Tenney, Lowe. Passed ball, Robinson. Wild pitch, Jones. Hit by pitched ball, Tenney, McGann, Kelster. Umpire, Emslie. Time 3h., 30m. Attendance 5500.

The other games resulted as follows: Philadelphia 8, Pittsburg 2 (6 innings.) Brooklyn-Chicago, called in fifth, rain. New York-Cincinnati, rain.

TOWN EMPLOYEES PAID OFF

New Town Meeting Will be Called

With two licenses within a stone's throw of each other at the Navy Yard, there promises to be some exciting competition between the dealers, Geo. Ducey and John T. Leary. Both places opened on Friday with business rushing. On Saturday the townspeople were surprised to find Leary's place closed and Ducey doing business alone. It seems that Leary opened up without having paid for his license and as the result of a complaint to the selectmen, he was ordered to close until he had settled.

Saturday was pay day at the town office and all employed by the town who were unable to get their money on account of the town meeting muddle were paid off.

A town meeting will probably be called in about two weeks to give the citizens an opportunity to vote on the proposed additions to the Collinsville and Parker Avenue schools.

BAD COLLISION

CAR AND WAGON COLLIDE ON GORHAM STREET.

Saturday evening, about a quarter past six, there was a lively mix-up in Gorham street, near Tower's Corner. As the 6.15 car from Lowell, bound for Boston, was going through Gorham street, it collided with a provision wagon belonging to L. W. Hall & Co., dealers in meats and provisions in Gorham street.

The street is very narrow at this point and when a wagon is on the side of the street there is barely room enough for an electric car to pass. The new Boston electrics are wider than the ordinary cars and it has been customary when passing this point to turn up the foot board. Saturday night the conductor neglected to do this and as a result when the car touched the wagon, it threw the latter against the curbing and it got wedged. After some difficulty the wagon and car were untangled and it was found that beyond the straining of the hubs of the wagon, and some bad scratches there was little damage done.

WHOLESOME ADVICE

For People Whose Stomachs are Weak and Digestion Poor

Dr. Harlandson, whose opinion in diseases is worthy of attention, says "When a man or woman comes to me complaining of indigestion, loss of appetite, sour stomach, belching, sour watery rising, headaches, sleeplessness, lack of ambition, and a general run-down nervous condition, I advise them to take after each meal one or two of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, allowing the tablet to dissolve in the mouth and thus mingle with the food eaten. The result is that the food is speedily digested before it has time to sour and ferment. These tablets will digest the food anyway, whether the stomach wants to or not, because they contain harmless digestive principles, vegetable essences, pepsin and Golden Seal, which supply just what the weak stomach lacks.

"I have advised the tablets with great success, both in curing indigestion and to build up the tissues, increasing flesh in thin nervous patients whose real trouble was dyspepsia and as soon as the stomach was put to rights, they did not know what sickness was."

A fifty-cent package of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets can be bought at any drug store, and as they are not a secret patent medicine, they can be used as often as desired with full assurance that they contain nothing harmful in the slightest degree. On the contrary, anyone whose stomach is at all deranged will find great benefit from the use of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. They will cure any form of stomach weakness or diseases except cancer of the stomach.

ANTI-TRUST

The Littlefield Anti-Trust Bill Passed

By Associated Press to The Sun.

WASHINGTON, June 4.—Only one vote was cast in the house Saturday against the Littlefield anti-trust bill to amend the Sherman act of 1890 to make it more effective in the prosecution of trusts and combinations, their agents, officers or attorneys.

Mr. Mann (Ill.) rep. cast the negative vote.

The bill, according to the statements of the republican leaders, goes to the limit of the authority of congress under the constitution.

All the democratic minority amendments except one were defeated.

The bill amends the Sherman anti-trust law so as to declare either contract or combination in the form of trust or conspiracy in restraint of commerce among the states or with foreign nations, illegal, and every party to such contract or combination guilty of a crime, punishable by a fine of not less than $500, nor more than $5000 and by imprisonment not less than six months nor more than two years.

It provides that any person injured by a violation of the provisions of the law may recover three-fold damages.

The definition of "person" and "persons" in the present law is enlarged so as to include the agents, officers or attorneys of corporations.

For purposes of commerce it declares illegal all corporations or associations formed for carrying on business for purposes declared illegal by the common law; provides that they may be perpetually enjoined from carrying on interstate commerce and forbids them the use of the United States mails.

It provides for the production of persons and papers, confers jurisdiction upon United States circuit and district courts for the trial of cases under it, and authorizes any person, firm, corporation or association to begin and prosecute proceedings under it.

ABD-EL-GOLEN, THE MOORISH CHIEF, AND MLLE. VERMAILLE, THE PARISIAN BEAUTY AND HERONIE WHO WILL WED.

By Associated Press to The Sun.

PARIS, June 4.—The sensation of the hour is the announced marriage of the beautiful aristocrat, Miss Julia de Vermaille, to Abd-el-Golea, the young Arabian chief, who recently came to Paris as the apostle of Mahometanism. It is a study in black and white.

Julia de Vermaille is an heiress who has amazed this capital before. She and her brother Robert, now French governor of the High Laos in Indo China, were the only children of General De Vermaille, whose brilliant conduct in the Algerian campaign added fresh glory to a name glorious through many generations. When he died his immense fortune was divided between Robert and Julia.

Julia de Vermaille, to whom the courts awarded the ownership and management of over 7,000,000 francs, then arranged a life after her own ideas. Her mansion is well appointed and well kept; her horses, which she selected personally, were of the best. Some of her deals on the Stock Exchange created quite a stir. In the big house surrounded by a park which she inhabits at Neuilly, when in Paris, out of the fourteen servants only one, her personal maid, is a woman.

Her beauty and grace were such that famous artists begged as a privilege the right to paint her portrait, the best known of the masterpieces she inspired being, no doubt, the large canvas by Clairin. Her photographs were sold by the thousand.

Two years ago she published, with her full name bravely set on the title page, a pamphlet against the subjection of women in marriage. The book set the press and the public wild. The discussion, especially in the smart set, promised to be everlasting.

One of the curious statements in the pamphlet was that the author had refused marriage offers from sixty men. Considering the fortune and beauty of the girl, the number is not extraordinary.

Perhaps to escape from the noise made by her publication, perhaps because she was weary of Paris, Mlle. De Vermaille suddenly without closing her house, without saying when she would return, went travelling.

Hers was a curious experience. She started for Switzerland, probably intending to come back to Paris after a short stay there. That was two years ago. She returned last month, having in the meantime been around the globe twice.

Abd-el-Golea, who is to be her husband, is a scarcely less unique creature. Impelled by a cold, intelligent fanaticism, this young chief came from Timbuctoo with the purpose of promulgating the Koran among the "giaours" of the modern Babylon.

Abd-el-Golea come from royal Moorish blood. His father was Abd-el-Mah, half-brother and main lieutenant of the celebrated Albel Kader, the emir of Mascara, who, until he was made prisoner by General Bugeaud, was the most powerful foe of the French and for 15 quest of Algeria.

TOMORROW AFTERNOON.

Mortgagee's sale of the residence realty known as the Atis Osgood estate, and numbered 21 Chester street between Westford and Princeton streets or adjoining the residences of Messrs. S. H. Jones and Charles E. Carter.

It is my purpose as executor of the state of Elizabeth Rogers, to sell at absolute auction under the power of sale contained in a certain mortgage deed given by Atis Osgood to Ethan A. Smith, the herewith described real estate to the highest bidder on Tuesday, the 5th day of June, 1900, at four o'clock in the afternoon, regardless of weather or attendance.

The premises consist of a modern house of nine rooms, also large hall, bath room, pantry, laundry, storage and cellar, all heated by steam. The lot has 9542 square feet of land, possessing a frontage of 94 feet; it is nicely graded and down to a fine lawn; has several splendid fruit trees and is a very shapely and handsome lot.

In the original survey and laying out of Chester street and the abutting land, the parcel with this residence comprised two lots; the house now occupies one of them; the other is a sort of an orchard lot and lawn and can be easily sold for a building lot; in fact, we believe there is a customer all ready to take it at a fair price. The estate as a whole is a very desirable one, extremely well situated in one of the choicest portions of the Highlands. The purchaser must deposit with or secure to the auctioneers $650 as soon as the property is struck off. Other terms liberal. Make all inquiries at the office of the auctioneers.

McNally of the senior class at Newton Theological seminary to become its pastor. The vote was taken in concurrence with the recommendation of the committee on pulpit supply. The society will meet tonight to consider the question.

Mr. McNally is a a young married man, about 25 or 26 years old. He is at the head of his class at the theological seminary, and has been for some time assistant pastor of the church in Brookline. It is understood that he will accept the call if the society concurs.

FIRST TRINITARIAN.

At the First Trinitarian church last night Rev. George F. Kenngott gave the last of his series of illustrated talks on "Lowell's Educational and Charitable Institutions." He spoke of the city library, the county truant school, the jail and other institutions showing views taken for his use.

FIRST BAPTIST.

"Hornets and Angels," was the subject of an interesting sermon by Rev. S. T. Ford yesterday, showing the various agencies used by the Almighty to further His work. His text was: "Behold, I send an angel before thee," and "I will send hornets before thee."

KIRK STREET CHURCH.

A special musical program was one of the features at the Kirk St. church yesterday evening. Gounod's "Forever with the Lord," was effectively rendered by the double quartet. Rev. Dr. Bartlett spoke on "The Victory of Elijah," and at the request of a member of the congregation he spoke on "Is Smoking a Sin?" in his prelude. Dr. Bartlett's remarks on smoking were as follows:

"To sin, is to break a command of God contained in the Bible, or to act contrary to the teachings of the conscience. The law of the Bible changes not, but the law of the conscience changes as we receive more light. The Bible says nothing about the use of tobacco, but says much about keeping clean, reminding us that we are temples of the Holy Ghost. In matters not treated by the Bible the conscience is tribunal. What may be a sin for one may not be to another. But with the progressing Christian some things appear innocent today, but sinful tomorrow, according as we receive more light. If conscience begins to trouble the smoker, then to him it is a sin to smoke.

"I will give, without comment, the substance of a number of letters and opinions which have come to me unsolicited. The man who asks my opinion is fond of his cigar, but says he shall discourage his son from it because it is 'expensive, useless and hard to break.' Another man writes 'I think it is a sin and an awful curse. I have been battling with tobacco for about 19 years. I say battling, for in all those years I was trying to give up its use. But I thank the Lord that since I gave myself to Christ I have had no desire to smoke.' A letter comes from a lady who says among other things: "I believe there are hosts of good Christians who use tobacco, but it is an expensive, useless and filthy habit, and there can be no doubt of the evil effects of tobacco upon the different organs of the system, for instance the heart. It is only a question of time when the habit will be stronger than the will.' She quotes Mr. Moody as answering the question, 'Can a man be a Christian and use tobacco?' by his saying, 'Yes, but a dirty one.'

"A letter has just reached me from a teacher in an institute for the blind stating that while intemperance is regarded the chief cause of blindness, tobacco comes next, and that some of the pupils in that school are in a 'frightful condition because the parents used tobacco to excess.' The manager of the New York Christian home for intemperate men states 'we teach that tobacco comes next in point of harm.' One man has called on me to say that while he does not regard the use of tobacco as a sin, he found no language strong enough as to its harmfulness, etc.

"I have been a little surprised at receiving nothing on the other side. It is interesting to have both sides represented. I might add to what has been said that an increasing number of the best firms as well as the government and railroads are beginning to discriminate against the smoker.

"My own opinion is that smoking is not a sin unless a man's conscience condemns him. But with the light we have, I should say it was pretty near a sin for a young man just starting in life to cultivate the habit.

IMMANUEL BAPTIST.

Rev. Brown E. Smith at the Immanuel Baptist church, last evening, gave the fourth in a series of evening sermons before a large congregation. "The Shout of Alarm," was his subject of last night's discourse, the others being, "The Shout for Volunteers," "The Shout for Actual Service," and "The Shout of the Campfire." These sermons are based upon the Transfiguration scene depicted in the 17th chapter of Matthew and the first eight verses. Next Sunday's sermon will be upon "The Shout of Victory."

AT THE Y. M. C. A.

Rev. F. J. Kelly of the Dracut Centre church addressed a meeting for men at the Y. M. C. A. yesterday afternoon, his subject being "The One Thing Needful."

REV. MR. GREEN INSTALLED.

The installation exercises were as follows: Organ voluntary; doxology; invocation, Rev. E. R. Purdy; anthem, choir, hymn, sermon, Rev. W. S. Fenn, D.D.; welcome to the state, Rev. A. T. Dunn, D.D.; hymn, benediction, Rev. Bowley Green; postlude.

POSITIVE PROOF

Should Convince the Greatest Skeptic in Lowell

Because it's evidence in Lowell—It's from a citizen, perhaps a neighbor—Investigation will confirm it.

Mr. Terrence Flood of 30 Davidson St., says: "A severe attack of pneumonia left me suffering from kidney ailment, which was manifested by pains in my back. I heard about the merits of Doan's Kidney Pills and went to Ellingwood & Co.'s drug store, corner of Merrimack and Central streets and got a box. His use proved so beneficial I continued the treatment until I had taken four boxes, when I felt so well I did not consider further use of Doan's Kidney Pills or any other remedy necessary. I value this remedy so highly that I am pleased to recommend it to others."

COURT DECISIONS

Of General Interest Recently Rendered

Following are some recent court decisions of general interest:

The selection of a suitable intermediate bank for the purpose of sending a check for collection is held, in Given vs. Bank of Alexandria (Tenn.) 47 L. R. A. 270, to constitute a sufficient discharge of the duty of the initial bank in which the check was deposited, but it is held to be negligence to send the check directly to the drawee bank for collection.

The rule that a carrier is charged with the highest degree of care consistent with the nature of his undertaking, as between him and his passenger, is held, in Tall vs. Baltimore Steam Packet Co. (Md.) 47 L. R. A. 129, not to be applicable to the matter of injuries to passengers by acts of fellow passengers or strangers, but in such cases the carrier's liability is held to arise only when it could have prevented the injury after knowledge or when it ought to have had knowledge of the trentened injury. On these principles a recovery was denied for injury to a passenger during a quarrel between other passengers who were playing cards in the smoking room of a steamboat.

The rule of a carrier that baggage will not be checked more than 30 minutes before train time is held, in Goldberg vs. Ahnapee & W. R. Co. (Wis.) 47 L. R. A. 521, not to be unreasonable as matter of law, and it was held not to be reasonable as matter of law to leave baggage in the evening for a train at 6 o'clock in the morning.

The theft of diamond rings from the finger of a woman asleep in a sleeping car is held, in Pullman's Palace Car Co. vs. Hunter (Ky.) 47 L. R. A. 255, to give her a right of action if the theft was due to the failure of the employes in the car to use ordinary care and watchfulness, and their negligence was held to be a question for the jury.

A statute making it unlawful to work more than eight hours per day in mines or smelters is held, in Re. Morgan (Colo.) 47 L. R. A. 52, to be in violation of constitutional guaranties of liberty and the right to acquire, possess, and protect property, notwithstanding a decision of the supreme court of the United States holding that the federal constitution was not violated by such a statute.

An act to regulate the weighing of coal at the mine which prohibits the screening of coal until after it is weighed and duly credited, if miners are employed at quantity rates, is held in State vs. Wilson (Kan.) 47 L. R. A. 71, to be a valid exercise of the police power, where it does not purport to prevent contracts as to the amount of wages or in any wise infringe upon the freedom of contract.

The rendition of a judgment against one who was not served with process in the action or named as a party until after the original judgment was rendered, but who was brought in subsequent thereto by an order to show cause and condemned to pay the judgment, is held, in Louisville & N. R. Co. vs. Schmidt, Advance Sheets U. S. p. 629, to be in conformity with the constitutional provision as to due process of law, where such paryt had voluntarily appeared in the case and actively conducted the defense.

Mutual promises of merchants to refrain from engaging in business after 6.30 p. m. of each day, are held, in Stovall vs. McCutchen & Co., (Ky.) 47 L. R. A. 287, to be a sufficient consideration to support the contract, and an injunction to enforce it was held proper in order to prevent a repeated and recurring cause of action.

The right of a stockholder to inspect and examine the books and records of the corporation is declared, in State ex rel., Weinberg vs. Pacific B. & M. Co. (Wash.) 47 L. R. A. 268, to extend to such inspection at all reasonable times, so long as his purpose is to inform himself as to the manner and fidelity with which the corporate affairs are being conducted and his examination is made in the interests of the corporation.

The effect of transferring stock in a corporation to relieve the former stockholder from liability as such is considered in Rochester & K. F. L. Co. vs. Raymond (N. Y.) 47 L. R. A. 246, which holds that a subscription to stock does not imply an agreement to pay for it in full, but is only a contract to enter into the relation of stockholder, and that, if a corporation permits a transfer of stock by canceling the certificate and issuing a new one to the purchaser, whom it attempts to hold as stockholder, it ratifies the transaction and cannot subsequently deny that the transfer is valid. With this case is a note reviewing the decisions on the effect of such a transfer upon liability for unpaid subscriptions.

A statute arbitrarily establishing a high school and requiring its maintenance by the people of a county is upheld in State, ex rel., McCausland vs. Freeman (Kan.) 47 L. R. A. 67, against the contention that it interferes with local self government.

A covenant in a lease of a portion of a railroad right of way for warehouse purposes, that the lessee will hold the lessor harmless for losses by fires set by engines, is held, in Northern Pacific R. Co. vs. McClure (N. D.) 47 L. R. A. 149, to be binding on the lessee after the lessor has transferred its rights, including the lease, to another company, where the lease provides that the covenant shall bind the assigns of both parties.

TWO MEN KILLED

They Took Hold of a Live Wire

FATALITY OCCURRED IN PULP MILL

Another Man Was Seriously Injured

By Associated Press to The Sun.

FAIRFIELD, Me., June 4.—A sad accident occurred here Saturday evening, in which two men lost their lives and another lies at the point of death. It is not known just how the accident occurred, as all connected with the plant in which it happened are reticent regarding the details.

As near as can be learned, it was a few minutes before 6 o'clock that tower Boss Eiden Foss of the Somerset & Kennebec Pulp company discovered a wire connected with the lighting department lying on the ground.

It was not time for the current to be turned on from the power station of the Waterville & Fairfield railway and Light company so Foss called Bethuan Hosman to his assistance for the supposed purpose of hanging the wire in a position where it would not cause trouble. The wire was a live one and as soon as the men took hold of it they were seen to fall to the ground.

William O'Brien, another employe of the mill, went to the assistance of Foss and Hosman, and he received a shock that rendered him unconscious and may result fatally. A message was sent to the power station and the current was shut off before anything could be done to relieve the men.

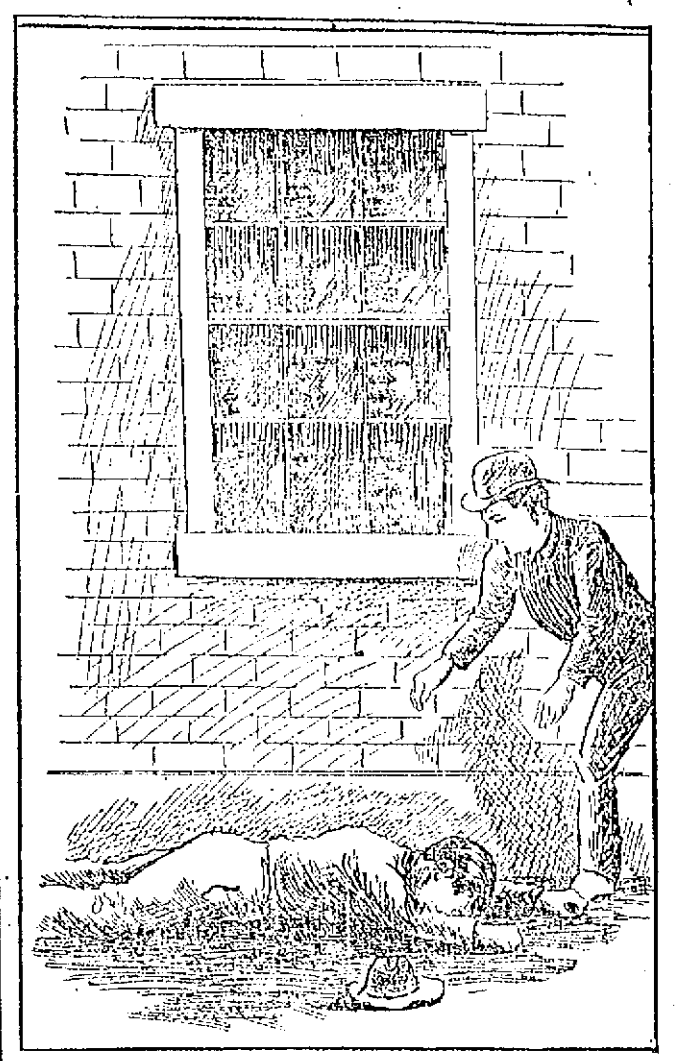

Dr. Hand was called but he found that Foss and Hosman had both been instantly killed by the high voltage of the current.

O'Brien suffered from bad burns and at midnight had not gained consciousness although the surgeons believe that he will recover.

There are several stories connected with the accident.

CHEATED

The merchant who pays for advertising and doesn't get it, cries out that advertising doesn't pay. He is wrong. Advertising pays if you get it. If you pay for any commodity that is never delivered, you lose money on it. Just the same as you lose on advertising that you pay for but never get.

When merchants learn to buy their advertising space in the newspapers as they buy their merchandise—by measure and weight, it will pay them. Buy space by the inch per thousand of circulation and see that you get what you pay for. Then you will never be cheated in advertising and it will pay you. The Sun will give you more advertising for your money than any other paper in Lowell. It is

WORK OF CONGRESS.

Congress is to adjourn next Wednesday with a large portion of the important legislation still pending. First of all the Hay-Pauncefote treaty goes over to the short session without the slightest hope of ever becoming law and with it go the other treaty providing for reciprocity with France, the Nicaragua canal bill, the Philippine government bill and the bill for the reorganization of the army. The chief legislation of the session was the passage of the gold standard bill and the bills for the government of Hawaii and Porto Rico. The passage of the Littlefield anti-trust law by the house on Saturday was significant as expressing popular sentiment on that issue. The measure will probably be passed by the senate and may receive the president's signature but even if it should become law it will not injure the trusts while a republican administration holds sway. The republicans will not enforce it. There are anti-trust laws already in force but no republican official with the exception of one, attorney general for the state of Ohio, makes any attempt to enforce them.

On the other hand the gold standard and refunding bill that practically gives over the regulation of the currency to the banks will be enforced to the injury of the people. The republicans will claim that they have fulfilled every pledge to the people and on that ground will seek a return to power. They will have some lengthy explanations to make, however, in defence of the war taxes still levied on the people, of the postal frauds in Cuba, the patronage of the trusts and the imperial policy by which this nation must become a military power to be always ready for a conflict with the powers of Europe, Asia or Africa.

THE WAR IS NOT OVER.

The war is over, say the British despatches; the war is over, assert the British enthusiasts; the war is over, echoes the United States press; but there is one man in England wiser than all the rest who says "The war is not over." Editor Stead is the man and he is not afraid to assert that the war is not over and that it will not be over for years.

The Boers will not yield, even to a force of ten or even twenty to one; they will keep up a guerilla warfare if nothing else will do; they will bide their time to strike for their rights and their liberties and strike they will, harder than ever before. The South African republics may be annexed; they may be wiped off the map as Salisbury has asserted; but England will thereby set up a new enemy that will wait the opportunity to avenge the wrongs of the past and to regain that liberty that had been stolen.

The Transvaal and the Orange Free State today are the scene of slaughter and carnage, the happy homes of the people are deserted or held only by women and children, while the men have gone to the front to fight for the right to enjoy the homes which they established in a primeval forest. They have gone with high hopes and dauntless courage to fight an overwhelming force, but alas, they have been so vastly outnumbered that many of them will never return. But the Boers have sworn to fight the aggression of England to the bitter end and this they will do and if unable to win a victory in the present generation they will commit the cause to posterity that the fight may be continued until victory is eventually won.

No, the war is not over and will not be over for ten years to come if England persists in throttling the two republics.

Another menace to the peace of Mngland's South African possessions comes with the threat to annex the two republics to Cape Colony and rule all as one united colony. The colonists have assembled in a general congress to protest against the proposition and they have adopted resolutions to that effect protesting against this course as calculated to destroy the peace and prosperity of the South African colonies and to make necessary the maintenance of a large standing army. The men who instigated the war, who fomented the discord that led to the war, will lose as heavily as anybody when England gets hold of the gold mines. Rhodes, Werner and Beit will suffer as they should, for they have been largely responsible for this terrible struggle. They instigated what the colonists term the intolerable interference of the British ministry in the internal affairs of the Transvaal, which directly led to the war and sooner or later both they and England will be punished.

The war is not over then, for although England may suppress the South African republics, she cannot extinguish the love of liberty in the breasts of the Boers; she cannot stamp out the aspiration of these people to be free and independent, and this alone will keep up continuous turmoil until England's sway in South Africa is overthrown and until a union of free and independent states is formed similar to that on our own continent. The next trouble England will have to meet will be a rebellion in which all the citizens of the colonies will unite to cast off the yoke of oppression, perhaps at a time when England will be unable to stay their onward march to freedom.

THE STREET RAILWAY DEAL.

Notice by what a quiet, skilful and effective transaction the Lowell & Suburban street railway is to be absorbed by the Massachusetts Electric company. Local parties secured the franchise on the most favorable terms because they were all men of good standing in the community, some of them men of great influence locally. Now the franchise, road and all appurtenances go over to a syndicate that has no special interest in the city of Lowell.

Is not this another example of the absurdity of dealing out public franchises worth millions of dollars to shrewd speculators free of charge?

Now is the season in which public baths would benefit the thousands who do not possess the luxury of a bath tub in their homes. But it is hard to move the city authorities to do anything except what comes as a result of a political pull.

Lowell is not to be honored by a visit from the Boer envoys. They had not the time to come this way, but had they come they would have gotten a rousing reception.

The sale of swill to farmers continues and already the ravages of cholera infantum have begun.

BOXING GOSSIP

In the future the Colorado Athletic club is to make a bid for big fistic events. Max Fields, brother of Lew Fields of the popular theatrical firm of Weber and Fields, has identified himself with the Colorado club, and all his well known energy and enterprise will be thrown into the fistic institution. Big matches will be catered for, and Leo Houseman of Chicago will be depended upon to send out the very best talent to Denver that can be secured in the east. The advent of Max Fields in Denver boxing affairs foretells much mental worry for poor old Bat Masterson's mental future. Eastern enterprise and vigor have more than once been too many for Bat.

Bob Ray gives the following in commenting on the recent McCoy-Ryan fight: Without discussing the "why" and "wherefore," I want to speak my little piece about the action of the club officials in Chicago in over-ruling Referee Hogan's decision in the McCoy-Ryan contest. I will admit that as a matter of mutual business agreement the referee should have ordered a draw at the end of the sixth round when both men were on their feet. However, it was a duty owed the public that they should have been told in advance what that agreement was, and it is clear that the desire was to hide the fact from the spectators. As the referee declared McCoy the winner, that decision must stand, and all bets, if there were any, should be governed by that decision. There is nothing whatever in the precedents of the rules of the boxing business which empowers Tom Hawkins, Lou Houseman and H. W. Smith, a so-called committee of the club, to wipe out Referee Hogan's decision and call the bout a draw. It is simply one of those strong-arm Chicago breaks. The club in the first place is simply a proprietary affair and the owners have no more right or authority to make a second decision contrary to that by the referee than I have. If they can, then any other individual can. I am merely speaking of the right of the matter, but will add that, in the face of the mutual agreement between the principals, a lot of dissatisfaction would have been avoided if Referee Hogan had declared the contest a draw. The facts that we now have at hand show that Ryan was to have received $250 of the $500, no matter what the outcome, and his one purpose was to stay the six rounds and get a draw to save his record.

It wearies one to hear the last lot of stuff that emanates from George Siler. He has now reached the stage where he criticises other referees and predicts the winners of contests which he is scheduled to referee. Siler has been selected to referee the Fitzsimmons-Ruhlin battle, and has been writing lengthy articles giving his opinion that Fitz should win. Billy Madden, as manager for Gus Ruhlin, very properly objects to Siler refereeing now, and there is talk of putting Charlie White or some other man in as referee.

George Gardner, New England's champion middleweight, contemplates a trip to the Pacific coast in the near future where he will meet some of the best men of the west. Before leaving however, he will probably be matched with Dick O'Brien, who recently put away Gardner's old rival, George Byers. O'Brien is a stumbling block for them all and is in especially fine condition these days. Gardner and O'Brien would make a bout.

Billy Gardner is going under the management of Al. McMurray, who brought Tim Kearns to the front. McMurray will get all the good points out of Billy and place him in the front rank. Billy at present is a good boxer but not aggressive enough and inclined to be slow at infighting.

Young Jack Brady of this city has abandoned the idea of being a Ted Sloan and is now following in the footsteps of Terry McGovern and is surprising all his friends by his clever work with the gloves. He made an excellent showing in Lawrence a few nights ago and is now matched with Young Maguire of this city. If he succeeds in stopping Maguire, it is probable that he will be matched with "Smoke" Connors, the 105-pound champion of the Hub. "Smoke" will certainly make Brady earn his money.

GENERAL GOMEZ

The Cuban Leader Expected in Havana

THE INDEPENDENCE OF CUBA

Is What He Is Working for

By Associated Press to The Sun.

HAVANA, June 4. General Gomez is expected to arrive today and preparations have been made to receive him with all honors. Representatives of the nationalist and republican parties will go in different tugs, each having a band and various societies will also send delegations to join in the welcome. The motives that have induced him to return are the subject of much speculation. Many believe that General Gomez disappointed at the attitude taken toward him by the people of Santiago Domingo, has come back to Cuba to engage in an active campaign for the future presidency of the Cuban republic.

It is asserted that his first step will be to bring all his influence to bear in favor of the election to the mayoralty of Havana of General Alejandro Rodriguez, partly for personal and partly for political considerations. If he can make the necessary impression upon the members of the national party, and if the result of his intervention is the defeat of Senor Estrada Mora, then the power of General Gomez will be much more generally recognized than it is now. Already his friends have issued a statement stating that early in the week he will attempt to consolidate the democratic, republican and national political parties with a view of bringing about a harmonious constitutional convention in this city in August. The authors of this statement contend that such a convention is the only path to independence.

It is reported that Gomez while at San Domingo said that while he was returning to Havana to bring about the complete and absolute independence of Cuba and that he had such a convention in view, it is also asserted that he desires if possible, to be the first president of free Cuba, but that he feels that there may be strong opposition to him because of his birth, in which event his choice for the presidency would be Carlos Cespedes or Alejandro Rodriguez. Either would receive his entire support, but he would prefer Cespedes.

The leaders of the various parties reply that the principles of the organizations differ too radically to make anything like Gomez proposes.

ELMS WON AGAIN

Defeated T. R. and T's in Fine Game

The Elms are still at it without any let up for Saturday they went out to North Billerica and "trimmed" the T. R. and T.'s by a substantial majority. The feature of the game was the magnificent twirling of "Punk" Ryan, who struck out 18 men. He received excellent support. "Joe" Tyrrell added to the features by a circus catch in the last inning.

The score by innings:

Innings	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
T. R. & T.'s ..	0	1	2	0	0	0	0	0	0	— 3

OTHER SATURDAY GAMES.

The Riversides were defeated by the Wamesits Saturday afternoon. The score was 12 to 7.

Moran started to pitch for the Riversides, but he retired at the close of the second inning after five runs had been scored. Teddy Flynn succeeded him but was no improvement, and he, too, had to be taken out. Scully was then put in and finished the game. Fiennings, a new comer into the local base ball field, twirled for the Wamesits, and had the Riversides at his mercy.

The game at Atherton between the Emmetts and the Y. M. C. I. resulted in a regular cricket score, the Emmetts winning, 23 to 10.

The Emmetts had no difficulty finding Leslie, who pitched for the Belvidere nine, while Kearns, the Emmetts' twirler, was a mystery to the vanquished players.

The Beavers defeated the Beachmonts on the old cricket grounds by a score of 14 to 8. The feature of the game was the batting of the Beavers in the third inning when they scored five runs.

GRAND STEEPLE CHASE

PASSED OFF WITHOUT ANY DISTURBANCE.

By Associated Press to The Sun.

PARIS, June 4.—The grand steeplechase at Auteuil, last year the scene of a turbulent outburst against President Loubet, passed off yesterday without a sign of political disturbance. M. Loubet left the palace of the Elysee in a landau, accompanied by Mme. Loubet, M. Combarieu, director of the civil cabinet of the president and General M. C. Bailloud, chief of the military households. Although unaccompanied by a military escort, he drove to the race course without incident, except occasional cries raised by passers-by for the army.

On descending from the carriage at the race course, he was met by M. Waldeck-Rousseau, premier; M. Delcasse, minister of foreign affairs; M. Millerand, minister of commerce; M. Leygues, minister of public instruction; M. Jean Dupuy, and many other high officials. The diplomatic corps was in full attendance, including United States Ambassador Porter, with the members of his family. No political color was given to the presence of M. Loubet during the races.

After the steeplechase, the presidential party left the tribune and returned to the palace by the same route as was taken before, arriving at 5 o'clock.

The day was very beautiful and the concourse was crowded. Among the multitude were many prominent Americans, a number of whom arrived Saturday or yesterday from London and other points with a special view of attending the event.

PIPPIN CLUB MEETING.

The Pippin club met Saturday evening but transacted no routine business other than the election of a secretary to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of J. Joseph Kelley, who starts this week on an trip to Chicago. James A. Bagley was elected, receiving 79 votes to 63 for Charles D. Monahan, Jr., and 42 for Timothy J. Feeley.

FREE TREATMENT FOR CATARRH

If Doctor Plunkett were asked what medical teaching would accomplish the greatest good he would unhesitatingly say:

"The lesson to those with enfeebled constitutions, weak lungs, or a tendency to Bronchial Trouble or Consumption, of the vital opportunities that summer offers them."

The best teaching is the teaching that will save the most lives.

And this lesson to those with the slightest predisposition to consumption will save more lives than any that could be taught.

Indeed, with many of the more serious cases—where long neglected Catarrhal disease invading the bronchial tubes which convey the air to the lungs, has taken its advance into the tissues of the lungs themselves, has reached the end of the road lined with the mucous membrane upon which it lives and feeds, and finding no new tissue, settles down to feed upon the lung cells—with many of these serious cases, treatment during the spring and summer months is the only hope. Little, if any, help can be promised them during the winter.

It is then during the summer that Catarrh in its early stages, involving, maybe, the nasal passages and throat and vocal cords and windpipe, may be most speedily cured, and the danger of its extension into the deeper part of the Bronchial Tubes or Lungs averted.

Free Treatment.

Doctor Plunkett's treatment positively cures catarrh. He guarantees that; and in order to demonstrate that his treatment will do what he claims, he will give until June 15th, a free trial treatment to any one suffering from catarrhal disease of any character.

THIS OFFER APPLIES TO ALL CATARRHAL DISEASES—TO DEAFNESS, TO BRONCHIAL TROUBLE, TO ASTHMA, TO STOMACH TROUBLES, TO BLADDER, LIVER AND KIDNEY DISEASE.

About a year ago the trouble extended to my right ear and the hearing began to fail in that ear too. It was difficult to hear what anyone was saying unless they spoke very loud to me. Today I can hear ordinary conversation plainly. I can hear with the right ear as well as I ever could in my life; and with the left ear that was almost totally deaf I can hear a watch ticking 6 inches away.

RIOTS AT ST. LOUIS

Boy Killed by Stray Bullet From a Car

As He Sat in His Own Door—Dynamite Explosion Wrecked a Cable Conduit—900 Men Now Ready to Aid Sheriff in Keeping Peace

By Associated Press to The Sun.

ST. LOUIS, June 4.—A riot of small proportions during the progress of which a boy was fatally shot and a dynamite explosion marred what would have otherwise been an uneventful Sabbath.

As a car on the Tower Grove line of the Transit company was passing the corner of 12th and Calhoun streets, a crowd of strike sympathizers began throwing stones at it. An unknown man leaned from a window of the car and fired a revolver shot toward the crowd. The bullet sped over the heads of the mob and lodged in the breast of Peter Frank, aged 16, who was sitting in the doorway of his father's house. A detachment of police dispersed the rioters. Frank's wound, it is said, will prove fatal.

Late yesterday afternoon an explosion of dynamite shattered the cable conduit and switches in the Olive street line at the intersection of Maryland and Boyle avenues. No one was injured but traffic on that end of the line had been suspended. There is no clue to the perpetrators.

More than the usual quota of police was furnished yesterday for the protection of passengers and crews as a result of the number of cars on the various lines of the Transit company was materially increased.

The work of subpoenaing citizens continued uninterruptedly today. There were 228 additional deputies sworn in Saturday and about 200 yesterday with the 400 already sworn in, gives the sheriff a total force of 900 men to assign to active duty, in response to the call issued Saturday by President Hawes of the police board.

"I'LL KILL MYSELF"

"You'll find that the way of the transgressor is hard," said Judge Hadley to Kate Itlen in police court this morning. Then he sent her to Sherburne for two years. When sentence was pronounced she became enraged. "Two years in Sherburne," he shouted. "I appeal. I'll never serve a sentence in Sherburne. I have been there twice and I never yet served a full sentence. They had to transfer me both times. Sherburne left me as I am today and I will not go back. I would rather go to Worcester insane asylum than to Sherburne. You send me there and I tell you now that I will commit suicide before I will start for Sherburne," shouted the girl, now white with rage. As she spoke she shook all over and when the judge said the officers testified that she was always on the street she replied in a strong voice, "I have been working in the Boott mills the past six weeks."

"I am sending you to Sherburne as a protection. I want to try and save you," said the court.

"I will appeal," cried the prisoner, and she was led down stairs, while her husband, who is an Armenian, went off to get bail for her.

Before marriage her name was Kate Mayo, and she war arrested for drunkenness. She has a previous record in court and when Officer Holland attempted to arrest her Saturday afternoon in Church street she created quite a scene, and several hundred persons gathered. She resisted arrest and used profane language. She is a very pretty girl.

There were forty drunks in court. Four drunks were allowed to go by Judge Hadley as it was their first offence.

Edward J. Little was placed on probation.

Michael Hennessey was continued in one cent for six months and Julia Spillane was sent to the workhouse for six months.

John W. Jameson pleaded guilty to drunkenness. Officer Holland was asked to tell what he knew of Jameson and he said that the latter had worked very little for a year or so, and had been drunk a number of times. Jameson was sent to the Massachusetts Reformatory but he appealed and was held in $200 for the superior court.

Henry Holt pleaded not guilty of being drunk. Officer Hurley said that late Saturday night he heard a woman calling for the police and he ran up Adams street and arrested Holt. The officer said that Holt told him he had only picked up his wife and threw her down again. Holt claimed that people would come to his house and bring beer. He wanted that stopped and that is what caused the trouble. He admitted having taken a few glasses of beer Saturday night. He was fined $2.

Patrick McNally was fined $2 for drunkenness, and ordered in $100 to keep the peace for six months.

George Moore pleaded guilty of drunkenness. Officer Mulrey said he met Moore's wife and daughters on the street and they said he had driven them from the house. The judge gave Moore some good advice and then placed him on probation.

Homer Brunelle was found guilty of drunkenness and was held in $100 till tomorrow for sentence.

Judge Hadley said he had tried every way to have her reform, but it seemed to have no effect on her as she would get drunk just the same.

John F. Devine pleaded guilty to drunkenness but asked to be given another chance. He made quite an appeal to the court which caused Judge Hadley to remark: "If your sobriety equalled your volubility, you would be all right. One page of this book is devoted to your record here."

He then imposed a fine of $2 on Devine.

Bernard M. Laughlin, the old time ball player was in for drunkenness. He was held in $200 bail till tomorrow for sentence.

Alfred Germain pleaded guilty of illegally keeping liquor and was sent to jail for three months.

Ellen Kennedy, another drunk, was continued till tomorrow.

Catherine Durfee was charged with drunkenness. The officer said he found her in a real estate office on Middlesex street and she was disrobing.

When placed under arrest she said she wanted to die and asked the officer to throw her into the canal.

George Arsenault, charged with larceny of a suit of clothes from a Mr. Champeaux, living in Cabot street, and assault on Inspector Laflamme was next placed on trial.

Mr. Champeaux testified that the clothes were his and that they were stolen from his house in Cabot street Saturday.

Mr. George Griggs, when placed on the stand testified that defendant went to his place of business in John street and pawned the clothes.

Defendant denied the charge of larceny and testified that he never saw the clothes or attempted to pawn them.

On the charge of assault on an officer, Inspector Laflamme testified that when attempting to arrest the defendant in an alley off Middlesex street that defendant struck him in the back of the head, and after a hard tussle and with the assistance of Detective Drury, he succeeded in placing Arsenault under arrest.

His honor after summing up the evidence found the defendant guilty on both complaints and sentenced him to three months in jail for larceny and four months additional for assault on an officer.

The case of Michael McNamara, charged with larceny of a pound of chocolates and 35 cents from Mary McKenna, was next tried.

Mary McKenna, the defendant, keeps a small variety store on Cedar street. She testified to Mr. McNamara coming into her store on the 7th of May and asking for two cents worth of cigarettes. After giving the defendant the cigarettes the complainant went into a back room and while she was there she claimed that McNamara filled his pockets with candy and took 58 cents from a small box that was on the ice chest.

Complainant's daughter testified to seeing McNamara coming out of her mother's store and also heard her mother asking defendant to let her see what he had in his pockets.

Michael McNamara, the defendant testified to going into complainant's store to buy cigarettes on the 7th of May. He said he waited 20 minutes for Mrs. McKenna to wait on him. On his way out of the store the complainant asked the defendant to let her see what he had in his pockets. He testified to refusing to let Mrs. McKenna go through his pockets because he had nothing belonging to her.

Defendant was found guilty and held in $300 to appear June 7 for sentence.

John H. McCabe, charged with assault and battery on his wife, Ida M. McCabe, was then placed on trial. Mrs. McCabe testified in part as follows: "I live in Coburn street in Centralville and on the morning of the assault my husband came around after an absence of a few days and started to use abusive language. After a while he started throwing chairs and a tea knife at me. My son came to my assistance and if it was not for him I might have been badly hurt."

Complainant's son and his wife corroborated the complainant's testimony.

The defendant, John McCabe, denied the testimony given by the complainant and said that he wished to part from his wife. He testified to having a place to go and he would be willing to pay her board.

On cross-examination Mrs. McCabe said, "My husband is of no benefit to me and has not supported me since we have been married. I do not want to live with him and am only too glad to get rid of him. He has been a great source of trouble lately and I am afraid to live with him."

On cross-examination the defendant said he was willing to live with his wife and support her but that he was afraid of her son for he had threatened him with a revolver and that complainant's son tried to run the house.

The defendant was placed on probation for six months.

STRIKERS RETURN.

BUFFALO, N. Y., June 4.—This morning between 2200 and 2500 car repairers, yard men and freight handlers of the Erie, Lehigh Valley, Lackawanna & Western, New York and Pennsylvania railroads, who quit work six weeks ago, reported for duty. In some instances there were no places for them, notably so among those freight handlers whose places to a considerable extent had been filled. The old men will, however, be given preference over the new and less satisfactory workers with the probable result that before long all of the strikers will be at work again.

SMALLPOX RUMOR

Caused Considerable Anxiety in Belvidere Today

AN ASH ST. RESIDENT REPORTED INFECTED

Health Authorities Found no Smallpox

THE ROBILLARD FAMILY LEAVES HOSPITAL

The Child Having Completely Recovered

The residence of Ash street and vicinity were much disturbed this morning over the report that a child named Ward living in A. G. Thompson's tenement block at 31 Ash street, was affected with small-pox.

As a result of the report which started early in the day a few children attending the High street primary school were kept at home by their parents and the health authorities were notified.

The mother of the child states that the little one is suffering from the results of vaccination and has no serious or contagious ailment.

Agent Knapp sent his men to investigate a similar report from Belvidere yesterday and found it without foundation. This forenoon he had the Ward case investigated and found no cause for alarm. The small-pox patients and others detained at the contagious hospital are doing nicely and the entire Robillard family of five persons will be discharged today, the Robillard child having completely recovered from her illness. The Brais children are progressing finely.

KEATING—All that was mortal of the late Mrs. Mary Keating was consigned to earth in the Catholic cemetery this morning. The funeral took place from her late home, No. 10 Floyd street at 9.30 o'clock and was very largely attended. The cortege proceeded to St. Peter's church where a mass of requiem was celebrated at 10 o'clock by Rev. W. George Mullin. The choir under direction of Mr. J. E. Donnelly sang Schmidt's requiem mass. At the offertory, Miss Louise McLaughlin sang "Pie Jesu" and at the close of mass Mr. Donnelly rendered "No Cross, No Crown." As the body was leaving the church "Nearer, My God, to Thee" was sung by the choir. Mrs. J. R. McKennedy presided at the organ. There was a profusion of beautiful and appropriate floral offerings in prominence. The bearers were Messrs. John, Michael, James and Daniel Keating, sons of the deceased, and Michael Burns and Dennis Sheehan. Interment was in the Catholic cemetery where the committal prayers were read by Rev. Fr. Mullin. The funeral was under the direction of Funeral Director John F. Rogers.

SHEPHERD—The funeral of Ella E. Shepherd occurred yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock from her late home in North Chelmsford. Services were held at the house, Rev. Mr. Dunbar officiating. Interment was in the North Chelmsford cemetery and was under the direction of Undertaker John Marinel.

LOCAL DELEGATES

NATIONAL DELEGATES WERE CHOSEN

The Old Board of Officers Re-Elected

The annual convention of the Catholic Total Abstinence union of the archdiocese of Boston was held in Boston College hall yesterday. The Lowell delegates present were John J. Lyons, Patrick O'Neil, Dennis J. Donahue, Edward F. Slattery, James O'Sullivan, Frank McLaughlin and John A. McKenna. The convention was called to order by Rev. Thomas Scully and Rev. W. G. Read Mullen, S. J., of Boston College offered the opening prayer. Edward F. Slattery was named as chairman of the credential committee and Joseph Sheehan, Esq., of Boston was placed at the head of the committee on resolutions.

There were 56 delegates present, representing 27 societies. Delegates from the A. O. H., Total Abstinence association were present and requested admission to the arch-diocesan union. They were welcomed and given assurance that they will be admitted. The following national delegates were chosen: Rev. Dr. Mullen of the Cathedral; Edwin Mulready, Joseph Sheehan Miss Mary Herrick.

The board of government was instructed to take steps to secure the restoration of drinking fountains in the public streets in Boston.

It was also voted to discuss a plan for a reception to the Cuban teachers who are coming to Harvard this summer.

A vote of thanks was extended to Chaplain Iles of the Wabash for his efforts to promote total abstinence among the sailors of the navy. The convention closed with prayer by Rev. Fr. Harry of Charlestown. Lunch was served by St. Valentine society.

The delegates of the C. T. A. union of the archdiocese of Boston in this, their twenty-fourth annual convention assembled, reaffirm their purpose of making every effort to extend sobriety by the means of the principles of Catholic Total Abstinence and on this feast of Pentecost offer up their prayers to the Holy Ghost that the spirit of temperance may be renewed in all Catholics. The convention recognizes the fact that without the aid of the church the progress of the movement will be slow and that a proper regard of our duties as Catholics is absolutely essential in order to obtain beneficent results in our work.

It hails with profound admiration the many and ever-increasing examples of devotion to the principles of total abstinence presented by our beloved clergy setting before all Catholics a soul-inspiring example which they should willingly follow. It is convinced that wives and sisters of Catholic young men who are frequently drawn into temptation can do much to prevent them from, and strengthen them against those temptations by joining total abstinence societies for the sake of example and by making their homes more attractive than the saloon. Catholic fathers above all are exhorted to expound the cause of total abstinence in order that they may successfully teach their children to lead better lives. The council of Baltimore sixteen years ago called upon pastors to induce those of their congregation engaged in the liquor traffic to abandon the business. And the convention regards with regret the failure of a large number of Catholics who have not complied with this request. The convention desires to call to the attention of such Catholics that the business in which they are engaged is the great headstone around the necks of our people; that the saloon is no business for a Catholic to be engaged in, however legitimate the state may make it.

The greatest assistance to the total abstinence movement is a healthy public sentiment. Therefore the delegates call upon the societies in our union not to suffer themselves to become apathetic, but to still further educate the public to uphold the truths of Catholic Total Abstinence. The power of the press we hold to be of inestimable value in accomplishing any reform, and while thanking the press of Boston and vicinity for its favors to our union in the past, our fond hope is that the day is not distant when the entire press with one accord will be active promulgators of our cause and principles. The convention desires to express its emphatic and unqualified endorsement of the Sacred Heart Review for its devotion to the cause of total abstinence and we commend it as a shining example to other Catholic papers. We recognize the far-reaching and beneficent results which are produced by non-Catholic total abstainers and we stretch out our hands to them, walking side by side in a common cause and labor, the noblest cause that ever inspired the heart of man.

The delegates desire to express their hearty appreciation of the zealous and untiring efforts of their beloved president, Rev. Thomas Scully and return to him their sincere thanks for his self-sacrificing labors in our holy cause.

There are several cases from Lowell, including that of David Willett, who was held on thee charge of breaking and entering and larceny; of Delard Greenwood and James Wilsen, charged with breaking and entering, and of Frank Reed and Cornelius Maguire, who were held on the charge of larceny from the person. At the time of the autopsy the body was already beginning to turn black. Certain glands had been removed from the body, it is said, by physicians engaged by the Chinese. The health officer has been instructed to quarantine the persons and laboratories of these doctors. Temporary quarters will be established on Angel Island sufficiently large to accommodate three thousand Chinese. CONTROLLER COLER

SPEAKS ON ICE TRUST INVESTIGATION.

By Associated Press to The Sun.

NEW YORK, June 4.—Comptroller Coler had a conference with ex-Judge Dillon, his private counsel today, to decide upon a mode of procedure in connection with an investigation by him of the contracts between the city and the American Ice company.

The controller was served with papers today in an action to rescind all of the contracts made by the dock department and other city departments with the American Ice company on the ground that several of the stockholders of the Ice company are city officials, and that under the charter it is unlawful for any municipal officer to acquire an interest in any contract or lease with the city. The charter also stipulates that all such contracts in which any person is or becomes interested, shall, at the option of the controller be forfeited and void.

Mr. Coler said today:

"Now that the matter is officially brought before me, I have to begin at once. I will say that the proceedings before me would be entirely formal. There does not seem to be any doubt of my right to annul these contracts, provided it is shown that city officials connected with the Ice company are interested in them."

There are more offices at stake in the contest in this state this year than were ever known to be involved in a West Virginia campaign before.

BOLD HOLD-UP

Jas. F. Galligan Beaten and Robbed

BY TWO MEN NEAR WESTERN AVENUE

One of the Alleged Assailants Captured

Saturday night as James F. Galligan was walking along Middlesex street he was met by two fellows and invited to walk over the railroad bridge near the depot towards Western avenue. He went along with the fellows and just as he got near the storehouse of William E. Livingstone, one the fellows hit him on the side of the head. The blow was so severe that it knocked him over and in falling his head struck the railroad track, rendering him unconscious.

When he recovered his senses he saw the two fellows running down the track near Western avenue and found that his pockets had been turned inside out and ten dollars had been taken. He reported the matter to the police and a little while later John Rogers was arrested by Sergeant Crowley and Officer Curran. Rogers was recognized at the police station by Galligan as one of his assailants.

Rogers' case was continued until tomorrow for trial.

GREEN OVERCOME

WHEN HE LEARNED HUNTRESS WAS DEAD.

By Associated Press to The Sun.

HAVERHILL, Mass., June 4.—Harry Green, who was arrested in Boston last night for assault upon Ralph B. Huntress at Plaistow, N. H., Saturday, was arraigned in this city today on a charge of assault with a dangerous weapon. He pleaded guilty, but claimed that it was done in self-defense. Afterward his counsel asked that the charge here might be not pressed, saying that his client would go to New Hampshire without requisition papers and this was done, Green being taken to Exeter, this afternoon.

Green says he was drunk at the time but even then would not have committed the assault except in self defense. He says that Huntress grabbed him as he was sitting in the hotel office and proceeded to upbraid and threaten him. His violence increased until Green, according to his own story thought he was in danger and grabbed the cuspidore and used it as a weapon. He left the hotel office immediately after that and did not know that Huntress was dead until he reached the court dock this morning, when he was nearly overcome. Green has been known as something of a sport, but was never known to get into an ugly mood, even when intoxicated.

During the past two weeks police officers have been looking out for sling shots and principals of schools have been asked to watch and see if any of the boys have them.

HOW ACTORS SPEND THEIR MONEY.

By An Actress.

As the theatrical season draws to a close a great many of the vast numbers of theatre goers ask the question, "Now that the time for rest has come, how do the great actors and actresses who draw enormous salaries spend their money? Do they settle down at some quiet resort in America or Europe or do they trot around the globe in search of excitement from an irresistible habit of itinerancy acquired by constant travel during their season of work?

The answers to these questions are almost as numerous as there are individual actors and actresses, for nearly every one of the great stars has a favorite way of spending his or her vacation and using up the money earned by months of tedious labor. Actors are proverbially improvident. That "rainy day" which comes sooner or later seldom enters into their thoughts so long as they draw salary. They live on the "eat, drink and be merry, for to-morrow ye die" principle; but oh, what a difference in the old age! Still they go right on with their false theories and will not learn the lesson of economy.

Whether it is the idea of sudden death which makes an actor wasteful and extravagant, or whether it is a succession of idle, empty days hanging heavy on his hands that tempts him to buy everything he sees, from a Japanese cabinet to a milk punch, who shall say? The interesting fact remains that he cannot keep money in his inside pocket.

Joseph Jefferson is wealthy, but he has made so much money that it would have puzzled him to find ways of getting rid of all of it, even had he been so inclined. He is far from being a spendthrift, however, but he supports at least twenty-five persons and gives a great deal to the poor. He takes his pleasure in painting and in exchanging fish stories with his friend, Grover Cleveland.

Sol Smith Russell is worth at least a quarter of a million. He used to be passionately fond of faro, but found that real estate investments paid better. Now, beyond a small and friendly game as a summer pastime, he does not "copper the ace."

Nat Goodwin has accumulated at least $150,000 and spends a great deal of his money upon his beautiful summer home in England. It is said that he also is fond of passing away the hours at poker, at which he is specially lucky. But this report can afford to "be taken with salt."

Francis Wilson has plenty of this world's goods, and he deserves it. The story of his courage and ambition as a young man is pretty generally known. He was a song and dance man at a salary of $75. He aspired to the legitimate throwing up this comfortable income, began at the lowest ring of the operatic ladder, receiving $10 a week. He was earnest, studious and determined.

He has never wasted his substance in riotous living. No one sees him in barrooms or loafing about the streets. To-day he is the richest comic-opera comedian on the stage. He is a linguist, an art connoisseur and the best amateur fencer in this country. He paid $80,000 for his summer home at New Rochelle New York. In it is a perfectly appointed miniature theatre. He has a fine collection of rare books and prints, and adds to it each year during his vacation travels. He spares no expense in making his home what a cultured man's ideal should be.

Richard Mansfield has a passion for collecting armor and curios. He is also fond of yachting and goes in for the sport extensively each summer. He owns a handsome pleasure boat on which he entertains his friends in a lavish manner during the "resting" season. Young Emmet owns a steam yacht, and it is his chief delight to open wine for his pals when they visit him on board the what's-its-name?

The mention of Billy Crane's name calls up visions of sailboats. Crane lives on his yacht in the summer, occasionally dropping in at his home in Colasset, Mass., just to show his family that there is no ill-feeling.

Henry Irving spends fabulous sums on the production of plays. Every detail must be perfect, no matter what the expense. For instance, the peal of bells used at the end of the first act of "Faust" and heard but a few seconds as the curtain falls, cost $5,000. He brought a church organ to this country and an experienced organist as well, besides 400 tons scenery for his repertoire of plays. He also brought over a singer at a salary of $100 a week to render one song in a play he thought of producing. He wasn't even sure that he would produce it. There is no "faking" in Mr. Irving's plays. It is said that he has a fortune, but it cannot be very large when so much of his money goes for staging his plays.

George Clark has the right idea of saving money. He believes that the time to make hay is while the sun is shining. When he was with Augustin Daly he received a salary of $350 a week. Do you think he went to expensive hostelries and hung his dress suit up in a $1-a-day room? Not he. He quietly hied him to hall bedrooms in $10-a-week boarding-houses and sewed $400 in the inside of his chest-protector. He has a farm not far from New York and a snug sum invested in bonds. So if he lives to ripe old age he won't be afraid of any wolves tomfooling around his door.

Lillian Russell has managed to buy a $70,000 house, but she is very extravagant, and they say she has not much cash, though her jewels are worth over a quarter of a million. A great deal of the "American Beauty's" money goes toward the education of her only daughter. Stuart Robson's fad is books. John Drew's hobby is books pertaining to the drama. He has a rare collection.

Della Fox invests largely in diamonds. So does Johnstone Bennett. "Johnny" is devoted to amateur photography and always travels with a camera. Mr. and Mrs. Bancroft, shining lights of the English stage, have an old hobby. It is usual with them to pass their summers in Wales. When they find a church altar which does not appeal to their artistic sense they immediately build one to their taste and present it to the church. During a recent sojourn in Switzerland they built a church in a little town which they visited.

Ada Rehan likes to pick up unique pieces of furniture for her house in New York. Maude Harrison delights in bric-a-brac. Maud Adams is quiet and studious, and her taste is distinctly in the line of books. She spends her vacation at her beautiful summer home on Long Island, riding and "looking after the farm," accompanied by her mother, to whom she is very devoted.

De Wolf Hopper spends most of his money in having and staging operas. He has never had any great amount of the gold. His wig bill is quite an item. You know he loses a lot of them "rooting" for baseball; but, wig or no wig, we all love him!

Thomas Whiffen is a book fiend, and has a fine library. Dickens is his idol. Mention David Copperfield to him and in a jiffy this is what you will hear: "The twins have ceased to derive their nutriment from nature's fount. 'In short,' said Mr. Micawber, in a burst of confidence, 'the twins are weaned.'" This, in his funny, inimitable voice, followed by "Oh, beautiful!" He actually smacks his lips over Dickens, and one can't blame him.

MAY IRWIN, WRITER OF MANY FUNNY TALES OF THE STAGE.

WILLIE KEELER AT THE BAT.

FUNNY TIMES UPON THE STAGE.

By May Irwin.

I never shall forget my first rehearsal at Daly's, or how I suffered. The play was one of Pinero's called "Boys and Girls."

I had to go on just after the curtain went up. I was supposed to smell an odor of burned fish, and Mr. Daly's directions to me were to come on, sniff, look around and sniff harder. I at once objected right out loud. "Why, no," I said, "that would be absurd. I should go straight to the fireplace, where the smell comes from, of course. Why, Mr. Daly, do your suppose if I smelled something burning in my flat I wouldn't know enough to go to the range?"

The guv'nor, that's what we all called him, must have been thunderstruck, every one else was; for the slow voice in which he said, "Miss Irwin, I don't allow this," was the least bit choky.

I saw what I had done, of course, "Very well," I said, "I'll try it your way."

And I did, but I couldn't do it. I think we must have done it twenty times, and it was not much nearer what he wanted, but at last we went on.

* * *

In a few days we reached the second act, and at once struck a similar snag. The guv'nor was sitting down in the auditorium, and his solemn voice informed me: "Not in the least like it."

"Well, I'll try again," I said, and I did. Then up to me came the remark: "Well, I wonder where you have left your intelligence this morning." It was the last straw. I had never before been spoken to like that in my life—and here it came out before all the company! I tried to take a brace, but couldn't, so I just broke down and blubbered. It was the first time I ever did such a thing.

"Go on," said the inexorable voice, and I could only sob, "You'll have to wait for me."

"Very well, skip that and go on," said Mr. Daly, and I retired to a dark corner and cried as if my heart was broken. Pretty soon Daly hunted me up. "Come, come," said he, "you mustn't do this. I treat all my people alike. If you don't do well, you as well as I will be criticised. It's for your own sake as much as mine." And that was the last encounter of that kind we ever had.

It did not take me long to understand that Mr. Daly knew more than I did, and that to learn to follow him was to make a hit.

* * *

The many stories of Willie Collier, while he was callboy at the theatre, imitating Mr. Daly behind the scenes are true. You know that guv'nor got himself into all sorts of queer postures when he was at work. He would twist one leg up behind the other and get all in a snarl. Well, Willie would get behind him and imitate him, exaggerating it awfully, of course, but following him right along in every movement.

It was exceriatingly funny, and I always laughed hard. The guv'nor would hear the titter behind him, and, without turning his head, say, "Willie, tell them to keep quiet," and Willie would come right up to me and say "Sh!" Why, I came near losing my engagement there that way.

But the story that Mr. Daly caught Collier imitating him is not true. He caught John Drew. It was one morning when we were waiting for the guv'nor to arrive. Mr. Drew began walking about in Mr. Daly's way, and along came Mr. Daly and saw it all. All he said was, "Ah, very good, very good. Willie, call the first act."

GREAT ENGLISH RACE OF THE YEAR.

And the Many Sensational Happenings Which Have Made the Derby Notable in the Past.

Among all the events in the sporting calendar in England there is nothing to compare with Derby Day and, as the result, this race, which is so soon to be run again, is now one of the chief topics of interest from one end of the United Kingdom to the other; in fact, if it were not for the war it would be the only subject worthy of being talked about.

If there is any one thing that will make the present Derby conspicuous, it will be the absence of the Duke of Westminster, who succeeded in carrying off the honors last year with that great horse, Flying Fox. Four times the Duke won the riband that is so highly prized, and there has been scarcely a race for twenty years or more in which his stable has not been well represented. Naturally, therefore, he will be missed by those who gather to watch the contest this season, but there is no doubt that more than one of the horses that appear at the track will recall the old sportsman to the mind of the spectators, as the blood of his stable is represented by more than one of the prominent contestants.

It would be difficult for one to find any event in turf history that has a more interesting record for sensational contests than the Derby. In fact, it is not necessary to search very far back before one discovers the record of an event that was sensational enough to appeal to the soul of the most hardened admirer of the runners, for, of the hundred-odd struggles that have been contested upon Epsom Downs, few have caused more excitement than the race of 1896, when Jeddah, starting at the decidedly useful price of 100 to 1 against him, beat the Duke of Westminster's colt Ball by three-quarters of a length, with another 100 to 1 chance, Dunlop, a moderate third.

AN EXCITING RACE.

It is a long cry back from 1896 to 1844—a year that will always be associated with one of the most daring turf frauds ever perpetrated. In that year a horse described on the card as "Mr. A. Wood's Running Rein, by The Saddler—Queen Mab," came in first for the Derby; but, it being afterward proved to the satisfaction of the jockey club authorities that the winner was actually a four-year-old by Gladiator—Capsicum's Dam, the race was awarded to General Peel's colt Orlando, which had finished second.

The Derby of 1867, won by Mr. Chaplin's Hermit, will always be memorable for having been run during a snow storm, and by reason of the fact that some of the most sensational wagering on record took place over this race.

It was undoubtedly the victory of Hermit that ruined the ill-fated Marquis of Hastings, whose losses amounted to nearly $1,000,000. One transaction alone made by this plunging nobleman was an even $50,000 upon three of the competitors, not one of which succeeded in getting a place. The bulk of his losses, however, was sustained through laying heavily against Hermit at long odds.

The term "sensational" may also be appropriately applied to the Derby of 1868, for Blue Gown was so badly thought of by his owner that the latter did not risk a single penny upon him. In spite of this, however, the colt won easily, in the then record time of 2.42½, and Sir Joseph Hawley, the owner, was so delighted at seeing his black and cherry jacket borne to victory in the coveted race that he presented the whole of the stakes, worth about $30,000, to "Tiny" Wells, the jockey who had sat astride the horse.

The entries for the Derby of this year are as yet in such a condition that it is difficult to even attempt to make a reasonable guess at the probable winner. Many fine colts have been entered and each of the animals is heart and soul out for the Blue Riband.

THERE IS BIG MONEY ON THE DIAMOND.

The Managers Have Arranged it so That the Teams Will be Prosperous in 1900.

The baseball season is now fairly upon us, and from this time until the November breezes make their presence felt, we shall revel in descriptions of phenomenal batting, sensational catching and a host of other features that are so dear to the hearts of those who follow the great National game.

If the opinion of the venerable president of the National League is to be taken for anything, "the present season is to be the most successful in the history of the game," and as Mr. Young has been intimately associated with professional baseball since the organization of the big league in 1876, his prediction ought to receive more than passing consideration.

Disregarding all of Mr. Young's prophecies, however, there is more than one reason to suppose that for the year 1900 the "most successful season" will be fully realized. In the first place, the National League has finally accomplished a feat that removes the greatest stumbling block in the way of the prosperity of the game.

For years past, in fact, ever since the expensive war between the players and the managers in 1890, there has been just one drawback that could not be overcome, and the game has simply tottered along because of the cumbersome burden of a badly scattered and unwieldy circuit of twelve clubs.

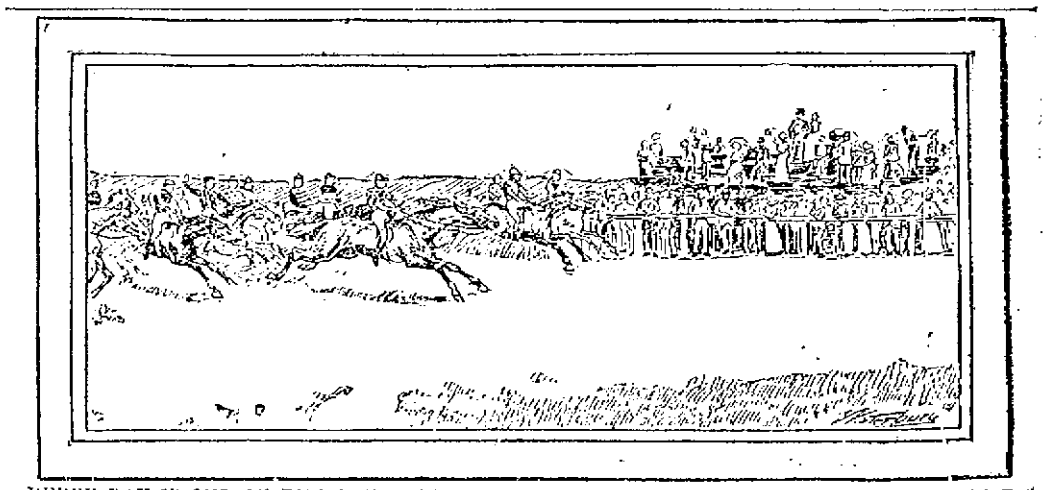

The only excuse that could be given for maintaining all these clubs was that the League desired to occupy all the available territory and thus make it impossible for a rival organization to gain a foothold. In one sense of the word, the object of the League was attained. This action effectually prevented competition and yet the necessity of carrying so much dead timber entailed a loss that it has been difficult to overcome.

Another argument that may be used against a twelve team league is that there is not a sufficient number of players of the first rank to form twelve well-balanced clubs. As the result, as the history of the game will show, half a dozen cities have absorbed all the strongest players and the remaining towns on the circuit have been compelled to accept those that have been left over.

Under such conditions it was impossible to have other than one-sided contests and it is not strange that there should have been a lack of interest and loss of patronage on occasions in which the results were already settled. People do not like to see a game, the result of which is a foregone conclusion, and when, last year, the Bostons or the Brooklyns played the Clevelands, it was a well-recognized fact that the latter could only win as the result of an accident. Such baseball contests are farcical, and it is a matter for congratulation that these conditions have been eradicated.

In spite of all these facts, however, it was with the greatest difficulty that this result was accomplished. For years baseball has been an unsatisfactory business venture, and yet the managers have hesitated to take the step that would place them upon a paying basis. According to the Indianapolis agreement of 1891, the twelve team league was to continue its existence for ten years, unless in the meantime there were clubs that failed to meet their obligations. At no time has this occurred, and, as the result, the change from the twelve to the eight club league meant the purchase of four franchises. In no other way could the league be relieved of its twelve club incubus.

This desirable and much needed change was brought about through the efforts of Andrew Freedman, the owner and president of the New York club. It is a well-recognized fact that New York is the keystone of the baseball arch from a financial point of view

STRIPPED NAKED

Girl Horribly Treated by St. Louis Mob

Clothing Torn From Her Body and She Was Kicked and Beaten—All Because She Rode in a Street Car

By Associated Press to The Sun.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., June 4.—Anarchy is rampant in St. Louis. The mob is ruthless cruel, fiendish in fact. It knows no restraint. It has no fear of armed force for it operates at night like the jackal. It does not respect the guarantee of the constitution. "Life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness."

Innocent parties are not safe, their life and limb is not sacred. Even weak womanhood is not protection against the malice of the lawless mob.

Today there were two outrages upon young women, which are not only a disgrace to manhood but to the city and to the state of Missouri.

Christine Tiffere, 18 years old, was set upon by a crowd estimated to be 500 men, simply because she has ridden on a car of the St. Louis Transit company.

She was on her way to spend the Sunday with her mother, because she worked far in the West end as a servant. She could not afford to hire a carriage to get to her parent in South St. Louis. The distance was too far to walk and get back to her employers in time for the evening. She took the only method at her disposal—a street car.

When she alighted at 9th and Geyer avenue at 5 p. m., from a Cherokee car she was approached by a young man who called her a scab; others joined in the chorus.

There was a hissing and hooting which grew into a perfect storm as the mob closed in about her. A young man grabbed at her clothing, tore off her jacket; another tore away her hat.

She was struck by the fists of men and bruised about the face and body. A pocketbook which she carried in her hand was snatched away and the money taken. The young woman begged piteously for mercy, and a big fist struck her in the mouth.

She pleaded that she was only a poor working girl, but this had no effect to stem the blows and the jerks at her clothing.

Piece by piece her apparel was torn away until she was perfectly nude, except her shoes—the center of a howling, jeering mob of men.

She ran to a house on the corner and appealed for admittance, but the people were afraid that the mob would tear down the house, and denied her admittance. She went to the place next door, but to one came.

She reached an alley and ran down it, followed by the hooting hyenas. There was a little window leading into a cellar. She broke the glass and jumped in and cowered in a corner in the darkness.

Finally her persecutors went away. Then she called for help. A little child who had been left at home by its mother came down and led the frightened young woman upstairs, where she waited, clad in a shawl, until the woman of the house came and furnished her with a dress.

Then one of the children was sent to the police station, where the girl was taken and held under protection until her relatives were notified, and she was sent back to the place where she worked, on the Delmar boulevard.

At 1916 South 12th street, another incident of the kind occurred. Stella Broderick, got off a car only to be assailed and hooted at by a mob. Her waist was torn from her by men. She ran down an alley and into the home of Mrs. Folke, and the mob surrounded the house and began throwing stones and rocks through the windows.

Mrs. Folke, not realizing what it was all about, and considering her home her castle, got a big revolver and opened fire on the mob from her front window, and they scattered at the first fire, cowardlike.

FATAL ASSAULT

ALLEGED ASSAILANT UNDER ARREST

Taken In Charge by Boston Police

By Associated Press to The Sun.

HAVERHILL, Mass., June 4.—The town of Plaistow, N. H., is considerably excited over an assault committed on Ralph B. Muntress, at the Union house in that town, and the probability is that he will not live very long. The authorities in that town were informed late last night that Harry Green was arrested in Boston late last evening on the charge of committing a murderous assault on Muntress. It is alleged that Green struck Mr. Muntress over the head with an iron cuspidor early Saturday morning and the blow rendered him unconscious.

COLOMBIA REBELS

SANK A GOVERNMENT GUNBOAT NEAR CARTHAGENA.

By Associated Press to The Sun.

KINGSTON, Ja., June 4.—The British steamer Orinoco which arrived here yesterday from Colombia reports that on May 31 the rebels were within six miles of Panama. The government troops had prepared for action; the British consul and others had left with their families for Taboga, for safety; all the Colombian soldiers had left Colon to strengthen the Panama garrison and 280 soldiers, brought from Savanilla by a French steamer on May 28, had gone to Panama. The United States warship Machias was at Colon when the Orinoco left, under orders to land marines if the city was threatened by the rebels.

The authorities of Colon had been impressing into the military service large numbers of native youths. The Orinoco brings also a report that a Colombian gunboat, the Cordova, was sunk by the rebels between Carthagena and Colon. Carthagena and Savantilla are quiet but the country is flooded with paper money, the premium on gold being 1000 per cent.

FELL OUT WINDOW

Richard Webb Seriously Injured by Fall

FROM WINDOW IN BOOTT MILLS SATURDAY

Sustained a Fracture of the Jaw

Richard Webb, a fireman on the Boott corporation, met with a very serious accident while at work Saturday night, about 8 o'clock.

Engineer Hoyt requested him to go up stairs one flight and close a window. Webb went up and a short time later was found lying on the ground outside, unconscious and severely injured.

He was taken to the corporation hospital where it was learned that he had sustained a fracture of the jaw and clavicle. He has been in this city about ten years and has a brother, John, in Fall River and an uncle, Mr. Patrick Horan of 82 Gorham street.

It is supposed that Webb fell from the window, though no one saw the accident. He was in another accident about three months ago when a revolver accidentally went off in his hands and shot him in the fingers. He was then living at 52 Bridge street. At 2.30 o'clock this morning he was resting comfortably.

AGUINALDO SHOT?

Major March Thinks Leader Has Fallen

By Associated Press to The Sun.

VIGAN, Luzon, June 2, via Manila, June 3.—Major March, with his detachment of the 33d regiment, overtook what is believed to have been Aguinaldo's party on May 19 at Lagat, about 100 miles northeast of Vigan. The Americans killed or wounded an officer, supposed to be Aguinaldo, whose body was removed by his followers.

Aguinaldo had one hundred men, and Major March had 125. The American commander reached Labeogan, where Aguinaldo had made his headquarters since March 6, on May 7. Aguinaldo had fled seven hours before, leaving all the beaten trails, and traveling through the forest along the beds of streams. Toward evening, May 19, Major March struck Aguinaldo's outpost about a mile outside of Lagat, killing four Filipinos and capturing two. From the latter he learned that Aguinaldo had camped there for the night. Although exhausted and half starved, Major March's men entered Lagat on the run. They saw the insurgents scattering into the bushes or over the plateau. A thousand yards beyond the town, on the mountain side, the figures of twenty-five Filipinos dressed in white with the leader on a gray horse, were silhouetted against the sunset. The Americans fired a volley and saw the officer drop from his horse. His followers fled, carrying the body.

The Americans, on reaching the spot, caught the horse, which was richly saddled. Blood from a badly wounded man was on the animal and on the ground. The saddlebags contained Aguinaldo's diary and some private papers, including proclamations. One of these was addressed "To the civilized nations." It protested against the American occupation of the Philippines. There were also found copies of Senator Beveridge's speech, translated into Spanish and entitled "The death knell of the Filipino people."

Major March, believing that the Filipinos had taken to a river which is a tributary to the Chico, followed it for two days, reaching Tiao, where he learned that a party of Filipinos had descended the river, May 20, on a raft with the body of a dead or wounded man upon a litter, covered with palm leaves.

There Major March reviewed his command, shoeless and exhausted, and picked out 24 of the freshest men, with whom he beat the surrounding country for six days longer, but without finding any trace of the insurgents. The Americans pushed on and arrived at Aparri, May 29. The officer shot was either Aguinaldo or his adjutant; and as the horse was richly caparisoned, it is a fair presumption that it was Aguinaldo.

The soldiers of General Young, military governor of northwestern Luzon, captured early last month an insurgent officer with papers revealing Aguinaldo's whereabouts. General Young immediately organized for pursuit, giving Major March a chance to finish the work begun in November. Major March left Candon May 20, hurrying north towards Labeogan, while Colonel Hare, with a battalion divided into two parts, started from Rangued, the province of Abra, covering the trails westward. The garrison in the Cagayan valley were disposed in such a way as to guard the avenues of escape eastward.

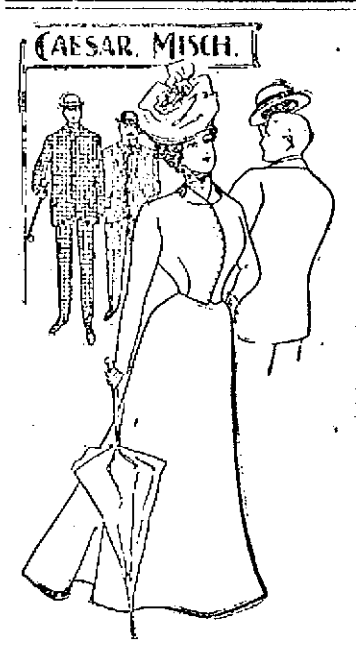

Spies heralded the approach of Major March with signal fires. On reaching Labeogan he apprehended a letter in Aguinaldo's handwriting, the ink of which was hardly dry, addressed to an officer of guerillas of the Filipino army and saying:

"There having arrived this morning at Labeagun a hostile column from Bakoo, I have set out with all my force. My road but no fixed destination."

This was signed "Col. David," a sobriquet. Aguinaldo called at the presidential, from which he issued decrees and where his followers celebrated Easter with a banquet at a triangular table, where speeches were made, eulogizing Gregoro de Pilar.

That night Major March's men slept in the bamboo resuming the advance in the morning and reaching Lagat, 40 miles distant, in two days, although it was raining hard in the mountains all the time.

Aguinaldo's papers are very important. They show that he took refuge in Isabella province, where he remained until he established himself at Labeagan, province of Abra, where he proposed to direct the rainy season operations. Until recently he was ignorant of outside events, making no pretense of directing the insurrection, happy if indeed, he might be able to keep alive among the hostile Igorrotes, who killed several of his followers.

ANNUAL BANQUET

OF THE ASSOCIATED PRESS OPERATORS HELD IN BOSTON.

The second annual meeting and banquet of the New England Telegraph Corps of the Associated Press was held in Gould's hotel, Boston, yesterday. The occasion was a happy reunion of all the members of the corps, honorary and active, and was made the more enjoyable by the presence of the New England manager of the Associated Press, Mr. John H. Fahey, who in a brief, yet bright and pointed address, expressed his appreciation of the service rendered the association by the operators, referred to the importance their work is to the success of the association and wished them all prosperity and success.

That the operators were gratified by his remarks was evidenced by the applause that followed the speech. Probably no two men in such positions as those occupied by Mr. Fahey as New England agent and Mr. Ernest M. Fisher as chief of the operators of the Associated Press, enjoy to such an extent as they do the confidence of their employes. For both of them the operators have the greatest regard and esteem.

The men in the service place every reliance in these two men, and have never had occasion to regret it, for their interests, at all times have been guarded well and faithfully.

The menu at yesterday's banquet was the best that Gould's could provide and 7-20-4 cigars were smoked with the compliments of the manufacturer.

John H. Fahey, Boston, (honorary); Miss M. A. Estes, Woonsocket, R. I.; P. J. O'Connor, Lewiston, Me.; H. C. Bunting, Portland, Me.; R. E. Grandfield, Fall River; M. A. Flemming, Haverhill; E. J. Neill, Lawrence; C. F. Whitney of The Sun, Lowell; J. J. Keating, Lowell; S. P. Nash, Taunton; H. C. Hollis, New Bedford; G. F. Cannon, Concord; P. J. Stewart, Manchester; E. C. Cooke, Pawtucket; G. W. S. Burroughs, Providence; C. A. Price, Providence, and the following officials of the Associated Press office in Boston: Ernest M. Fisher, J. A. Griswold, C. G. Rogers.

The invited guests were Fred H. Glasby, Boston; D. Roy Newcomb, New Bedford; Thomas J. Mulligan of The Sun, Lowell; J. A. Hosey, Biddeford, Me.; L. C. Wedmore, Boston; A. F. Booth, Boston.

The following officers of the association were re-elected: Ernest M. Fisher, president; Robert E. Grandfield, Fall River, vice president; Park J. Stewart, Manchester, secretary; Chester G. Rogers, Boston, treasurer; relief fund investigating committee, G. W. S. Burroughs, Providence; George F. Cannon, Concord; A. M. Stevens, Portland; James A. Griswold, Boston.

HE WAS DROWNED

Tragic Fate of a Young Greek

Had Been in Country Only One Week

Epaminondas Stathopulos, a Greek aged 19 year, and only one week in this country, was drowned in the Suffolk canal while bathing Saturday afternoon.

Owing to the fact that the mills are working overtime, the canals are not drawn off Saturday noon as was formerly the custom.

Stathopulos, with several of his countrymen, went to a point of the canal winding between the Suffolk bridge and Kitson's machine shop for the purpose of taking a bath, although none of the party, it is said, could swim. Stathopulos ventured out too far and before anything could be done he was in a dangerous position.

He screamed for help but his companions were powerless to act. Several attempts were made by them to reach him, but he was too far and soon sank.

The drowning man's screams attracted many to the banks, but before assistance could be given him.

DR. PIERCE'S GOLDEN MEDICAL DISCOVERY FOR THE BLOOD, LIVER, LUNGS.

WATCH YOUR KIDNEYS!

DR. HOLTIN'S KIDNEY TABLETS WILL CURE THEM.

The Verdict of Mr. J. F O'Donnell is the Verdict of Thousands.

WATCH FOR THE DANGER SIGNALS.

Dizziness, Backache, Headache, Tired Feeling, Pains Across the Loins or in the Bladder, Nervousness, Sleeplessness, Chills, Scalding Urine or Urine of an Unnatural Color, All Tell One Story—That of Diseased Kidneys.

As surely as the heart beats time to the life of a man so do the kidneys foreshadow death. It is simply a matter a few years when the neglecting of the kidneys' danger signals result in the life of a man and woman being prematurely cut off. When the kidneys are in a healthy condition they extract all poison and disease germs from the blood, passing them along the canal that connects the kidneys with the bladder and then out of the system along with the urine. When the kidneys are in a diseased condition from overwork, cold, or any one of the very numerous causes they refuse to perform their functions as a filter, causing the very prominent display of the signals above referred to.

Many and many are the letters that have been received by THE HOLTIN CHEMICAL CO. from suffering people, who regret with their last breath that they did not take heed of the danger signals that were given them by nature. Suffering in the last grasp of the dreaded Bright's Disease, they knew that had they taken DR. HOLTIN'S KIDNEY TABLETS their lives would not have been crushed out before their natural time. Is this not a warning to people who are rushing along life's pathway without any regard to the cry of Nature's signs?

The American people, as a nation, overwork their kidneys. This fact, coupled with the large quantity of injurious acids contained in the common American beverages, fully accounts for the surprising and always increasing number of deaths in this country from the fatal Bright's Disease, Bright's Disease, the advanced form of Kidney Disease is purely and simply consumption of the kidneys. Like consumption of the lungs, a cure is almost utterly impossible in its advanced stage. All persons mothers and fathers, sons and daughters—owe to themselves and family connections a serious duty—that of taking such steps as will insure them against premature death. Weak, overworked kidneys must be attended to. They must do their functions properly, and all injurious acid consumed through the stomach must be obliterated by means of the kidneys, and if the kidneys are in any way clogged, the proper medicine must be taken to assist them in their filtering process.

Holtin Chemical Company, New York City.

Gentlemen: Noticing your advertisement in The Star, where you guarantee to cure kidney troubles with Dr. Holtins Kidney Tablets, I purchased a box and began treatment five weeks ago. I am now on my third box and must say I never felt as well as I do at present. Before using your tablets I suffered from backache, headache, nervousness and was unable to sleep nights. My urine was scanty and a desire to urinate frequently, even getting up three or four times during the night. These symptoms have all passed and, although I feel well and am able to attend to my business, yet I intend to continue with your medicine until I am sure I have become completely cured.

I have recommended your tablets to several friends, who also speak highly of the benefits they have derived from their use. You may use my name to recommend your Kidney Tablets at any time, and I hope they will benefit others as they have. Yours Truly, J. F. O'DONNELL.
